B W Harmon Missing

Aviator Berdette Harmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Harmon, is officially reported among the missing. This announcement caused sorrow every where the young man was known. He was a graduate of the U. N. B. in the engineering course and held a most lucrative position with the Dominion Government at the outbreak of the war. This he resigned to enter the service of the empire. He enlisted in the infantry and participated in many important engagements. While in the infantry he was repeatedly mentioned for bravery in Lord Beaverbrook's official records; he was several times wounded and was given two medals for gallantry on the field. About a year ago he was transferred to the aviation branch of the service. He rapidly advanced in this line of work and became thoroughly proficient in the air service, securing a commission as flight lieutenant. He was looked upon as one of the bravest, and shrewdest of men in the service.

Mrs. James Brewer

Died at Woodstock, April 29 1918, after a brief illness, Mrs. James B. Brewer.

It was with sincere regret her many friends learned of her serious condition. Loving hearts and willing hands did all in their power to minister to her comfort. Her life was one of service for others especially those who were sick or in sorrow, needing a helping hand.

Her maiden name was Grace M. Norrad. Early in life she experienced a marked conversion and united with the Free Will Baptist church at Boiestown, N. B., the home of her childhood, where her two brothers Joseph and Benjamin now live. With her former husband Mr. Lewis Brewer she lived for some years at Upper Woodstock till his death.

In 1908 she married Mr. James Brewer who died a few years ago.

For some years, Mrs. Brewer was an active member of the Women's Home and Foreign Mission Society of the Advent church at Woodstock and her cheery spirit and earnest prayers for God's workers everywhere will be much missed, but we sorrow not as those who have no hope. The funeral service was attended by Rev. J. E. Wilson, United Baptist Pastor.
