CORRESPONDENCE.

Fort Fairfield, Me.

JULY 13.—We need rain around Fort Fairfield. I suppose Mr. Imp knows but he will not tell why rain does not come. THE DISPATCH reaches the Fort on the same day it is printed and we look for it like a pick pocket for a victim or like a lost sailor for land. We are more than pleased with the paper and also Mr. Imp. We always knew there were Imps in Woodstock and yes! in Fort Fairfield. One is Mr. Custom house officer who on that great and glorious fourth seized the drinks of the F. C. B. Sunday school. We think there must be a stick in the drinks, but no, no, come to think they were from Woodstock and Woodstock and in fact Carleton Co., is Scott Act. But there are grave doubts as to what these drinks were. What a great time Mr. Custom officer had on the fourth and that nice cream.

Van Buren the at races Julius Robbins took first money $100.00. Julius also took first money in his class at the Fort on June 20, and lowered his record from 2.34 to 2.28 and went out to grass in one heat but won the other three. His owner Mr. Leveritt Kimball wishes me to say that he will trot Mr. Brown's horse of Centreville for $100.00 or $500.00 either at Woodstock or Fort Fairfield or any place Mr. Brown will name to be not more than 500 miles from Bangor.

Mrs. Sayage and Edmond, of Pioneer, are visiting their son-in-law Mr. Kimball of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Palmer, of Waterville, are visiting their friends of this place. Charlie is a good judge of horse flesh and he has a pair of carriage horses which weigh 1300 and a more stylish pair you never saw to a buggy. We would like to make a Yankee of Charlie but no go.

Mr. Percy Stevens of the firm of Stevens & Son Builders and Contractors of Somerville, paid us a flying visit. He had with him fair company. How they enjoyed themselves we do not know, we enjoyed their visit. Percy is a boy that we do not meet every day. It does one good to meet old school mates, and M—casts a sunshine where e'er she goes.

The crops are only fair.

Hay is light. Oats are good. Some farmers are complaining of potatoes missing.

If Mr. Imp will lend me his wheel barrow I may take a stroll through the country and tell the readers what I saw.

Oakville.

JULY 13.—I was much pleased on reading an article on "borrowing" in your paper a few weeks ago and entertained the idea that things might be "bettered" by it, but instead of doing good it seems to have had the opposite effect, for people still borrow spinning wheels, etc., and "Ye Gods and Little Fishes," even to hot water. What may we look for next?

The Dr. has built a fence around his grounds which will be much improved by this addition.

Some of our young men are raving about the picnic at Hartland—what can attract them so I wonder?

I notice that Messrs. John Fitzpatrick and J. A. Davis are following the example set by Mr. McLellan and are shingling their barns.

Mrs. William Barter, South Richmond, is here visiting her daughter Mrs. Thomas Bell.

I understand that Mr. Thomas Bell was married last week to a Knoxford lady.

I hear that a number of "Oakvillians" would subscribe for THE DISPATCH if they were sure the items would continue. Let me say for the benefit of all such that as long as the Oakville Hobgoblin possesses the power of observation the news will appear regularly. Subscribe at once if you want the best local paper published.

Miss Carrie Vandine, of Houlton, has been visiting friends here.

The Advent meetings will begin August the 4th. A tent which will accommodate large numbers will be erected on the farm of Mr. Thomas Bell.

Northampton.

JULY 15TH.—The farmers are busy now preparing for haying, and already we have heard the sound of the mowing machines.

It is with regret that we hear of the departure of Rev. W. E. Smith to the Hartland circuit where he is stationed this year. He will be remembered for his earnest work in this place, and he has the best wishes of his friends here for his success in his present field of labour.

Miss Annie Smith, sister of Rev. W. Smith is spending a few weeks with her friend Miss Jennie Dow.

Miss Schriver, of Southampton, is visiting at the home of Mr. Samuel Rogers.

Mr. Wm. Marteth, who has been ill for some time is no better.

The members of the Women's Missionary society held a public meeting at the Methodist church on Wednesday, the 10th inst. An interesting programme was carried out which consisted of the following: Opening song by choir, followed by prayer; praise service; speech by Mrs. F. Hale; song by choir; recitation by Miss Monteith; song by choir; speech, Rev. W. E. Smith; song by choir; recitation by Miss Eta Cheff; recitation by Miss Jennie Dow; recitation by Miss Annie Smith; closing song by choir.

Mr. Davenport, who has been attending business college in Fredericton, has returned home for his vacation.

A turtle weighing fifteen pounds was captured by Miss Annie Smith and Miss Jennie Dow on Saturday last.

Was He Dead?

A terrible accident occurred at Craig's road some miles from Levis P. Q. last week. A train loaded with pilgrims to St. Anne de Beauforte pitched into another train, also loaded with pilgrims, which was standing at the Craig's road station. Fifteen people were killed including two priests, and a score more were wounded. The driver of the train which pitched in was killed instantly, and the most important testimony which an inquest could bring forth was thus silenced by death. McLeod was his name. He was a most careful driver. At the inquest one witness testified that McLeod was a man who was greatly oppressed by the heat and who suffered from rush of blood to the head. He had occasionally to skip some of his trips on this account. Did not know that he also suffered from asthma. When trips were missed on account of sickness the drivers were not paid. If they lost a trip they lost their pay for it. Did not know positively what McLeod suffered from, whether it was asthma, epilepsy or apoplexy, but he seemed to suffer from choking sensations at times. Public opinion that seemed at sea to account for Engineer McLeod's running into the other train has come to the conclusion that at the time of the accident he was dead at his post and still retaining his usual appearance of stern application while on duty.

English Elections.

The elections in Great Britain are now on and the tide seems to be setting strongly in to have Sterling Silver Belt Buckles, Silver Cuff Buttons, Silver Studs for the Shirt Waists, as well as Nice Rings, etc. Of course we have Plated Goods that look about as well, and you can take your choice of the great variety. Almost everybody knows that there is no class of Jewellery that we do not keep. Folks don't leave our store with disappointed faces.

IT IS PROPER

Under the general head of Wedding Presents we now call special attention to articles as follows:

favor of the Unionists and Conservatives. A dispatch from London, Eng., dated the 15th, says:—The Unionists started in yesterday, the first day of the elections for members of the new parliament, by returning twenty-eight members to the House without opposition, while the Liberals returned only three, and the Parnellites also scored three. The Conservative organs hail this result as a good omen, and rightly too. The success of the Unionists at the polls in actual contests cannot anywhere nearly correspond with this showing, but there is undoubted significance in the fact that the Liberals have permitted judgment to go against them by default in so large a number of constituencies at the very beginning of the conflict. The worst of all the misfortunes that have overtaken the Liberals and Home Rulers in this campaign, or, in fact, since the retirement of Mr. Gladstone, has been the disclosures made by Timothy M. Healy concerning the relations of liberal whips with the anti-Parnellite leaders. At the convention of the Irish National party, held at Omagh, a short distance from Londonderry, this week, Mr. Healy related how Thomas E. Ellis, the principal Liberal whip, through Hon. Edward Blake, bargained with the anti-Parnellites for four Irish seats, giving £200 a year for each seat on condition that they be regarded as Liberal and not Irish Nationalist seats. This affair is made to appear much more blameworthy than it really is, and the effect is said to be tremendous in Irish circles, where it is regarded as a betrayal of the Nationalist cause.

A Shaky Steeple.

The steeple of St. Paul's Presbyterian church in Fredericton is unsteady, an according to the report of an architect, is likely to fall with a heavy gale.
