Sir Leonard's Retirement.

It is stated, that, Sir Leonard Tilley, his speech in the Pacific Railway debate, intimated his determination not to be a candi date at the next general election. What he did say, (if the report is correct,) was, "We hear a good deal of the next elections, but I do not fear their result. The probabilities are, that at my age I shall have had enough of it by that time." The opposition, of course, say, that Sir Leonard reads the handwriting on the wall that tells him that his party will be then defeated at the polls, and that in intimating resignation, he is trying to resign himself to his fate, with all the philosophy at his command. Sir Leonard does A Perfect Fit every time, or no trade. not absolutely say, that he will not reseek election. We are left to infer from what he Ready Made Clothing, Ulsters, Over- said, that something may happen which may induce him to abandon politics. There was a rumour current some short time ago, that Sir Leonard would take Sir Alexander Galt's place, as commissioner of Canada, "at the court of St. James." So, may be, he sees such would be but an uncertain provision. Sir fully 15 feet deep in many places. The moderate Home Rule party lead by Mr. Shaw, are inclined to think that the Government are favorably disposed to deal liberally with Ireland, and they will only oppose the coercion bill within the strict forms of the house, and they will not only support the Irish land bill if they consider it just, but will endeavor to obtain its acceptance in Ireland. Parnell and the Land Leaguers by pursuing, unreaonable opposition, will likely not only bring trouble on themselves, but endanger the passage of a liberal remedial measure. On Monday afternoon Hon. Mr. Forster, Chief Secretary of Ireland, brought down the Government Bill, for the protection of life and property in Ireland. The House was very crowded. A despatch states thatof a second bill to be to put matters in reference to possession of arms in much the same

Very Sad Accident. A frightful accident occurred, on Sunday afternoon in St. John. Mr. George Allison. who boarded in Miss Prince's, No. 31, King St., and occupied a room in the attic next to the sloping slate roof. He that morning locked himself in, intending to go to bed, and passed the key through under the door to another boarder. About three e'clock a noise was heard by those inside the house, which was at first supposed to be snow sliding down the roof, but the attention of several of the boarders being attracted by a number of people rushing across the street, they immediately hurried out of the house, to find Mr. Allison a lifeless corpse on the sidewalk. It is thought that the unfortunate man, awakening from his sleep and wishing to leave his room, got out of the window with the intention of opening the window of the room adjoining, but slipping on the steep and slippery roof he was hurled to destruction. Mr. Allison was 45 years of age, was well known in St. John, and his sad death has cast a deep gloom over a large family circle.

The Toronto Globe has thrown up the fight against the "St. Paul's," or original contract, or to support the new or Canadian contract, any longer. It sees that neither the continual heavy fire of its leaders or the oratory of Blake has really aroused the good deal to aid and support the Board in country, or excited fears of ruin in the people's breast. In sorrow and in dudgeon the Globe tells its party, that, there is no hope that the Conservative phalanx will give no doubt, that Mr. Wedderburn's presence, away, or that the Senate will refuse to pass which we may be sure will not be a silent the contract, or that the Governor General one, will have a good effect, and, give addiwill refrain from giving his assent to it.
