New Brunswick Troops

In Camp at Sussex.

Composition of the Fredericton Corps under Arms.

THEIR ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION AT ST. JOHN.

The Metropolitan City in Holiday Attire.

Notes and Incidents.

Every hour succeeding the call to arms of a New Brunswick Battalion for active service in the North West, increased the excitement here and elsewhere throughout the Province, and for the past week there has been little else talked of but the possibilities and probabilities in connection with the N. B. Contingent. While our troops were awaiting anxiously for marching orders, a telegram came from Ottawa on Saturday evening, ordering the N. B. Battalion into Camp at Sussex. Riel had been captured in the meantime, and it appeared doubtful whether there would be a necessity for our boys at the front. However, there was no cessation in preparation for active service, and the men were kept busy getting ready for embarkation on Monday. Capt. Howe who was appointed to command the 71st contingent arrived in town Sunday evening. Capt. Loggie and Capt. Cropley were recruiting from their companies, and when Monday morning arrived, it found the 71st prepared to send forward its quota of men. Men, women and children, seemed literally to pour from every street and avenue, and long before the time appointed for the Corps to march to the Station, the populace thronged the streets and filled every wiudow commanding the line of march.

The men of the 71st met at the Masonic Hall, and were addressed by Lt. Col. Marsh as follows:—

"I return you my deepest thanks for responding so readily and so fully to the call for service in the North-West. The limited time will only enable me to say a few words; but I feel it but a duty to thus publicly state, in reference to certain reports current respecting Captains Cropley and Loggie, that neither of these officers have been requested, or ordered, by me as the officer in command of the Battalion, or by any other senior officer, to take command or even join in any capacity the Company of the 71 Battalion ordered out for active service in the North-West. Some time previous to the Company being ordered out, Captain Howe had written to me, requesting me to accept his services in the event of a call for troops from York being made; therefore, as Captain Howe was the first officer in the Battalion to volunteer, I considered it my duty to appoint him to the command of the Company. On the transfer of Lieut. Russell to the Infantry School Corps, at the request of Captain Loggie, I appointed him to fill the vacancy. No blame whatever can be attached to either Captain Cropley or Captain Loggie; on the contrary both of these officers have done their duty in every possible way, and have labored with the utmost zeal to secure a creditable representation from York in the quota required for the New Brunswick regiment. I am fully satisfied that if the services of every officer in the Battalion had been required, they would have been readily given, and will be given when wanted. I consider the course which I have pursued in having the Company made up from the City as well as the Country, and also in the appointments of its officers, as the best under all the circumstances. If any errors have been made, I am prepared to assume all the responsibility."

Headed by the Fredericton Brass Band, the 71st marched to the I. S. Corps barracks where the two contingents were united.

The Corps, after being inspected by Lt. Col. Maunsell and his officers, made a start for the depot, the Fredericton Brass Band leading off with a lively air, and the I. S. Corps Band relieving them from time to time. The march of the Corps up Queen and out York street was one continuous ovation, and at the depot there was

A PERFECT CRUSH OF HUMANITY.

Fully two thousand people, embracing all ages, both sexes, every creed and color, thronged the depot and filled the approaches. There were handshaking and tears, tender partings and bluff good byes, giving a tinge of sadness to the scene. As the train rolled out of the depot at 7 o'clock, the I. S. Corps Band struck up "The Girl I left behind me," the Fredericton Brass Band "Auld Lang Syne," while the crowd cheered lustily, the troops returning it with equal heartiness.

Our Boys' Reception in St. John.

