Extension of St. John Valley Road To Quebec

Presque Isle, Me., Nov. 25.—Surveys have been completed for the western extension of the Aroostook Valley railroad, which has been incorporated under the name of the St. John & Quebec railroad, and work of construction will be commenced early in the spring. The rails will connect with the St. John Valley and with other Canadian roads, forming a link in a transcontinental route. It will open up a rich section of country containing many acres of wonderfully fertile potato land and virgin forest, as yet untouched by the axe of the lumberman.

The recently opened branch of the Aroostook Valley road to Caribou is developing an unexpectedly large amount of traffic, in both the passenger and freight departments. The Caribou extension is found to be a convenient means of communication between that town and this and a considerable percentage of the traffic of the road is developed between the two places.
