

Take-down Emergency Oars

Owners of sail or power boats will find the take-down oars shown in the sketch easily made and of value in an emergency far out of proportion to the space occupied in a boat. A pair of ordinary oars was cut as shown, and pipe fittings were attached to the ends to form a detachable joint. When knocked down the oars may be stored in a seat cupboard, or other convenient place.—Popular Mechanics.

TO CURE A HARD MILKER

Some cows are naturally hard to milk; others are made hard by weak-handed milkers. A woman or child with hands not strong enough for milking causes a cow to become hard for anyone to milk. To cure such a cow, oil the teat freely before starting to milk, so that the oil will work into and soften the skin. Then milk the cow with as much force as possible, squeezing hard. This treatment will usually cure an ordinary hard milker. Once in a great while it is necessary to cut the muscle surrounding the inside of the teat with a lance-like knife. This, however, is very likely to ruin the cow if not done with great care to avoid cutting too much and causing permanent leakage. It also makes a sore which is painful to the cow at the time of milking, and if done when the cow is giving milk, the wound grows together and the muscle becomes tighter than before.

SELLING THE FEATHERS

How to Separate Turkey Feathers into Classes and Prepare

The following facts on marketing turkey feathers are well worth remembering: The quills from the third joint or tip end of the wing are called pointers, and should be kept separate. In packing, keep tail and wing feathers separate. Tie each kind in bundles by itself, and press the bundles in the boxes tightly. All feathers must be clean, sound and dry-picked. The wing quills which have full plumage on both sides of the quill, which come from the first and second joints of the wing next the body, are more valuable than, and should be kept separate from, the pointers. The tail feathers should be kept by themselves and are the most valuable. The short tail and wing quills, if saved, should be kept separate from the long ones, as they depreciate their value if mixed with them. The directions for shipping are to mark the correct weight and tare on the boxes, also the name of the shippers, and ship as "turkey bottles quills."

SAVING DROWNED CHICKS

Put Stiff Little Boys Into Warm Oats and Watch

A heavy rainstorm coming up too quickly for me to get my chicks in left me dismayed, but not surprised, for the ground was level, with no way for the water to run off, to find lifeless chickens scattered all about. A visiting friend declared the little chicks could be saved. This seemed impossible, as they were already stiff, but she insisted, so we gathered them up—a candy pail full. Under her direction, I filled several large pans with oats, heated them, and into these put the chickens, covering the pans with cloth and setting them on the stove and into the oven. This warmed the chickens thoroughly, and I lost only six.—I. G. Witt.

"There's Many a Slip"—
Now, probably, know the history of "There's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip," which is a translation of a Greek proverb. Anaxias, an ancient King of the Samos, was fond of gardening, and planted some vines in his garden. But he was told by a prophet that he would never taste wine from them. Time went, and the wine being daily made, Anaxias was lifting a cup of it to his lips, at the same time asking the prophet mockingly where his prophecy was now. "There's many things between the cup and the lip," replied the prophet. As he spoke a loud tumult was heard outside, and Anaxias was told that a wild bear had broken in. Hurriedly putting the cup down without drinking, he Fished out to join the hunt against the bear, and was killed. And the prophet's remark, turned into a hexameter verse, passed into a proverb.

Name New Station Petain

In honor of the gallant French general who was in command of the operations at Verdun during the terrible onslaughts delivered by the Germans, the junction point of the Kettle Valley Railway with the main line of the C.P.R., near the station of Hope, on the north side of the Fraser River, has been named Petain.

Dr. Manzer Will Resume Profession

Having been requested by so many of my old patients to do some Dental Work for them I have decided for a short time, or until further notice, to open an office at my Residence, Chapel Street, opposite the Armoury. It was also my aim during my seventeen years' practice to give my patients the best of materials and the most modern appliances to operate with. I have equipped a new office and am now ready to do all kinds of Crown and Bridge Work, make Artificial Teeth, put in Fillings of all kinds or do any kind of Dental Work.

I am still using my old prescription in the painless extracting of teeth and also administer gas and ether.

It is a growing custom now for Dental Surgeons to have their office at their residence. This is a great advantage in many ways to patients as they are always able to find the doctor at any time of day or night. Another is being on the ground floor as many patients object to climbing a flight of stairs and still another—they have all the comforts of a modern home while waiting their turn for an operation.

I will as formerly give special attention to all diseases of the mouth, nose and throat. The specialist today is the man to consult as he has the experience in seeing and operating upon so many special cases.

Make appointments by phone 10-11, by mail or at my office.

I thank you for past favors and hope to see all my old patients back and many new ones.

Bulgaria Is Becoming Uneasy

Berlin, June 28.—Sofia reports indicate that Bulgaria is uneasy, owing to the possible consequences of Greece's capitulation to the Entente demands. It is said that official Bulgarian circles declare Bulgaria would be forced to regard Greece under the dictatorship of Venizelos and obeying Entente orders as an open enemy.

Sofia feels that Greece's capitulation has caused the whole Balkan problem to enter a new stage. The effects of the changed situation are already making themselves felt in Sofia and Bucharest. While recognizing Greece's goodwill to further maintain neutrality, Sofia regards Greece's future attitude as most difficult.

Athens, June 28, via London.—The situation in Greece remains critical and full of uncertainty, although the demands of the Allies are being rapidly carried out. The royal decree for the general demobilization of the Greek army was signed by King Constantine yesterday afternoon and a Venizelos adherent, Zymbrakakis, will be sworn in as chief of police to-day. Rear Admiral Damianos has been appointed minister of marine. Rear Admiral Coundouritis, who was first named, refused the appointment.
