Lord Northcliffe Writes of His Visit

LONDON, March 21—(New York Times)—The Daily Mail publishes an article, dated Bar Le Duc, from Lord Northcliffe, written previously to his dispatch from before Verdun. The article was delayed on the way to Paris and has only just reached London. Describing his journey to the battlefield, Lord Northcliffe writes:

"Several little happenings in this evening journey to Bar Le Duc stand out in mind and must be recorded. At home in England, except for the comparatively few people who have seen the victims of the Zeppelins and of the bombardment of Hartlepool, Whitby and Scarborough, we know nothing of the real horrors of war. France has 400 miles of them every day—wrecked towns in which women and children have been destroyed before the eyes of their neighbors.

One little incident to day was a conversation with a young American, who combined stretcher bearing with his work of ambulance driving. Evening was falling and the wounded were being brought into the first dressing station. One splendid young Frenchman, a beautiful boy lay in a stretcher with the lower part of his body blown to pieces. They were wiping his lips with a sponge and he was dying.

"Another great fellow, whose steel hat lay on his chest, smashed to pieces, was not only wounded, but demoralized as well; a third, an older man, judging by his gray hair, had the lower part of his face shot away.

"The scene was one that would have moved even the conscientious objector, in such human rats [The Society of Friends, I except], have my feelings.

"The thin, hard faced young Western American said: 'Some of our too proud to fight people ought to see what is going on here.'

"I agreed with him.

"It seems to me," he added, "that this sort of thing ought to be known to the world. The comfortable, elegant people at home, looking at the theatrical representations of the movies, ought to have some of these facts handed out to them. It is unjust that the women and children in France and Belgium should have to face this kind of horror and that we English snickers should get off with rose water news paper reporting."

Another portion of the dispatch reads:

"At one point on the road is a conveyance of German prisoners on the way, probably, to some railway station. We are surprised at the small number of French guards around them. They were in charge of their own sergeants who shout to them as if they were dogs. There were 1200 by actual count—disheveled and muddy, some with light heads and wounds bound up, many dazed and utterly fatigued. They do not attract much attention from the French soldiers. Here and there they get a chaffing remark from a Frenchman, probably an Alsatian who can speak German, but they seem to be much more interested in the Frenchmen than the Frenchmen are in them.

"For some reason, which I am unable to divine, the French do not appear to publish reports as to the large number of German prisoners they take except when the Germans make an unusually outrageous statement."

Prohibition Bill in Nova Scotia

Halifax, N. S., March 23.—With only three votes against it, one of the members for Halifax, the Prohibition Bill passed through the committee of the whole House of Assembly, yesterday afternoon, and was reported for a third reading this afternoon, after which it will be sent to the Legislative Council.

The bill will go into effect on June 30, 1916.

A certain dr. sergeant, whose severity had made him unpopular with his troops, was putting a party of recruits through the funeral service. Opening the ranks so as to admit the passage of the supposed cortege between them, the instructor, by way of practical explanation, walked slowly down the lane formed by the two ranks, saying, as he did so:

"Now I'm the corpse. Pay attention." Having reached the end of the path he turned round, regarded them steadily with a scrutinizing eye for a moment or two, then exclaimed:

"You 'ande is right, and your 'eads is right, but you 'aven't got that look of regret you ought to 'ave."

Dr. Manzer Will Resume Profession

Having been requested by so many of my old patients to do some Dental Work for them I have decided for a short time, or until further notice, to open an office at my Residence, Chapel Street, opposite the Armoury. It was also my aim during my seventeen years' practice to give my patients the best of materials and the most modern appliances to operate with. I have equipped a new office and am now ready to do all kinds of Crown and Bridge Work, make Artificial Teeth, put in Fillings of all kinds or do any kind of Dental Work.

I am still using my old prescription in the painless extracting of teeth and also administer gas and ether.

It is a growing custom now for Dental Surgeons to have their office at their residence. This is a great advantage in many ways to patients as they are always able to find the doctor at any time of day or night. Another is being on the ground floor as many patients object to climbing a flight of stairs and still another—they have all the comforts of a modern home while waiting their turn for an operation.

I will as formerly give special attention to all diseases of the mouth, nose and throat. The specialist today is the man to consult as he has the experience in seeing and operating upon so many special cases.

Make appointments by phone 10-11, by mail or at my office.

I thank you for past favors and hope to see all my old patients back and many new ones.
