No Attack To Be Made On Saloniki

Rome, March 29.—Reports of an impending Austro German attack on Saloniki are unfounded, since only 25,000 Germans and less than 70,000 Austrians and Bulgarians are now in Macedonia. These forces are barely sufficient to hold the line. Field Marshal von Mackensen has been relieved of the chief command of the armies in Macedonia and will only resume it in case that Roumania should intervene. Meantime, he has been entrusted with the so called organization of the Turkish army, made necessary, it is reported by the discovery of a plot to bring about a military revolt for the purpose of hastening separate peace. The discovery of this plot was made since the Germans assumed the control of the Turkish post offices. Incriminating evidence is now used to back up the execution of the ringleaders. Field Marshal von Mackensen is said to be merciless in the prosecution of the plotters, and thus render the Turkish army useful for future developments.

Paris, March 28.—(Delayed.)—Discovery in the Greek island of Corfu of an elaborate organization for providing information and supplies for submarines is reported in a Rome despatch to the Journal. About 40 persons, including the keeper of one of the principal hotels have been arrested, and will be removed to France.

Paris, March 30.—A Havas despatch from Saloniki says that another aerial raid on that city was attempted yesterday by German aeroplanes. French armmen engaged them and compelled them to turn about without accomplishing their object. Several bombs were dropped on Orfani, but did no damage.

Saloniki, March 29. (Via Paris, March 30)—The suggestion that the Spanish, Roumanian, and American consulates here be abandoned, owing to the insecurity of the situation, has not met with the approval of Roumania, which has schools and other important interests in Saloniki. Spain has consented to the closing of her consulate. If the American consul should leave, the interests of Germany, Austria and Bulgaria, with which he is charged, would be unprotected.

Japan's Position.

The attitude of Japan is causing uneasiness both in Washington and London. Reports from Tokio say that Japan may drop out of the war, while some Japanese papers have gone so far as to hint that their country may even line up with Germany, in which event, it is further suggested, Britain's Far Eastern Colonies would be placed in grave jeopardy. What Japan is really after, and what she means to secure, is dominance in the East and undisputed control over China, and she is taking advantage of complications in Europe to secure what she is after. Japan has learned her lesson in cynical selfishness from Europe. European powers in the past have used or abused Japan as seemed best suited to their purpose. What the United States fears in the present case is that, if Japan attains her ends, Japan, and not the United States, will control the Chinese market.

Kaiserin Shocked By Soldier's Reply

London, March 25.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Amsterdam says the German Empress has had an amazing and distressing experience in a Berlin war hospital.

While visiting last week a ward in which terribly mutilated men recently arrived from the western trenches were being cared for, she leaned over the bed of a suffering soldier and said, in a tenderly, solicitous manner:

"My good fellow, I hope things are going better with you to-day."

"Well, I only hope it's going as well with you as your sons as it's going with me at this moment," was the wounded soldier's reply.

The Kaiserin was staggered and, according to circumstantial reports current in Berlin, had to be led from the ward in an almost swooning condition.

The soldier is said to be an irreconcilable Social Democrat.
