Delicious Corn Muffins.

Sift together one and two-thirds cups of flour, one cup cornmeal, two rounded teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and a little salt. Beat to a cream two tablespoonfuls of butter and three of sugar.
Add three eggs beaten very light. Then stir in two cups of milk. Beat to a smooth batter and fill well buttered muffin tins half full. Bake in a quick oven.

Apple Marmalade.

Peel and core apples. Slice into eighths and drop in a basin of water.
To every pound of apples allow one pound of sugar, one-quarter ounce of whole ginger and half a lemon. Lift the apples, dripping, into the preserving pan and boil with sugar, lemon rind and ginger until quite clear. Add the lemon juice about twenty minutes before preserve is done. Put in sterilized self sealers.

Fruit Cookies.

Butter and lard, 1 cup; brown sugar, 1 cup; chopped English walnuts, 1 cup; chopped raisins, 1 cup; rolled oats, 2 cups; flour, 2 cups; milk, 5 tablespoonfuls, baking powder, 2 tablespoonfuls; cinnamon, 1 teaspoonful; salt, 1-2 teaspoonful; eggs, 2.

Utensils—Mixing bowls, 2; measuring cup, tablespoon, measuring teaspoon, egg beater, food chopper.

Cream the butter and lard together and then gradually add the sugar and the well-beaten eggs and milk. Sift all the dry ingredients with the flour, then nuts, raisins and rolled oats. Mix all well together and drop by teaspoonfuls on to buttered paper in a shallow pan and bake in a moderately quick oven.
This recipe will make about seventy-five cakes.

Lemon Sauce.

Flour, 1 tablespoonful; boiling water, 1 cup; sugar, 1-2 cup; egg, 1; vanilla, 1 teaspoonful; lemon juice, 1-2 teaspoonful.

Utensils—Double boiler, measuring cup, measuring spoon, grater, lemon squeezer, egg beater.

Mix the flour and sugar well together in the double boiler and pour over quickly the boiling water, stirring all the time until it thickens. Remove from the fire and add the lemon juice and grated peel and pour while hot, over the well-beaten egg. Mix well. This is nice sauce to serve over any hot pudding. Juice from the fruit and less sugar may be used in place of hot water

To Make Parker House Rolls.

Blend half a yeast cake with half a teaspoonful of blood-warm water, two tablespoonfuls of flour, and a teaspoonful of sugar, after breakfast, and let it stand in a warm place till quite foamy.
Scald half a pint of milk and let it cool, sift one quart of flour—take out half a teaspoonful to knead with—and rub into the quart of flour a piece of butter the size of an egg until the flour has a granulated look. The yeast being very light, mix the flour with the milk and yeast, and knead the dough till it does not stick to the fingers or the molding board, using the flour reserved for kneading, but no more. Put the dough in an earthen mixing bowl in a warm place; cover it with a light towel and let it rise to twice its bulk. Knead again thoroughly and let rise to three times its bulk, rubbing the mass over with a little butter to prevent a hard, dry crust from forming. When light, place the dough on the moulding board, roll out to three-quarters of an inch in thickness, cut into round shapes—make a crease a little one side of the middle of the round, put a little piece of butter into the crease and fold the smaller part over the larger. Put the rolls on a buttered baking pan, not letting them touch each other; let them rise an hour and a half and bake twenty to twenty-five minutes, first on the bottom of the oven and afterwards on the shelf. This quantity will make sixteen rolls. If they are needed for breakfast, put the rolls on the pan in which they are to be baked into the ice-box as soon as they are rolled out and let them remain all night; bring them up to a warm place while the kitchen fire is kindling and bake when "soft" or light.

Mr. Thorndyke replied with another laugh, and then said: "Well, I suppose you are going to be president of the road when you grow up?"

"That, or President of the Confederation Life," said the boy, soberly. "I've got 'em both under advisement."

"Under advisement!" echoed Mr.
Thorndyke. "Child alive, where did you come up with that?"

"H'm, I know a heap more," returned the boy, almost in scorn. "A fellow can pick up a lot on the platform."

"You're right, he can," replied Mr.
Thorndyke. "You've got the right spirit in you. I'd like to know you better. Keep smiling on the world, and you'll get all that's coming to you."

That night the young girl set about the task of removing the spatters. She had been looking forward to it all day, and had been expecting to find it eminently discouraging work. But try as she might, she could not keep her mind on it. The spots came out to be sure but she scarcely knew when they did. She was thinking.

"Now, of course, it will spot. That color of grey always does—I wonder who he was taking those apple blossoms to—I'd like to lend him a hand—Why, where's that spot? It was right here—He is giving up the seashore to keep that man's place for him! The seashore!—The syringas are just blooming now at home. I wonder if the new people are good to them—Those shoes are not going to look so bad after all—They said that forger was an only son. I'm glad father was saved from that kind of a sorrow—Those crab blossoms looked as if they were kissing the fireman—There's nothing like work to keep you young and cheery—I suppose I could have been more friendly to the girls than I was. It wasn't their fault that my things were spoiled—Keep smiling on the world and you'll get all that's coming to you—I think I'll go back to that restaurant myself—How much that man reminds me of father!—It would be helping him—Besides, I'll see Mr. Thorn-dyke, and maybe hear him talk—I'm glad he's going in on the 8.20 every morning."—Adult Bible Class Monthly
