To-day the last session of the present term of the Local Legislature commenced. It will be always memorable from the fact that it opened in the new Legislative Buildings, and that a greater crowd was drawn to the Capitol than at any opening within the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

Immigration to N. W.

A correspondent in Northern Zululand sends disquieting accounts of the state of things there. The general opinion in the country is that the people are sleeping on a volcano. There is no government anywhere from Cape to the sea.

During the last political campaign in Michigan, a well known lawyer of that State was seen in a public hall, addressing a group of farmers in Gaius county. He endeavored to win the confidence of his hearers, he said: "My friends, my sympathies have always been with the tillers of the soil. My father was a practical farmer, and was my grandfather before me. I was myself reared on a farm, and so, to speak, born between two stalks of corn."

There is no doubt that the Dominion is a great governed country. It is a fact that can hardly be disputed.

There is no man in the Province, who takes more interest in the settlement of the Crown Lands of the Province, and very few who know as much about lands and minerals, than Edward Jack, Esq., of the C. L. Office.

The Pope, who has been slightly indisposed, is now quite well. He is engaged writing a long Encyclical, to be published about Easter, closing the Jubilee year, and setting forth to the Episcopacy the present situation of the Papacy.

It is said that a change has been made in the postal regulations between this country and the United States with a view to preventing the mailing in Canada by United States publishers of printed matter for circulation in the United States.

Application is to be made to the Quebec Legislature for the incorporation of "The Great National Lottery of Quebec," to aid in the construction of churches and the colonization of lands. This looks like the Chaplain scheme in another form.

At Hamilton, on the 2nd inst., a public exhibition was given of the adaptability of the fire department. A number of daring individuals jumped from the third and fourth storeys who landed in the blanket air light.

Immense loss of life, caused by an earthquake, is reported from the Chinese district of Kan-Chow, and to make matters worse the earthquake was followed by an unusually heavy rainstorm, which inundated a portion of the country, and caused further loss of life.

At Knoxville, Tenn., on the 9th inst., Milton and Samuel Hodges, negro murderers, were sentenced to be hung on March 24th. When the Judge pronounced his sentence, Milton said, "May the Lord have mercy on your soul, you will go before we will."

A new colonization company, with a capital of two millions five hundred thousand dollars, has been formed in Montreal, by Sir Hugh Allan as President. It is intended to purchase a million acres of land in the North-West, and to introduce settlers from Great Britain.

Do not buy cheap medicines on the score of economy. The best are none too good for the sick, and are the cheapest. Such are the Cherry Pectoral the Sarsaparilla, and other standard remedies of Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co. They are worth all the rest, and should be in every house.

Two little brothers broke through the ice on which they were skating in Cincinnati. While they were clinging desperately to the edge of the ice, and efforts were being made to reach them, the older one cried out: "Be sure and take Willie out first." But both Willie and his generous brother were drowned.

The final figures about last fall's forest fires in Michigan make the number of houses burned 1464, and the total loss $2,107,905, distributed among 3075 families. The contributions for the sufferers have been about a million, and half as much more is needed to see them through until next season's crops are harvested.

A vast religious gathering has recently been held in Allahabad, at the junction of the Jumna with the Ganges. It is known as the Magh Mala, and this being the twelfth year of its holding, the attendance has been unusually large. Visitors are estimated to have numbered between 1,000,000 and 2,000,000. Fears have been entertained that a pestilence might break out among this great multitude with frightful results.

The Rev. GOLDEN INFORMATION!

A while ago, said Mrs. Dr. A. A. Jordan, 51 Lincoln street, Worcester, Mass., one of my friends from the South spoke to me very highly of St. Jacobs Oil. I resolved to try it on my patients, and I must confess that I was surprised at the results. It has never failed to cure all that it claims to, and I prescribe it willingly and confidently to those of my patients who suffer with rheumatism, sprains and all bodily pains. It is certainly a wonderful remedy, and I can highly recommend it.

No STRONGER WARRANTY can be given for the merits of a cough medicine than we offer. We say to all who wish to use ALLEN'S LUNG BALM, that unless it gives entire satisfaction they may return the bottle to us after they have used it 48 hours, and the same warranty has been offered from the day this Balm first for sale, and to this time the first bottle has not been returned, and we have received nothing but praise in its favor from those who have used it.

