The Obnoxious School Regulations.

Chief Superintendent Crocket got rather a warm reception at the recent meeting of the Albert County Institute not as Mr. Crocket we presume, for he is generally popular with the teachers of the Province, but as the representative and administrator of the obnoxious School Regulations of the Blair Govern The teachers of Albert evident ly, are an independent lot of men women, and speak their mind freely The teachers of the Province generally, have taken a determined stand against the recent changes in the School Law, but those of Albert are to be congratulated upon having assumed a bolde position than those of any other county The very presence of "officialism" it is quite apparent, did not deter them from giving full expression to their opposition to the School innovations. The Maple Leaf furnishes quite a ful report of the Institute proceedings, and its perusal will satisfy our readers that all the FARMER has published in criticism or condemnation of Blair's tinke ing with the School law is fully corroborated by the teachers of Albert. After the routine work of the Albert Institute had been disposed of, we are told that "Mr. William T. Jones read an excellent paper on "Our Work." He He dwelt on the recent changes in the regulations, considering them as retrograde movement, and prophesied that the educational boiler would burst as it the Province into an association in order to concentrate their force, and thus make their opinions carry weight. If not, he claimed that instead of the condition at present occupied by the teachers of New Brunswick being improved, it would continually become worse; or, in the words used by Mr. Jones, "Hewers of wood and drawers of water ye have been, and hewers of wood and bert County. drawers of water ye shall remain."

Mr. Jones had just finished reading his paper, when Chief Superintendent Crocket took the floor and criticized the paper very severely. The report says

"He appealed to the teachers present for sympathy; claiming that Mr. Jones had in his paper used language discour teous to the board of education, himself their inspector and the teachers present He claimed that the recent changes were a financial necessity; that the amount expended for educational work would be the same; that it was only fair to those teachers in schools which were ineligible for classification, and by reading from statistics that the teachers of New Brunswick should not complain as they were better paid by the government than those of either Nova Scotia or Onwould not appear in print.'

"Mr. W. B. Jonah then spoke. In his reply to Mr. Crocket, he agreed with Mr. Jones that the teachers had a real grievance. He made a great many good points against the new regulations, dwelling particularly upon the shortening of the holidays with so little warn- credited. The peregrinations of both gentleing. Mr. Jones expressed the opinions of the large majority of the teachers present and was greeted with hearty applause as he took his seat."

At the evening session, Mr. Crocket delivered a lecture on educational topics dwelling particularly upon the teaching Britain is almost increasently engaged, not of the three R's in our Schools. At the "he accepted it without comment," havby the afternoon's criticisms.

The Institute proceedings were concluded by a meeting, at which there was a warm discussion by several of the leading teachers on the recent School changes. The first to address the meeting, was Mr. F. H. McLatchey. We again quote every sense of the word, this testimonial and exhibition, which is also a money prize of canoe similar to the one Wolseley used in from the report :-

and Mr. Crocket must be aware of the great unpopularity of the changes in the School Law. They have heard from the teachers of almost, if not every county in the Province. The teachers it is quite evident, are not in the mood to be put off, or played with. It is abpress, to endeavor to make the teachers believe they have been fairly treated; to stuff it down their throats that a reduction of ten per cent in their salaries is only an equalization. Mr. Crocket's excuse for his masters, that the financial condition of the Province demanded the reduction, is as childish as are the other excuses offered. The Government have abundance of money to spend recklessly, in the creation of useless offices, building bridges for their friends, and in otherwise dispensing of the public funds without hope or expectation of any return except maintaining themselves in power. They have dealt a telling blow at our educational system. They are driving the best men and women out of the teaching profession, and the country will hold them responsible. There was one good point brought out by the discussion and action of the Albert County teachers, and it was, that the time has passed when "bossism" will deter the teachers from expressing as a monster of tyranny and extortion, but valids and all delicate or nervous persons, their opinions on educational matters. It is about time that the teachers understood and felt, that they are independent of the Board of Education, and Chief Superintendent, except in as far secure the patronage of the travelling public as the position of those parties demands as does the Canadian Pacific.
