Rheumatism In The Blood

It Can Only Be Cured by Thoroughly Enriching the Blood Supply

Not so long ago rheumatism was looked upon as a pain in the muscles or joints brought on by exposure to dampness or bad weather. Now doctors know that it is rooted in the blood, and while exposure may start the pain, nothing but the renewal of the poisonous acid from the blood will cure the trouble. It is a waste of both time and money to try to cure rheumatism with liniments, poultices or anything that only goes skin deep. Rubbing lotions into the skin may give temporary relief, but it actually helps to circulate the poisonous acid more freely and thus in the end increases the trouble, and perhaps leaves the sufferer permanently crippled. The one cure, the only cure for rheumatism is to drive the acid which causes the trouble out of the blood. To do this no other remedy can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which actually make new blood, sweeps out the poisonous acid, loosens the stiffened, aching joints, and bring good health and comfort. Here is the proof. Mr. Joseph Crouse, of Ninevan, N. S., says: "For several years I was severely afflicted with rheumatism. The trouble seemed to locate in all the joints in my body, and my suffering at times was most intense, and the disease greatly interfered with my activity. I doctored steadily for a long time, but the trouble was obstinate and did not yield in the least to the doctors' treatment. One day a friend told me of some cures of rheumatism by the use of Dr. Pink Pills, and strongly advised me to try them, I did so and to my great surprise eight boxes completely cured me of the trouble, and I was as supple, active and free from pain, as ever I had been in my life. Better still, I have never felt a symptom of the trouble since."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Women's Institutes In Session

St. John Globe

The Women's Institutes of New Brunswick opened their fourth annual meeting in Germain Street Baptist church Wednesday morning.

Two hundred delegates registered, after which Mr. J. B. Daggett, Secretary of Agriculture, Fredericton, made a short address, congratulating the various branches of the Institute on the good work done during the past year. He also extended his congratulations to the supervisor for the excellent record she had made. He spoke of the anxiety of women having friends and relatives at the front. He could imagine what their anxiety must be by what he himself felt over a friend dearer than a brother who has been at the front for twelve months. He hoped that before another annual convention would meet the war would have ceased. In the meantime it was for everyone to do one's duty. Mr. Daggett made reference to the advisability or not of holding the annual conventions in different cities and country districts. He then paid a strong tribute to the home as an institution, saying that it was the one institution to be maintained if other institutions are to survive. Back of the state, back of the church is the home; if the home is not what it should be there are perilous times ahead for the church and state. The splendid men who have gone to the front are members of good Canadian homes. The tendency to day regarding the home is somewhat alarming, and he believed the ladies of the Women's Institute were moving along the right lines in combatting these evils.

Following Mr. Daggett's remarks, the supervisor, Miss Hazel E. Winter, asked to have all standard certificates handed in by Thursday morning. She then stated that through the generosity of Mr. Walter H. Goiding the ladies of the Institute were invited to attend this afternoon's performance at the Imperial Theatre and to make an inspection of the building. Also that tea would be served in the church about 4:30 o'clock this afternoon by ladies of the Red Cross Society. A committee would be on hand to speak on the work of the society.

Miss Winter then delivered the annual report of the supervisors of the Women's Institutes. The report received marked attention and evidently made a favorable impression. Miss Winter described the aims and purposes and work of the Institute. The total sum of $16,285.98 was raised last year. Of this $4,189.47 has been spent on material to make up for the soldiers and hospitals, and $312.16 is on hand. Paid members of the Institute number 2,353.

Detailed reports were read by representatives of Institutes from Petitcodiac, South Tilley, Nashwasia and Williamsbury of work done during the past year.

$100—Reward—$100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Cure that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Homage to the British

(L'Echo de Paris)

The courage of our admirable "Poilus" has been extraordinary, but let us render homage with profound gratitude to the British Army. In the course of time it will come to be recognized how formidable has been Great Britain's effort in every respect—Army, war material, munitions, and her Flying Corps. It would be impossible to exaggerate the importance of the successes achieved by the troops led by Sir Douglas Haig.

GIN PILLS

FOR THE KIDNEYS

A WALRUS ON LAND.

The Awkward and Bulky Creature is Almost Helpless.

As might be expected, a walrus is about as helpless on land as a canal boat. It is with no little difficulty and much hitching and floundering that he drags his huge bulk upon a sandy shore even with the boosting he gets from behind by the breakers as they roll in and dash against him.

His hind flippers are of little use on land, and on sand or pebbles, where his front flippers do not hold well, the labor of floundering forward is so great that he never stirs beyond the edge of the water and usually lies with his body half awash, with the salt spray dashing over him like torrents of rain. On solid rock or ice he gets along much better, and often a herd will spread several rods back from the water's edge.