The Globe in speaking of the arrival of our boys at St. John, says: At 11 o'clock the Fredericton Infantry School Corps, under command of Lt.-Col. Maunsell and Major Gordon, and the company from the 71st, York, Battalion, under command of Capt. Howe, arrived in Carleton, where they were met by Adjutant McLean, of the 62nd. The appearance of the men was all that could be desired and their soldierly look elicited round after round of applause from the spectators. One remarkable feature about the men was the cheerfulness with which they seemed imbued on going to the front, Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon the men of the 71st, who, although up nearly all night and mustered at 6 oclock this morning for medical examination, etc., looked as though they had spent months, instead of a couple of hours in preparing for marching. The company turned out in full strength. The Infantry School Corps, composed of young men, whose martial airs would reflect credit in any "cracked up" company of the imperial troops, marched with a precision that showed how well they had mastered "the arts of war." Their white helmets, too, gave them a good appearance. The Fredericton contingent was headed by the Infantry School Band. On the east side the troops were met by Major Tucker, who was mounted on a black steed, As the troops disembarked from the ferry boat and marched up Princess to Prince William street they were greeted with ringing cheers from the vast concourse of people who had taken up every available point of vantage. From the windows along Prince William street, ladies waved handkerchiefs, and no doubt many a fervent prayer was offered up for the safe return of the gallant men who responded to duty's call. The contingent marched along Prince William and up King street, and thence to the I. C. R. On the line of march the band played a number of lively airs.

The Telegraph says: The Fredericton train reached Carleton without mishap at 10.45—sharp on time. The contingent consisted of two companies from the Infantry School Corps, and one from the 71st. A number of excrusionists came down from Fredericton in the train. What a hardy, stalwart body of men they were as they formed on Rodney wharf with their white helmets and sun-browned faces turned towards the city. On the next trip of the boat they crossed to the east side and were received with quite an ovation by the people thronging the approaches to the floats. Major Tucker, mounted on a coal-black steed, met the contingent on this side. Their route to the station was not the shortest that might have been selected—up Princess, out Prince William, up King, up Germain, down Union and down Mill streets. As they passed along, the men were frequently cheered. The marching of the Infantry School Corps was prefection itself and the music of their band was really admirable, considering that it is composed entirely of comparatively raw material and was only organized last summer. Band-major Hayes was naturally congratulated on all sides. Some of the six-footers of Stanley, when Capt. Howe, thorough soldier as he is, hails from, had an awe-inspiring effect on the small boys. In the Infantry Corps not a single case of desertion or complaint occurred. No men could possibly behave better or be more anxious to go to the front. Each of the men carried full marching equipments and two days' rations. The contingent has certainly good fighting material in its ranks, and Col. Maunsell is justly proud of their appearance.

The Sun says:—"About 10 o'clock, A. M., the approaches to the Ferry landing at the foot of Princess street, were the scene of much bustle and activity. The constant arrival of citizens desirous of giving welcome to the Fredericton men, resulting in completely crowding Princess street from Prince William to the water's edge, whilst wharf, housetops and windows were filled with spectators, all anxious to do honor to the men who were to share the fortunes of war with our own 62nd Battalion.

The train, which arrived a little later than the usual time, brought also a large number of volunteers of No. 5 Battery, Lancaster, who, though not called to the front themselves, were anxious with others to accord to the men a right hearty send off.

About 11.15 A. M., the train steamed into Carleton, where a large assemblage greeted the men. Superintendent Glasgow of the ferries, had made every preparation for the safe and speedy passage of the men to the city, at which they arrived about 11.30. The appearance of the men elicited warm approbation from the thousands present, and very justly too, whilst the band of the I. S. Corps, under the leadership of Bandmaster Hayes, which on this occasion made its first appearance in St. John, was the recipient of well merited and most favorable criticism from the many musical critics assembled.

The line of march, which was crowded with people, was from the ferry along Prince William, up King, along Germain streets, thence to the station, where after a short rest, the men were assigned to the cars in waiting for them,

Inasmuch as nearly two hours would elapse before the departure of train, liberty was given the men to visit their friends in the city and vicinity, a concession of which they very readily availed themselves.

