He was, however, the is building a pretty nest for the Archers yet most married man in the world, the number to be, beyond Mr. Crawford's, on the opof spouses who now lament his loss being posite side of the road. It is well built of red brick with deep stone dzessing, and very handsomely decorated by Jennings, son of old Tom Jennings, of Gladiateur fame. It has ornamental and kitchen gardens, stables, hot-houses, an elegant conservatory, and every comfort, including an enormous mastiff. board, to wit, the private Turkish bath, in which Archer proposes to keep himself down to all but skeleton weight. He cannot take walking exercise, and is thus obliged to go off weight artificially. He is worth between £50,000 and £70,000, invested for him by COLLARS and CUFFS,
