

Gin Pills

FOR THE KIDNEYS

What They Have Done

"I suffered a great many years with kidney trouble; tried several remedies, and also doctors' medicine, with no result. Two years ago I read an ad. in a newspaper of 'GIN PILLS FOR THE KIDNEYS,' and sent for two boxes. They did me more good than all the medicine I had ever taken. After I used the first two I sent for two more boxes, and I am satisfied, and also know, that Gin Pills are the best kidney remedy made.

I used to have to rise three or four times in the night; now I can sleep and don't have to get up at all, thanks to GIN PILLS. Am seventy-two years old.

German Prisoners Tell of The Carnage At Douaumont.

Paris, March 4.—Paris has been speculating for several days past on the toll of the German casualties in the region of Verdun. It has been virtually impossible to reach exact conclusions in this regard, but all the evidence points to the fact, that at certain places along the line of battle the losses sustained by the German troops opposed to the armies of France, have been formidable.

German prisoners in the hands of the French give certain details of the casualties caused by the French fire. A German soldier belonging to the

Rheumatism A Mystery

Unless Rooted Out of the System it Grows Worse and Worse

Some diseases give immunity from another attack, but rheumatism works just the other way. Every attack of rheumatism invites another. Worse than that it reduces the body's power so that each attack is worse than the one before. If any disease needs curing early it is rheumatism, but there few diseases physicians find more difficult to treat successfully. Wet weather does not cause rheumatism as was once thought, though weather conditions may start the aches and pains. Rheumatism is now known to be dependent upon the blood condition and medical authorities agree that the blood comes this with alarming rapidity as rheumatism develops. Maintaining the quality of the blood is, therefore, a reasonable way of preventing and curing rheumatism. That it works out in fact is shown by the beneficial result which follow a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills actually make new rich blood and rid the blood of the rheumatic poison, and rid the blood of kept in a condition there is no danger of the trouble returning. Mr. W. T. Bell, Palermo, Ont., says:—"I was attacked with a trouble which was ultimately pronounced rheumatism. Often I was barely able to crawl, in bed, and seldom able to do a full day's work. In this condition I doctored for a year, absolutely getting no better. Then I consulted another doctor whose chief consolation was that unless I could get rid of the trouble I would be a cripple for life. He prescribed dieting and I doctored with him for at least six months, but instead of getting relief I became weaker and less able to get around. Then I decided to try a doctor in Toronto, and was under his treatment for about four months with no better results. I gave up the doctor, and all other remedies which were equally futile. Then one day our storekeeper sent me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, saying, that if they did not help me I need not pay for them. I took them and then got some more and found they were helping me. I probably used $10.00 worth before I felt fully cured, but they did cure me and were cheap as compared with the other treatments which did not help me. The cure was made several years ago, and I have not had a twinge of rheumatism since. To-day I am well and strong and I believe I owe it all to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

tenth company of the 12th Regiment of Infantry, now a prisoner behind the French lines, has made the following statement concerning his own experiences:

"On Feb. 21, before my company had taken part in any engagement, it was composed of 200 men and 24 officers. Then we went into battle and the organization came out reduced to one officer and 70 men. It is a miracle that any of us escaped the massacre.

"The French artillery fire and the marksmanship of the French infantrymen made equally heavy reductions in the ranks of all the other companies of my regiment."

During the night of Feb. 25 the 105th Regiment of German Infantry, belonging to the 13th division, took up its position for an attack. A prisoner who belonged to these organizations has supplied the following account of what occurred on this portion of the line:

"On Feb. 26 three German battalions delivered an assault against a wood held by the French. The Chasseurs let us advance, but suddenly they opened up with their machine guns, delivering a fire so concentrated and well directed that entire lines of our men were cut down.

"During a certain stage of the fighting we were effectively flanked by the French. For a moment my company stopped, and for us this move was fatal. The French fire poured in and dead bodies covered the ground. Then the entire 12th Regiment hesitated in turn. The men scattered and made their escape as best they could. Our losses were enormous. As for myself, I had only time to throw myself down on the ground and play the dead man.