"The passion for Bourse gambling," says the Debut, "has spread of late with vertiginous rapidity in all classes of society. Even women have caught the infection. There is hardly a family which is not just now in-quest or in tears. The lesson is a rough one—let us hope it may be wholesome." The practice of gambling in stock, which has been carried to such an excess in Paris, that in many of the best salons the jargon of the Bourse is more often heard from ladies' lips than even the gossip of society, to say nothing of literature and politics, is unfortunately no means confined to Paris.

St. Fiacrus, or Fisker, the person to whom the French cab owes its name, was the son of an Irish king, and was born in the year 600. Another legend makes him the crown Prince of Scotland, son of "Eugenius IV., King of Scotland." Pilgrimages to the relics of St. Fiacrus became very fashionable in the seventeenth century, and the coaches in which the pilgrims made their visits were adorned with a picture of the saint, either on the outside or inside. St. Fiacrus was supposed to insure them against accidents. Hence the hired carriages were called cabriolets de St. Fiacrus, which was afterwards shortened into "fiacre."

There is one man antedated with Rugby—namely, the person who bought up a whole tract, 250,000 acres of land there, for 12 cents an acre, and then went over to England saying he had the most remarkable tract of land on the continent; that the soil was seven feet thick; that everything grew there, and so big that the labor of harvesting was the only drawback; and that the climate was so healthy that the only way to fill the cemeteries was to shoot a few men occasionally. By representations not a bit less extravagant than these, this wily person managed to get Mr. Thomas Hughes' Society to give him $10 to $15 an acre for the whole tract.

It would seem from certain movements telegraphed that the Russian authorities have at length been moved to active exertions in the case of the persecuted Jews of Russia. For months the events of the most terrible character have been happening. But no efforts have been made by the authorities for the protection of Jewish lives and the honor of Jewish women. Russian barbarism makes off the Jews from the rest of the nation by a series of enactments, which show how far behind the civilization of England the Russian is. English and American influence combined ought to procure for the Jews the alleviation of their terrible woes to which they are entitled.

Senator Fabre's appointment as Dominion Commissioner at Paris to fulfil functions in many respects similar to those devolving on Sir Alexander Galt in London, is decidedly a step toward nationality beyond that involved in our having a representative at our own Imperial metropolis. It is presumable that the presence of such a functionary at the second great money centre of the world will be worth to the country in a financial point of view all that cost, and if so, the country will approve both of the action and of the choice. This action, however, brings vividly before us one of the expenses of national independence which would, we suppose, involve the maintenance of ambassadors or ministers at all civilized and semi-barbarous courts.

The recent fatal explosion of "zerotine siccator" or patent drier on H. M. S. Triumph has caused a change of opinion as to the cause of the explosion which destroyed the Dotterel some months ago in the Straits of Magellan. Three survivors of that ship's crew state that about fifteen minutes before the explosion a leakage of the patent drier had been discovered in the paint storeroom, which was next to the fore magazine. The presumption is that the stuff flowed under the wooden flat of the magazine and that its inflammable vapor was ignited by a light carried by a man who had been sent to clear the paint room doors. This is so probable that Mr. O'Donovan Rossa can scarcely take credit any longer for destroying the Dotterel and murdering her crew.

Fox-hunting is threatened with obstruction even in England, as the Empress of Austria will probably find to her cost in Chebire. Since she last was at Combermere Abbey a formidable land movement has been set on foot; the farmers have waxed strong, and the huntmen go in fear of them. Graziers are everywhere combining to spoil sport, and in Chebire an edge will be given to their animosity by the presence of those Irish Nimrods who have had to abandon their own deep ditches and wide banks for the posts and rails of the English shires. Attempts have been made to conciliate them. The Duke of Beaufort has severely reprimanded some of the members of his hunt. Lord Cork, Lord Eboragh, Mr. Longman, and other distinguished M. P.'s have expressed themselves strongly on the subject of the "galloping snobs" who ride roughshod over the winter wheat. But the wrath of the farmers is not appeased, and some violent scenes may be looked for before the season closes.
