THE INSTITUTE MINUTES.

The thirty-seventh annual session of the Carleton County Teachers' Institute and the Victoria County Teachers' Institute met in joint session in the Fisher Memorial School, Woodstock, on Thursday, December 17, at 10 a. m., President F. C. Squires in the chair.
The enrollment fee was fixed at fifty cents.

The following names were suggested by the executive:—
Audit Committee: Miss Marguerite Hanson, Mr. Dow White and Miss Edna Bull.

Resolution: Miss Julia Neales, Miss Mildred Wallace, Mr. Bertram Campbell.
Nominating: Miss Mulherrin, Miss Harper, Miss Clara Carson, Miss Margaret Pringle, Principal Barnett, and Mr. Robert Wilson.

Moved and seconded that these be adopted by the Institute. Carried.
The President announced that Dr. Carter could not be present on account of a meeting of the Board of Education.

In his opening address President Squires spoke of his pleasure in addressing the united institute. He wished each teacher to be ready to give his experiences as in that way one would learn from another. The subject of his address was Education which has to do with the human intellect, and the idea of which is the training of the mind so that through it, man becomes a creator of ideals and ideas. The President spoke of the means of training the mind, the greatest of which is to stimulate the interest so that the mind can originate questions for itself. In order to stimulate the pupil the teacher himself must be stimulated so that one mind reaches the other. President Squires gave his methods of teaching geometry in grade nine and chemistry in grade ten.

In closing Mr. Squires spoke briefly of the war in Europe.

Miss Wallace, Principal of the Andover Grammar School and Mr. Jonah, Principal of the Florenceville Consolidated School, spoke briefly and were followed by Inspector Dixon, who commended the president's address very highly and expressed in his pleasure which he had felt in meeting the teachers of Carleton and Victoria Counties in their school rooms.
A lesson on physical drill was given to a class of twelve boys by W. S. Daley after which the meeting adjourned.

The second session was called to order at 2 p. m. After roll call, the minutes of the first session were read and approved. The institute then divided into primary, intermediate and advanced sections. In the advanced section Miss King gave a lesson in Latin to pupils of grade seven, in which she taught the two uses and translations of the preposition 'with.' This lesson was followed with great interest by all present.

Miss Harper next read a carefully prepared paper on Grammar, which was followed by a paper on Composition by Miss Wallace.

These papers were discussed by Miss Robinson, of the Educational Review, who emphasized the importance of letter writing of all kinds.

Mr. Jonah thought that too little attention was given to Composition and that the results obtained were in proportion to the time spent in preparing and teaching the lesson.

President Squires spoke highly of Miss King's lesson and said of all language studies, Latin was the most important and the teaching of it should be made use of in the teaching of English.

Miss Neales discussed the lesson and papers given during the afternoon and was followed by Miss Fraser.

Miss Robinson again spoke briefly in connection with Latin, enforcing the statements made by Mr. Squires and Miss Neales.

The meeting then adjourned.
Walter S. Daley, Sec.
INTERMEDIATE SECTION.

The meeting of this section opened with Mr. Whalen in the chair, who by a few well directed words of introduction called upon Miss Carter to teach a lesson on grammar, the phase of the subject taken up covered the division of a sentence into subject and predicate with modifiers and the distinction between them. The first object arrived at was the complete conception of a clause. Numerous examples were given by way of illustration and the lesson was very bright, the questions well directed and interesting in general. Lesson was discussed by Inspector Dixon, Miss Milmore and Mr. White.

Miss Scott next presented a paper on Discipline. Miss Scott introduced some excellent ideas and quotations in her paper. She referred to the matter of habit and dealt with her subject along psychological lines in a very interesting manner.

A lengthy discussion followed on the several phases of discipline.

A paper on Geography was presented by Robert B. Wilson after which the meeting was closed.

R. B. E. Wilson, Sec.
PRIMARY SECTION.

A lesson in reading was given by Miss Hanson to grade one. By means of a rapid sketch the story of the lesson was drawn from the pupils and the new words were then taught. After reading the lesson a short time was given to word drill.

Mrs. Wilson gave a lesson in physical Geography, first reviewing a number of geographical terms. By means of the sand table, definitions were taught then the corresponding forms were pointed out on the map; after which the children formed them in sand and water.

Miss Lewis gave a lesson in Nature to grade three. She dealt with the 'feathers' of birds, teaching the parts and uses of each part and showed the advantage of different colorings. The various uses of feathers were also taught.

Mrs. M. I. F. Carvell, Sec.
THIRD SESSION.

The third session was called to order on Friday at 9 a. m. After roll call the minutes of the previous sections were read and approved.

Inspector Dixon spoke briefly, advising the teachers to take the Educational Review. He also spoke of the flying of the flag and school gardens.

Miss Fraser read an excellent paper on History, emphasizing the importance of that subject in connection with the making of good citizens. She showed how several topics might be taken up in an interesting manner and how history should be co-related with geography and literature. Now while history is in the making, each teacher should follow with his pupils, the events day by day. The history or our flag should also be taught.

The discussion was opened by Miss Edith Hart who spoke of the importance of teaching current events and the co-relation of history with other subjects of the school course.

This discussion was continued by President Squires, Mr. Edwin Mr. Whalen, Mr. Wilson and Miss Robinson.
