BOOK NOTICES.

We have received the "Atlantic Monthly" for December, which in all respects is fully up to its standard of excellence.

The dense fog which so frequently envelops London day after day, while the surrounding country is bright and sunny, is commonly attributed to the smoky coal which London burns; and it has been proposed to import Pennsylvania anthracite as a remedy.

While the atmosphere of London is thus kept in a state of saturation, the manner in which the city is laid out prevents any free passage of wind to sweep away the superabundant moisture.

The numbers for November and December will be sent to all new subscribers, and the numbers for 1881 before December 20th.

The richly illustrated November number of Scribner's Monthly, the December issue, appears in a new cover, and begins with special inducements to subscribers.

The first part of the new famous serial by Eugene Schuyler, "The Life of Napoleon the Great," was finished in October.

The native Londoner is apt to deride the cheapness of most American goods, and to deride the European cities, with streets crossing at right angles and running in monotonous straight lines, mile after mile.

St. Nicholas, the charming magazine for boys and girls, edited by Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge, has increased so much in size and number of pages during the year past that the publishers have been obliged to issue a yearly volume in two parts, instead of one as heretofore.

The natural gas well in Maskinonge County, Quebec, is attracting considerable attention. Recently quite a gathering of prominent Canadians assembled at St. Pierre to witness tests of the well.

The total shipments of grain from New York for the past ten months, including four in bushels, reached 117 million bushels. It is expected that the present crop will be the largest shipping month of the year.

Those who study the stars will have plenty of occupation in the coming year. The index which the celestial spheres will give to the events of momentous import.

The Orange element is strong in the north of Ireland, and the Catholic element is strong in the south and west. The moment that independence was proclaimed and the British Government was no longer responsible for law and order, the two factions would result in a civil war.

Malaria Fever, constipation, torpidity of the liver and kidneys, general debility, nervousness and neuralgic ailments yield readily to this great disease conqueror, Hop Bitters. London Fog.
