

Town and Country.

Mayor Fenety has erected a fountain in his garden. The Methodist Bazaar is to be held next Wednesday.

W. S. Gilman, editor of the Aroostook Pioneer, is dead.

Woodstock's new Post Office was opened on the public Saturday.

Martin Lamont is to leave here shortly for an extended European tour.

Rev. Mr. Tibbott of Canterbury was ordained a priest at the Cathedral, Sunday.

The Teachers' Institute will meet at St. John on the 20th of June.

Mr. I. S. G. Van Wart of Helena, Montana, has our thanks for late Montana papers.

Nelson A. Cliff has returned from his trip to the Southern States. He was absent five months.

D. R. Forgan agent of the Bank of Nova Scotia has gone to Winnipeg on a matrimonial mission.

H. C. O'neil of the Normal School is attending the closing exercises of Acadia College, Wolfville, N. S.

The freemen of Fredericton and St. Mary's are to take part in the freemen's tournament in St. John Dominion Day.

Rev. Jos. Noble of Hampstead, Queen's Co., and Rev. Jos. McLeod of this city exchanged pulpits last Sunday.

Edward L. O'Brien of Bathurst has been appointed to the Normal School.

Mr. J. T. Fletcher has retired from the management of the Woodstock Press, and is succeeded by his son Ward Fletcher.

The Capital says it understands President Jackson of the University intends resigning his position at the end of the present year.

A nurse maid in the employ of Mrs. Black, has confessed to having stolen $100 in money. The most of it has been recovered.

Fred. Harper, for some time train dispatcher on the N. B. Railway at Woodstock, has severed his connection with that road.

The Telegraph says, it is understood that Rev. D. D. Corrie's resignation of the N. B. & P. E. I. Methodist Conference has been severed.

Mr. Geo. J. Clarke, editor of the Courier has been gazetted a Justice of the Peace. We congratulate Mr. Clarke on the distinguished honor.

Mr. Luke Lawson has been elected by acclamation to the vacancy in the York Municipal Council, caused by Coun. Grant's death. Mr. Lawson has been in the Council before in a gentlemanly and recognized ability and intelligence.

Mr. F. W. Crum has assumed the management of the N. B. Railway. Mr. Alfred Seely, treasurer, has direct control over all the financial operations of the road, and the audit, freight and accounting offices are made subordinate to him.

At the City Council meeting last night, the contract for the erection of the new Alms House was awarded to Messrs McAlister and Estey for $4,875. Mr. John Edge to be superintendent of the work at a salary of $125.

The Albert Maple Leaf says that Mrs. Zena Hoar, a very industrious elderly lady of Hopewell Hill, has recently completed a "crazy" quilt which has in its construction 1,350 different pieces of cloth. It took her nine years to complete it.

The following gentlemen have been elected directors of the Tobique Valley Railway Company, John E. Stewart, John McConnell, A. D. F. Edgecombe, James E. Simmons, Henry Haasoy, Fred. H. E. Edgecombe; Treasurer, Geo. T. Baird, M. P.

The Messrs. Garden Bros. of Woodstock, on Thursday evening a telegram that their brother, Lieut. Jas. F. Garden, of Captain Dennis's scouts, was wounded in the shoulder at the battle of the Somme, and that the bullet had been extracted and that he was doing well.

Nomination for the Assembly vacancy in Restigouche county, caused by the resignation of Hon. Mr. Barber, is to take place on Monday, June 22nd. A young lawyer named Murray is the only candidate yet announced.

Value of goods entered for consumption at the Port of Fredericton, and duty collected thereon for the month of May, 1885.

Value. Duty. 1884, $3,221 $3,707.13 1885, 21,005 4,134.10

Decrease 1885, $16,338 $4,027.07

The members of the Hook, Ladder and Protection Companies which are now consolidated into one organization, have been placed on the same footing as the freemen regarding remuneration, namely $10 a month per annum. In view of no appropriation for the purpose, the Council did not feel that the freemen's pay could be increased.

It is authoritatively stated that as the result of the recent visit to England of General Sir Alexander Grant, the young general's British forces in North America, another regiment is to be stationed in Halifax garrison. Since the 101st was withdrawn from Halifax about three years ago, there has been no permanent there at a time. The one to come is said to be the famous 42nd Black Watch Highlanders.

The following Provincial appointments are gazetted: In the County of Sunbury—James A. Hayward to be a Coroner; Charles Mott to be a Justice of the Peace.

In the County of York—Melbourne Franklin Keith, M. D., to be Coroner; George D. and John B. Grant, to be Coroners; George H. Coburn, M. D., to be a member of the Board of Health for the City of Fredericton in room of Edward M. Patterson, M. D., removed from the Province.

Says the Halifax Herald—"Dick Wyatt, staff, formerly of the Dominion Telegraph office in this city, is now traffic chief of the Central cable office in New York—a fat job the office, and another promotion for an operator in the same office. The three brothers are as smart men as are to be found in the Western Union service. They belong to St. Andrews, and their names are the young men named as brothers of Mrs. W. Byron Coulthard, of this city. (Ed. FARMER.)

There was quite a large attendance of visitors at the closing exercises of the Normal School Friday, and among the speakers who addressed the students were the Hon. Mr. O'Brien, the formal proceedings, were the Lieut. Governor, the Attorney General and the Superintendent of Education. The Lane-Lane medals were won by Miss Helen Bruden in the Senior, and Edward O'Brien in the Junior class. The license examinations commenced yesterday. Of the 210 students attending during the term, 38 were not classified for a license.