One of the most pleasing incidents of the day took place as the Infantry School Corps and 71st Battalion turned from Princess to Prince William street. The friends of Capt. Loggie, whose well known face was seen to the left front of his company, immediately called for "three cheers for Loggie," which was at once taken up and given with a will, making the street resound again and again. Whatever the growlings of some discontents in Fredericton may be, his true worth is honored and esteemed here in St. John, as this little epispde of to-day fully illustrates.

The Departure from St. John.

The 62nd Fusiliers marched from the drill shed to the Intercolonial depot, where they joined the Fredericton contingent. The scene at the depot beggared description. Hundreds, yes, thousands of human beings had concentrated there, all eager to obtain a glimpse at our gallant young soldiers, and wish them good speed and safe return. Anxious parents were there to kiss boys a tearful good bye; brothers, sisters, and comrades, as well; sweetbearts, too, pressed forward to obtain a parting kiss from their brave soldier laddies. The massive station was filled, crowded, with a surging mass, while every car, house top, and window in the neighborhood contributed its quota of cheering spectators. After the soldiers were all safely housed in the cars the bands struck up "The Girl I left behind me," and those who had friends among the troops spent the remaining few moments in hand-shaking. At 1.30 o'clock, all the accoutrements were placed in the cars, the whistle was sounded, and amid the cheers of the multitude and the music of the bands, our gallant boys were whirled out of the station.

All along the Intercolonial the troops had a most enthusastic reception. Reaching Sussex about 4 o'clock they went immediately into camp in Morrison's field and before dark a canvas town had sprung up thereon.

The following is the staff:—

Notwithstanding much has been said about the importance of a blood-purifying medicine, it may be possible that the matter has never seriously claimed your attention. Think of it now! If, by the use of a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla you avoid the evils of scrofula, and transmit a healthy constitution to your offspring, thank us for the suggestion.

"A woman's tongue goes fastest when she is on a railroad train," says an exchange. Certainly it does; for in addition to its own motion it has that of the train.

Mr. John Magwood, Victoria Road, writes: "Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is a splendid medicine. My customers say they never used anything so effectual. Good results immediately follow its use. I know its value from personal experience, having been troubled for 9 or 10 years with Dyspepsia, and since using it digestion goes on without that depressing feeling so well known to dyspeptics. I have no hesitation in recommending it in any case of indigestion, Constipation, Heartburn, or troubles arising from a disordered stomach."

Idaho is crazy over a woman who whipped four lions one night recently. Miss Teresa Tallert, on Little Lost River, discovered that some wild animals were in the corral where she kept a flock of Angora goats. She went in and saw four mountain lions, and, without hesitation, attacked them with an axe. Two of the lions jumped the corral and fled; the other two rushed toward her, after the goats. She dealt one a blow with the axe, laying its back open to the bone. Then the others fled,

A recent invention has facilitated firing practice with big guns, both on board ship and in forts or elsewhere on shore, and is being rapidly turned to good account. A plug or tompion is placed in the muzzle of the gun, and into this is screwed the barrel of a small-bore rifle, accurately adjusted upon the same axis. The rifle barrel only is loaded, and the big gun is sighted and laid upon the target, when a pull of the lanyard fires the rifle, and the bullet marks the accuracy of the aim as affectively as though the gun had fired its own projectile.

He Visits the Field of Waterloo.

(Cor. Intelligencer.)

Yes, this is Waterloo. Here the ultimate check was given to the victorious march of Napoleon, and here the fate of more than one kingdom in Europe was decided. Here were born the liberties of Belgium, and here died the hopes of Bonaparte. Gone is the returned exile who staked so much and lost, gone the Iron Duke who accepted the gauntlet and won. Blucher and his Prussians have passed away, and Ney has been shot for fidelity to his cause. Gone are the men who here fought for liberty, for glory, or because a Napoleon commanded it. Gone are the ones who mourned the lives that fell here, and whose blood enriched the soil whence today the daisy springs. Gone all these, but still remains the broad field of fight, altered much 'tis said, but still the object of many a pilgrimage. The actors are all gone, but the European equipoise, then gained largely remains to-day. We leave the field full of sober thoughts. In the crypt of St. Paul, rest the ashes of Wellington, the costly sarcophagus in Paris commemorates the great Corsican, and so the invincible among men fall before a common enemy, and legions of braves or knots of dearest friends alike, prove unavailing in the last event. As we descend the street through the straglng village beyond, constantly recur those words of Tennyson, on the death of Wellington:

"The path of duty is the way to glory."

