Edwin Squires

Mr. Edwin Squires died at his residence, Wicklow on Wednesday, May 13th., aged 76 years after a week's illness of apoplexy. He leaves to mourn their loss, his wife, one son Upton Squires of Wicklow, and four daughters, Mrs. J. F. Harper, of Jacksonville, Mrs. Charles Estey of Wicklow, Mrs. Clarence Estey of Florida, and Mrs. J. H. Blackie, of California. The funeral took place on Friday afternoon service being conducted by the Rev. G. A. Ross of Florenceville assisted by the Rev. Wm. Amos of Bath and the Rev. L. A. Fenwick, of Keswick. The pall bearers were Stanley White, Herbert Olmstead, C. B. Wheeler and Mr. Fulton.

A cablegram has been received announcing the safe arrival in England of Dr. and Mrs. Rankine.

The Only Medicine For Teething Babies

Mrs. Alcide Charland, Ste. Sophie de Levrard, Que., writes: "I am well satisfied with Baby's Own Tablets which I used for my little one during the teething period. I know of no other medicine to equal them." Mrs. Charland's testimony is that of thousands of other mothers. Once the Tablets are used a mother will give no other medicine to her little ones. The Tablets are guaranteed to be absolutely safe and are not only good during the teething period but cure constipation, colic, colds and simple fevers—in fact they cure all the minor ills of little ones. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Busy Woodstock

In spite of many set backs Woodstock is still a busy town.

Saturday evenings on Main street are a surprise to visitors.

There must be something doing where there are so many people about.

In the past this town has had blow after blow in the collapse of industries, which with proper management would be doing large businesses today. Fortunately, what industries are now left appear to be conducted well, and with prospects of considerable expansion. We cannot start industries by talking about them, and it is no use to start them unless they are likely to be going concerns.

In the meantime, it is up to Woodstockers to take courage. There are too many, far too many kickers in the town. In this we differ much from Fredericton and, of course we have too much politics of the bad type. There is more danger from "politicitis" a disease peculiar to Woodstock, than from typhoid fever. Perhaps some competent doctor may invent a sort of vaccination for those of us who have the political virus very deeply rooted in our systems. When he does the town wants to appropriate a large sum for a monument to his memory.

Our public buildings are a pride to the Town, and the completion of the library will add something which will be an asset and should be of great advantage to the coming generation. Without some sort of education people today are little better than serfs. You must know if you are to get on.

With regard to the Valley railway, why not take the best view of the situation? It looks as if it were to be built from Grand Falls to St. John and be operated by the Government as part of the Intercolonial. That is what we have been asking for ever since the project was conceived, and for a quarter of a century past, the business men of Woodstock talked of a competitive railway as the one thing needful for Woodstock.

As a pleasant town to reside in, this place cannot be excelled. It is the duty of citizens to put this before the public so that in time with the development of trade on the St. John Valley, Woodstock will become a residential place for the commercial traveller as Truro is in Nova Scotia.

Then we want to keep a stiff upper lip. Dwelling either on the glories or the mistakes of the past, is futile. The present and the future count. All we want—but we need it badly—is more public spirit.

Mrs. Adney has given us an account of her visit, last week, to the new piano factory at Amherst.

"Of course," said Mrs. Adney to a Dispatch representative, "I am interested in anything that has to do with pianos I had known for some time that a firm in Halifax and St. John, whom I have always known as the oldest and largest firm of piano men in the Maritime Provinces, had started a piano factory at Amherst. I knew that this piano, from a factory in operation hardly more than a year, had taken first prize, for the best piano at the Toronto Exhibition right out from under the noses of all the Ontario manufacturers. So I began to sit up and take notice. A while ago the firm extended me an invitation to inspect their factory and try their pianos, and I went. I spent one whole day and part of another going all through their factory and meeting the members of the new firm, who excepting the President J. A. Macdonald, are all wealthy Amherst capitalists. I was most handsomely received and shown every courtesy. They even went so far as to put into the Amherst papers an extended account of my successful work in teaching at Woodstock. So I felt quite flattered. But I was hardly prepared for the factory, a model for its kind in the world. No money has been spared. Mr. Macdonald was told to go ahead, spare no money, and procure the best that could be had in equipment, materials, experts, patents in every department I found experts in charge. Some were brought from Europe. The electric fan came directly from the employ of Mr. Edison. The piano player expert is the best in his line in the country. The dry-kiln is the most approved kind, with devices for registering the amount of moisture and dryness. Mr. Macdonald was very proud of this part, so important in a piano plant, and said that the Amherst plant is the first and only piano factory in the world to be so equipped.