"When night came, I started making my way carefully and quietly thru a nearby wood, but I had completely lost my way and it was impossible for me to find my company. For two days I was lost and wandered about aimlessly, and it was only on Feb. 29, in the morning, that a French patrol caught me. I was taken prisoner and conducted within the French lines."

Another German soldier, also a prisoner of the French, belonging to the 24th Regiment of Infantry, described his experiences in very much the same way. On the 27th of Feb. this man is quoted as saying a German battalion was ordered to occupy the wood to the east of the fort. At the time this instruction was given, certain companies of the 3rd Battalion of German Chasseurs, were being subjected to a French attack at a point to the left of the 24th infantry. "We were successful," this German soldier relates, "in making our way into the wood, but it was absolutely impossible to go any further, for we were at once subjected to a fierce fire from the French machine guns.

We were under a well directed cross fire and the bullets singing all about us. This put a complete stop to our forward movement, and compelled us to retreat.

"We saved ourselves, but at what a terrific cost. Two thirds of our effective force had been struck down, either killed or wounded. Some of my comrades who were escaping endeavored to mingle with them but my condition was such that I could not be moved. The evening of the 27th, French bullets came over the battlements and I was taken prisoner.

A captain of French Chasseurs has given an account of the attack of the Germans near Douaumont, made on Thursday, March 2. The various engagements of this day, against the Village of Douaumont, resulted in heavy losses to the German troops, according to this source of information. The captain in question was actively engaged on the French side and he tells the following story:

"German forces on Thursday, along a front of three miles, delivered a furious attack, with the Village of Douaumont as the principal objective. Detachments of two German divisions recently brought into the zone of fighting, threw themselves against our organization. This movement began at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and had been preceded by a bombardment of indescribable intensity.

"I want to say, that our antagonist showed tenacious bravery, but not withstanding the courage of the enemy, the French Chasseurs once again lived up to their reputation. They went into the fight and a veritable slaughter of the enemy was their reward. There were stacks of the enemy dead right up against our barbed wire entanglements. Fierce fighting at close quarters, and in some places hand to hand engagements, gave us at some points the advantage. Nevertheless, the Germans came back to the charge again with fresh companies of men.

"The second attack began precisely at 6 o'clock and it was as determined as the first, if not more so." A little after this I was wounded by the explosion of a shell, but in spite of this injury, and before being carried away from the field of battle, I was able to take note of the good work done by my men. Their aggression throughout the day's fighting had been marvelous. It is a fact that we sustained losses, during the action, but our casualties were very much under those of the enemy.

is very flaky, and but little time is required.

OYSTER POSSIBILITIES.

Oyster can be creamed and served in patty shells. They can be dipped into fritter batter and fried. They can be minced and added to an omelet that is ready to turn. They can be chopped and added to pancake batter. They can be minced and made into croquettes.

CINNAMON BUNS.

One pint of flour; 1 teaspoonful of salt; 1 tablespoonful baking powder; 1 tablespoonful butter; sufficient milk to make a dough you can knead. Mix flour, salt and baking powder together and the butter into the flour and add milk. Turn out on a board and knead until smooth, roll into a sheet about half inch thick, spread with melted butter, salt, cup sugar, cinnamon and currants or raisins; roll tightly and cut in pieces about two inches wide. Bake slowly about 45 minutes.

A QUICK PIE CRUST.

In a bowl put one cup of shortening. Over this pour one-half cup boiling water and beat until creamy. Now add the sifted flour mixture—three cups flour, one teaspoon of salt, if lard is used, or one-half teaspoon of salt if butter is used, and add one teaspoon of baking powder. Stir all together and roll out.

This makes two pies or four crusts. If only one is wanted, the remaining dough may be wrapped in paraffin paper and kept in a cool place. The cold dough makes even better crust. This recipe should be used by all pastry-makers, for the crust