This evening I leave for London again, and after visiting one or two more localities shall leave for Canada. I have now visited four of the capitals of Europe—London, the greatest city the world has ever seen, capital of the greatest Empire; Edinburgh, with its historic surroundings, the centre of a country famed for brave men, brave in their former defence of Scotland, brave in their present defence of the kingdom; Paris, the capital of a pleasure-loving, contented, thrifty people, the centre of fashion and far more; and Brussells, the beautiful capital of the most densely settled country in Europe; these four, but never for a day, nay, never for a waking hour have I forgot our Canada, with its more rigorous climate, but a country of a better conditioned people than any of these—Canada, the land of great possibilities.

A Secret.

The secret of beauty lies in pure blood and good health, Burdock Blood Bitters is the grand key that unlocks all the secretions. It cures all Scrofulous Diseases, acts on the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Skin and Bowels, and brings the bloom of health to the palid cheek, Communications.

To the Editor of the Maritime Farmer:

SIR,—I desire to say that the article in Tuesday's Gleaner headed "York County Accounts." in so far as it refers to me, is a MALICIOUS LIE.

The Gleaner has slandered Warden Estabrooks and others belonging to the same political party as myself, and its object in this case can be readily seen. It being proverbial for its slanderous attacks, I do not deem further notice of its article regarding myself, necessary, nor shall I trouble you again to deny its falsehoods.

MANN'S Broadcast Seeders are sold by us. We have the attachment to Horse Rakes, the Complete Seeder on Wheels and Combined Seeder and Spring Tooth Harrow. These Seeders where used have given entire satisfaction. Sowing grain by hand is very laborious work, very few men can do it with any approach to uniformity, and the best of them fall far below the perfectly even work of a Broadcast Sowing Machine. A saving of at least half a bushel of oats per acre is obtained by using the Seeder, as Farmers who have used it agree that three and a half bushels per acre are fully equal to four bushels sown by hand. Sold on favorable terms.

TURNIP DRILLS.

We have in stock, Bell's One Horse Double Drill Seed Sowers for sowing root seeds of all kinds; sure sowers and no loss of seed when turning or sowing only one drill. This machine forms the drill before sowing, puts the seed into the ground, covers and rolls after sowing, all at one operation, Quantity of seed to be sown easily regulated. Prices low.

We have also, as usual, the extensively used Collard's Iron and Steel Harrows, Wilkinson and Fleury Steel Plows, One Horse Plows, Iron Cultivators, etc., a lot of seegmiller truss beam chilled Iron Plows on hand, which we will sell low. These Plows are largely used in Parish of Queensbury, York County. Among the many prominent farmers using them are Charles Ingraham, Henry Huestis, James Hallett, Geo. Long, Edward Atherton, Samuel Ingraham of Bear Island, Jesse Clark of Springfield, Capt. Christy, Scotch Settlement, and others to whom we refer, as to the merits of this Plow.

Fredericton, May 6th—tf

USE DINGMAN'S Electric Soap!

It is a self-washing Soap;
You do not need to boil your clothes;
You do not fill your house with steam;
It will not injure the finest fabric;
You can do your washing in half the time;
It will go farther than any soap you can make:
It will wash better than any soap you can make.

A trial will easily satisfy you that it does what is claimed for it. Ask your grocer for it. If he has not got it, he will get it for you,

JAMES HODGE, Agent.