The females and younger walruses have far less development of neck to incumber them and therefore enjoy more freedom of motion than the old males, who actually seem a great burden to themselves. These creatures are strictly social in their habits and always go in herds, whether traveling, feeding, fighting or resting ashore. In the days before the slaughter of all living creatures became a ruling passion in the breast of man the Pacific species inhabited the whole of Bering sea and staid in herds which often contained thousands and even tens of thousands of individuals.

Gave Himself Away.

A man who is steadily employed finally had a day off and decided to go fishing, taking his luncheon with him. When he reached the creek he discovered that he had dropped the lunch packet somewhere on the road and hastened back to look for it. Presently he met a husky negro, who was looking happy and picking his teeth.

"Did you find anything on the road as you came along?" asked the gentleman.

"No, sah," answered the negro. "I didn't find nothing. Couldn't a dog have found it and eat it up?"—Everybody's.

Cleopatra's Pearl.

Most persons know the story that is told of Cleopatra to illustrate her luxurious habits of living—that she dissolved in her wine a precious pearl. No one seems yet to have questioned what must have been the effect upon the drink, but scientists scoff at the possibility of such solution. The fact is pearls are not soluble in wine. The most powerful vinegar affects them slowly and never entirely dissolves them, for the organic matter remains behind in the shape of a spongy mass that is larger than the original pearl.—New York Press.

Forcing Plant Growth.

The method of forcing plants by treatment with ether, as first suggested by Johanssen, is now extensively used on a commercial scale for the purpose of securing out of season flowers and fruit. This process, however, will in all probability soon be replaced by the equally effective and less expensive method just described by Professor Molisch in a pamphlet called Das Warmbad. The only treatment required is that of immersing the shoots by inversion in water at 30 to 35 degrees C. for nine or twelve hours and afterward keeping the plants in a dark, moist chamber at a temperature of about 25 degrees until the leaves commence to appear, after which the plants are grown under ordinary greenhouse conditions. Lillacs, azaleas, spiraeas, etc., treated as above during the middle of November were in bloom at Christmas or early in January, whereas untreated plants of the same kind had not commenced to move.

Her Last Card.

"I want a new bonnet, but my husband says he can't afford it."
"Is that final, do you suppose?"
"He says it is, but I won't know until tonight."
"Going to get a definite answer then?"
"Yes, I'm going to settle it one way or the other. I'm going to start to cry when he gets home, and if that doesn't work there'll be no new bonnet."—Detroit Free Press.

All's Fish For the Doctor's Net.

"Why, the size of your bill," cried the angry patient to the doctor, "makes me bill all over!"
"Ah!" said the eminent practitioner calmly. "That will be just $20 more for sterilizing your system."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Purpose and Success.

It is the old lesson a worthy purpose, patient energy for its accomplishment, a resoluteness undaunted by difficulties, and then success.—W. M. Pugh

Helping the Books.

Persons about to install new libraries or those who find their books in bad condition will be glad of the advice offered on this subject by a writer in Les Annales (Paris). Glass cases should always be avoided except for a few precious volumes which are specially looked after and frequently dusted since the confined atmosphere and lack of air circulation in such book-cases are favorable to the development of germs, insects and mold. "Secondly," adds the Scientific American, "the simple precaution should be taken of placing on the shelves behind the books strips of cloth or flannel moistened with benzine, phenol, tobacco juice or turpentine. These strips give excellent results if renewed from time to time."

A PLEA THAT WON THE JURY.

How an Eloquent Kentucky Lawyer Freed a Guilty Man.

John J. Crittenden, the eloquent Kentucky lawyer of a past generation, was once defending a murderer. Every one knew the man was guilty, but the eloquence of Crittenden saved him. "Gentlemen," said Crittenden at the end of his great plea, "to err is human, to forgive divine." When God conceived the thought of man's creation he called to him three ministering virtues, who wait constantly upon the throne—justice, truth and mercy—and thus addressed them:

"Shall we make this man?"
"O God, make him not," said Justice sternly, "for he will surely trample upon thy laws."

"And Truth, what sayest thou?"
"O God, make him not, for none but God is perfect, and he will surely sin against thee."

"And Mercy, what sayest thou?"
"Then Mercy, dropping upon her knees and looking up through her tears, exclaimed:

"O God, make him! I will watch over him with my care through all the dark paths he may have to tread."

"Then brothers, God made man and said to him: 'O man, thou art the child of Mercy. Go and deal mercifully with all thy brothers.'"—Denver Republican.
