

FINE PARCEL CARRIER

A Few Paper Bags and Some Twine as Good as a Wagon

The comic supplement artists who gain money and fame by depicting the weary family man plodding homeward carrying a miscellaneous collection of boxes and bags are weeping and wailing and gnashing their teeth. A Londoner has devised a way of carrying a bag that cuts out half the labor.

Some humorists might declare the only way to do this is to have the packages sent home in a delivery wagon. The man carries his, but he doesn't pile them up in his arms nor is he worried all the time whether or not one or more of them will fall by the wayside.

The gentleman simply uses a common paper bag and a string or a collection of paper bags and several strings, as the occasion might demand.

He fashioned a handle for each bag he carries in so simple a way that it seems almost too good to be true. But the handle holds, no matter what weight is placed on it if the directions that are perfectly apparent in the four illustrations are carefully followed.

Tongue Tied Shoes

The leather tongues of laced shoes have a bad habit of slipping down into the shoe by wrinkling. The wrinkles cause more or less pain and sometimes raise a blister on the ankle and instep.

To keep the tongue always in place those tied in facing the shoe, in such a position that the lacing cross under it near the top of the shoe. If the lacing are always caught under this hook in lacing up the shoe the tongue will never slip.

HARNESS A SUNBEAM FOR MAGIC LANTERN

It is not necessary to wait for night to use a magic lantern, nor is it absolutely essential to have a lamp to furnish the light. The sun is one of the very best little illuminators in the business and a beam of sunlight, properly harnessed, can operate any magic lantern.

The lantern is placed on a table near a window on which the sun is shining. The window shade is pulled down almost to the level of the top of the lantern and the remaining space of the window is covered with heavy paper with a round hole in it that is on a perfect horizontal line with the lens.

A mirror is then placed outside the window and tilted so that the bright sunlight is directed through the hole in the paper and thus through the lens. That is all that will be found necessary to give the best sort of light for any ordinary lantern slides.

Consternation Caused in Hungary

LONDON, Feb. 25.—A despatch to the Morning Post from Budapest, says: "Consternation has been caused among the bakers and peasantry throughout the country, who are hiding enormous quantities of flour and wheat, through the inauguration of a new method for a proportionate distribution of footstuffs, under which the authorities have begun a systematic search and are confiscating all hidden stocks. The entire country is divided into districts, and 6,000 inspectors are employed in the search. Prizes have been offered to persons giving information concerning hidden stocks."

LONDON, Feb. 25.—According to the Times Madrid correspondent, the steamer Westburn was destroyed in order to avoid being taken by a British cruiser, which left Tenerife immediately after the arrival of the Westburn with the intention of capturing her when she left Spanish waters.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—(Toronto Globe.)—The career of the British steamer Westburn, which put in Tenerife, yesterday, in charge of a German prize crew, believed to have been the German raider Moewe, has been ended in a highly dramatic manner. She was taken out of the harbor by her German crew to day and blown up in sight of a British cruiser, which was lying in wait to recapture her, just outside of the three-mile limit. A despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Madrid says that when the Westburn was captured her name was changed to the Moewe, and that the original German raider named the Moewe was then sunk.

This action was taken, the despatch says, because the original Moewe had been badly damaged. (Despatches indicate that the exploits of the Westburn's German crew was fully as remarkable as that of the prize crew which brought the steamer Appam into Newport News.

With her 206 passengers taken from various vessels on board the Westburn, on her way to Tenerife, passed several British and French warships, without exciting suspicion. The Times despatches state that she was under the command of Captain Badewitz, of the German navy.

Upon arrival in Santa Cruz harbor, Captain Badewitz was informed by the Spanish authorities that the Westburn would be returned to her British owners if he decided to intern her.

Mixed.

There is a man living in Langhorne, Pa., who amuses himself by grafting all sorts of plants upon other plants. He has invented the "table d'hote" tree, formerly a peach tree that did its full duty in bearing peaches but that now bears apples, plums and cherries as well besides supporting grafts of cedar, rose-hemlock, blackberry and lilac. With what curiosity the peach tree's relatives must look upon it!

In Mexican houses.

There are rarely fireplaces or stoves in Mexican houses. Of course, in the tropics these are not required, but in the cities of the uplands it is often bitterly cold. There is a popular belief that warming the air of a room by artificial heat in the rarefied air of the uplands induces pneumonia, but it is doubtful if this has any real foundation. And the Mexican prefers to shiver under cover of a poncho rather than to sit in comfort and warmth after the European or American fashion.

An Ironing Hint

Pad the ironing board with news papers, under outside covering, and find how much better the clothes iron.

Washing Woolen Goods.

To wash woolen goods successfully the water should be soft and warm, not hot, and of uniform temperature throughout the operation. Never put soap directly on the fabric, and use only the milder kinds. Make a nice suds before putting the garment in the water. Scrub gently and wring through loosely set wringers. Once washed, the goods should be immediately hung up to dry and never allowed to lie about wet. It is best to dry woollens out of doors if the air is dry and the temperature above freezing.