The N. B. Railway is now for train management, divided into two sections. The northern section comprises the portion of road north from McAdam Junction and New Brunswick Junction, and will be divided into three districts for the purpose of this act, a reporter being assigned to each division. Dr. A. Stockton, M. P., Dr. Barker, Q. C., and Mr. A. D. Earle, are the committee to examine those who prefer to undergo the test in St. John. Mr. Geo. F. Gregory, E. L. Wetmore, M. P., and W. W. Street in Fredericton. The examinations will come off early in June.

A flatter was occasioned in the quiet village of Millville Thursday evening by the marriage of Miss Helen Tobin, daughter of Jacob Tobin, to Edward S. Hilyard, station agent on the N. B. Railway at Millville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. G. Stevens. The groom was attended by Gaspard Tapley and the bride by Miss Katie Leonard. The bride was attired in an elegant travelling costume and looked very charming. The presents were numerous and costly. Accompanied by the best wishes of many friends the newly married couple proceeded west by the Woodstock train.

Mr. Hilyard is a brother of Mr. Fred S. Hilyard of this city.

FASHIONABLE WEDDINGS.

Two of Fredericton fair daughters led to the Matrimonial Altar.

Deacon-Campbell.

Monday was not a propitious day for a wedding, nevertheless at 11 A. M., the hour fixed for the celebration of the nuptials of Miss Annette Montgomery-Campbell, eldest daughter of the late Professor Campbell, of the N. B. University, and Mr. Charles Deacon of the Bank of British North America, at New York, the Cathedral was entirely filled with an anxious crowd of spectators.

The wedding party were prompt on the hour, Mr. Deacon appearing first attended by his groomsmen, Mr. W. A. Forester. A moment later, and the charming young bride entered on the arm of her brother Capt. H. Montgomery-Campbell. She was attired in a dress of ivory satin, petticoat covered with antique needle embroidery; pointed bodice edged with pearls; long tulle veil; wreath and bouquet of orange blossoms and pearl ornaments. The bridesmaids were Miss Jennie Winslow, Miss O'Malley the Misses Deary, (3) all of whom wore pale pink India muslin, lined with roses and trimmed with lace and surah sashes, Gainsborough hats of the modish and tulle, trimmed with rosette gloves and ornaments and carried baskets of roses. Miss Maunsell, the other bridesmaid wore pale coffee-colored muslin, trimmed with pink, hat to match, and carried a basket of roses. The ceremony was performed by the Metropolitan, assisted by Rev. G. Roberts, and the bride was given away by her brother, Capt. Campbell. As the happy couple and a few of the bridesmaids left the church after the ceremony, children from Miss Campbell's class in Sunday School scattered flowers along their path.

Among the invited guests were The Lieut. Governor, Mrs. and Miss Wilmet; the Count and Countess DeBary; Colonel and Mrs. Maunsell; Mrs. Madley; the Bishop Coadjutor; Messrs. Lord, Major and Mrs. O'Malley; Capt. and Mrs. Powys; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Wetmore; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Winslow; Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Winslow; Rev. and Mrs. G. G. Roberts; Mrs. Alexander; Mr. O'Grady; Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Street; Lieut. Geo. Maunsell; Mr. W. W. Street; Dr. Shiras Alward; Judge and Mrs. Forester; Mr. Shirley Bonn; Mr. R. Napier; Mrs. Stanford; Mrs. and Miss Fisher; Mrs. Scornell; Dr. and Mrs. Harrison; Mr. and Mrs. Ketchum; Mr. and Mrs. Peair; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Allen; Col. and Mrs. B. Robinson.

At the bride's residence a splendid dejeuner was served. The bride's health was proposed in a fitting speech by the Metropolitan, Mr. Deacon happily replying. He proposed the health of the bride, and the Metropolitan Forester made a felicitous reply. The newly wedded pair took the afternoon train for New York, followed by the best wishes of many friends. The presents were numerous and costly.

O'Grady-Maunsell.

The most brilliant wedding ceremony ever witnessed in Fredericton, was celebrated at the Cathedral at 11.30 A. M., to-day, when Miss Catherine Maunsell, eldest daughter of Lieut. Col. Maunsell, D. A. G., was led to the altar by Mr. Walter D. Czar O'Grady of the Bank of Montreal at Toronto. Long before the hour for the ceremony the Cathedral was literally packed with people. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. Alexander and Rev. G. Roberts. The groom was attended by Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess Room, the happy couple occupying a position under an immense floral bell. The bride's health was proposed by Mr. O'Grady, who neatly responded to by Mr. O'Grady, who in turn proposed the bride's health. Lieut. Geo. Maunsell, brother of the bride, and Miss Maunsell had as bridesmaids, the Misses Maunsell (2) Miss Powys and Miss Gordon. The bride was attired in rich white satin, with train, pearl front and lace veil, and the bridesmaids wore cream muslin with hats to match. The bride looked very pretty, entered the church on the arm of her father, the party being met at the door by the band of the I. S. C., which played a lively march to the altar. The ceremony over, the wedding march was rendered by the band as the bridal party left the church.

The bride and bridegroom held a reception at the I. S. C., and afterwards the wedding party set out to luncheon in the Mess