Some Tips For New Tommies

- Learn to swim.
- Look after your horse before yourself.
- Make it a rule to turn out of bed while reveille is sounding.
- Don't eat tinned meat if the top of the can is at all "bulgy."
- Don't over-cook meat. It makes it less tasty, and very indigestible.
- A dry stick, frayed at the end, makes an ideal substitute for a tooth-brush.
- The free use of dubbin and soft soap will prevent your saddle from cracking.
- The bad-living man is seldom an athlete, and an athlete is seldom a bad-living.
- The first rule when cleaning your rifle is to make sure that you are cleaning your own.
- Always speak when entering a stable in the dark. Then the horses won't get scared and lash out.
- Keep your ears open in the barrack-room, and you'll learn more there than you will on parade.
- Don't throw water from the kitchens about in order to lay the dust. It is a very unhealthy habit.
- You can extract a thorn or the sting of an insect from your flesh by pressing a watch key over the part.
- Remember that the pace of a battalion is that of the slowest man. Don't let it be you that sets the pace.
- If you are a cavalryman, always take your rifle out of the bucket when you dismount, so as to have it handy.
- Never let your clothes touch the walls of the tent when you are sleeping under canvas, or they will probably get soaked.
- The best way to clean your water-bottle is to rinse it out with boiling water to which a little soda has been added.
- A piece of string and penknife should be in every soldier's pocket. You never know when your equipment will break.
- Don't drink spirits. Beer—provided you confine yourself to a pint a day—may do you good, and act as a tonic, but spirits, no!
- When on outpost duty keep watch along your whole frontage. If you concentrate on one spot you are liable to grow drowsy.
- Cavalryman, always look round your horse as soon as you dismount, and see that there are no stones or anything in its hoofs.
- If you have a trade at your fingertips, tell the orderly sergeant at once. There is hardly a trade or profession but will prove useful in the Army.
- Learn the length of your foot, and the distance you can "span" with your little finger and thumb. Then you will be able to measure things without a rule.
- Sound travels at the rate of 365 yards in a second. If, therefore, you see a gun fired in the distance, you can judge the distance by the time that has passed between the flash and the sound.
- Don't choose a pair of boots carelessly. Make sure that they fit before you decide on them, and start to break them in at once. Don't wear them for the first time on a route march.
- Dubbin, castor oil, or mutton fat may be used for greasing boots. They will take grease better if you apply it as soon as you take them off after wearing them in the rain. The leather is then slightly warm.

PROPERTY VOTE.

A property vote of the rate payers of the Town of Woodstock was taken in the Council Chamber of the town Hall on Monday the 15th upon the question as to whether the town would guarantee the bonds of J. D. Dickinson & Sons Ltd., to the amount of $15,000. A very large vote was taken in favour of guaranteeing the bonds with no dissenting vote. Property amounting to $359,750 was represented in the vote.

"Safety"

is one of the prime considerations in filling prescriptions.

No matter how honest the druggist who fills the prescription may be—

If he is not careful to the utmost degree—if he does not scrupulously measure every ingredient to insure exact proportions—if he does not conscientiously and systematically check and recheck every detail of his work in filling the prescription, it may not have just the effect intended by the doctor who wrote it.

We take no chances. We start right by using only those drugs that are proven by careful test to be fresh and of perfect purity and full strength. We use only the highest grade and most accurate scales, graduated and other prescription instruments. We check every ingredient off the shelf, check it again when it is put into the prescription, and again when it is put back on the shelf. We don't guess at it.

We know when the prescription leaves our hands that it is filled right.

FLORENCEVILLE

March 15th 1915.

Mrs. Allen McLean, of Bristol spent some days last week at Wm Jewett's. On Friday March 12th she was so unfortunate as to fall down cellar and break her right arm in two places at the shoulder and at the elbow. It required Dr's. Brown and Summerville to set the broken arm.

The Agricultural Society held a special meeting on Saturday, March 15th. It was decided to lay particular stress on one dairy breed of cattle and one beef breed for say a period of ten years. Holstein and Shorthorn were the two breeds decided on by popular vote. The animals will be bought by the society and sold at auction to members. Basil K Ipatrick gave a good report of the proceedings at the recent annual meeting of the Farmers and Dairymen's Association held in Fredericton last week. The car of seed had arrived from Montreal and the 200 tons of fertilizer for home-mixing is expected right away. It was announced that every man would have to pay the hard cash for this fertilizer the minute he got it, as the society could not and would not do a credit business. We were pleased to see George Maddox and Stanley White of Wicklow also Messrs Sandy and Wilmot Ritchie at this meeting.