They build several styles of pianos, and I have arranged to have sent up for my work here and at Hartland and McAdam ten pianos, which are on the way. I selected them myself. I gave the piano a most careful test in a separate room. It is in every way a first class piano. They claim that it has no equal in the world, which I shouldn't wonder at, for I don't see how a piano could be made better.

They are also putting out a Player called the "Cremonotone," which is a great piece of workmanship. It is simpler to control than any player I have seen. They also make their regular piano leaving a space so that a player can be put in at any time afterwards. I should think this a great feature in buying a piano.

The Cremonotone is now being built in part with certain American fixings. The Amherst firm have six new patents which will cover points not in any other, and in a short while expect to be making every part entirely in their own factory.

When I spoke of prices, the firm explained that they can make prices moderate on account of savings which no other factory can make. Near at hand they have finest birch and pine, which is the best construction for core and backs. Veneers must be imported through England and is a short cheap haul. Their electrical power is very low, and with economies in every department they do not see why pianos of the highest grade cannot be constructed for a moderate price, and still leave a good profit.

The output is now three pianos a day and this will soon be increased. I am having one of the Cremonotone Players sent to Hartland, for my concert, and then it will be at Woodstock."

They have given me the agency for the "Amherst" Pianos, and "Cremonotone" player piano, for Carleton and Victoria Counties, the greater part of York County and McAdam.

Mrs. Jane Palmer.

On Tuesday, May 12th., Mrs. Jane Palmer, widow of the late Geo. Palmer, of Ipswich, England, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Wilkinson, of Stickney, New Brunswick. Deceased was seventy-two years of age. She had been enjoying her usual health until the day of her death when she was stricken with paralysis of the brain. Medical aid was immediately summoned but death came before the physician arrived. Mrs. Palmer came to this country a few years ago to live with her daughter, and during her stay here she made many friends. She was a member of the Congregational church in England. She is survived by one son George now in Ireland; two daughters Mrs. Charles Wilkinson, of Stickney N. B. and Mrs. William Laws of Windsor, Ontario; and two grandsons. The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon, Rev. M. H. Manuel, of Florenceville, conducted the service. Interment was made in the cemetery at East Florenceville.

After Sardines

(Portland Argus.)

A large fleet of vessels, both steam and sail, will start out from this port in search of herring as soon as they show up, they being unusually late this spring in putting in an appearance. Quite large bodies of sardine herring have been seen this week off Clapboard Island, Falmouth Foreside, but as the fish were too small for canning they were not disturbed; they will not be long, however, in reaching the desired size, and it is expected by another month there will be something doing in that line in Casco Bay. A few fish are also being taken this week in the Sheepscott river. Advice received yesterday from the eastward are to the effect that about 100 hogsheds of sardine herring are being landed daily at the canning factories at Eastport and Lubec, not one-quarter of the amount usually brought in when the herring are plenty. The fish are of fine quality, and the fishermen are receiving hitherto unheard of prices, from $22 to $27 per hogshed. About 15 of the factories at the places above mentioned are in operation in a small way, the receipts not being large enough to warrant the opening of the other canneries. The packing season is now one month old and nothing has practically been accomplished, but the operators at the eastward as well as the local parties who are interested are confident that the season as a whole will prove to be a profitable one.

MRS. DELANCY TOMPKINS.

The death took place on Friday at the home of her son, of Mrs. Delancy Tompkins, aged 88 years. She is survived by one son, Sheriff John R. Tompkins, and a married daughter living in the west. The remains were taken to Florenceville for interment.
