They are a gentle laxative; mild but thorough in action and never fail to banish constipation, colic, cold or any other of the many minor ailments of childhood. Concerning them Mrs. J. Bte. Chase of St. Leon, Que., writes:—"My baby cried continually and nothing seemed to help her till I began using Baby's Own Tablets. Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Harmon received the following letter from Mrs. Purdette W. Harmon, Fredericton, on Saturday:

No. 56 Squadron
Royal Air Force.

Dear Mrs Harmon:

I am very sorry indeed to have to tell you that I can give you no hope for your husband who was reported "missing" on the 10th of May, 1918. When on offensive patrol five miles behind the German lines at 7.50 in the evening of the 10th, they attacked 10 enemy scouts, one of which he brought down in flames. While engaged in this he was attacked by others from behind, one of which hit him in his first few shots, and finally his machine broke up. He was an exceedingly gallant officer and met fighting against enormous odds. Though he had been with us only a short time he was already popular, and his keenness and dash had marked him for a distinguished career with the Corps. Our deepest sympathy is with you in your loss.

Yours sincerely

Major Commanding No. 56 Squadron
Royal Air Force.

In the Field 18th of May 1918.

Lieut. Harmon was 39 years of age and was a graduate of the U. N. B. in the engineering course and held a most lucrative position with the Dominion Government at the outbreak of the war. This he resigned to enter the service of the empire. He enlisted in the infantry and participated in many important engagements, and received his commission in France in 1915. While in the infantry he was repeatedly mentioned for bravery in Lord Beaverbrook's official records; he was several times wounded and was awarded the Military Cross, D. C. M. and the Cross of St. George.

About a year ago he was transferred to the aviation branch of the service. He rapidly advanced in this line of work and became thoroughly proficient in the air service securing a commission as flight lieutenant. He was looked upon as one of the bravest and shrewdest of men in the service carrying that same energy and determination into conflict that guided him in his college work and subsequent battle in life.

During the operation at Cambrai in December last he fell with his machine and received severe injuries.

He returned home on furlough and was married last spring to Miss Hansel packer of Fredericton. Beside the widow he is survived by his parents, two sisters, Mrs. P. R. Hayward of Toronto; Mrs. Allan W. Burpee of Roy the, Alberta; and two brothers, Whitney of Boston, and Lieut. Jack Harmon in charge of the Absentee Depot, Woodstock.

General sympathy went out to the widow, parents and family of this gallant young officer who gave his life for King and Country.

Reginald N. Phillips

The sudden death at the Fisher Memorial Hospital of Reginald N. Phillips, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Chipman P. Phillips, aged six years and 13 days, came as a shock to their many friends. Little Reginald about four weeks ago was taken ill with a cold and cough which was evidently the whooping cough as it was prevalent in town. This soon developed into a swelling of the glands of the throat and neck which was very painful and caused difficulty in breathing which indicated mumps in a serious form. The little fellow bravely battled against the disease, assisted by loving parents, nurse and physicians. But having a sudden checking spell, it was thought an operation might prolong his life. So on Thursday afternoon he was taken to the hospital but he never rallied from the operation as in his weakened condition the heart gave out. Very much sympathy is expressed for Mr. and Mrs. Phillips in their sudden and sad bereavement.

The funeral service took place at 2.30 last Saturday afternoon, and was largely attended by relatives and friends of town and country. The choir of the Reformed Baptist church sang some beautiful and appropriate hymns and the pastor, Rev. W. B. Wiggins, gave an address from Isa. 40 11, "He shall feed His flock like a shepherd; He shall gather the lambs with His arm, and carry them in His bosom." The pastor was assisted in the service by Revs. B. Colpitts, H. S. Dow, and P. J. Triffin.

There were many beautiful floral offerings from relatives and friends. Interment in the town cemetery.

Registration In The Wilderness

Additional evidence tending to prove there is nothing new under the sun

At Sinai shortly after entering the Wilderness and again on the Plains of Moab, just previous to their entering into the Promised Land, the Israelites were numbered. The Book of Numbers records the process at some length and with much detail. So we are told, as a result of the first census, that of the tribe of Reuben there were forty and six thousand and five hundred men capable of bearing arms. And so on throughout the list. The Israelites were numbered on entering upon and on concluding their wanderings of forty years because it was essential that their leaders should know the capacity of the nation for the business in hand.

The Canadian people are about to be numbered for precisely the same reason. The important difference is that the people of Canada are to be subjected to a much more complete census than were the Israelites. In the case of the latter those numbered consisted of males, "from twenty years old and upward, all that are able to go forth to war in Israel." In our own case both males and females are to be numbered, and the minimum age has been placed at sixteen instead of twenty. The people of Canada along with other members of the Alliance have too long been wandering in a maze of deferred hopes, confidence and despair. They are now to be numbered for the final assault against the powers of evil which are barring the way to the New Canada. The numbering will be taken on Saturday, June 22nd, a day which is commonly referred to as "Registration" Day, but which might more fittingly be called "Consecration" Day.

Dr. R. H. McCreedy, Mrs. McCreedy and two sons and Mr. W. A. McCreedy, of Danforth, Me., motored to Woodstock on Sunday and were the guests of Mrs. D. McQueen. They returned home the same evening, Mrs. W. A. McCreedy, who has been visiting Mrs. McQueen, returning with them.
