As to the Pententiary and I. C. puzzle its intellect and point out a more central location than Moneton and Sackville. If the question of convenience is to govern the location of the farm, then for New Brunswick we file a claim. We shall not be greedy, however, and demand it for the vicinity of Fredericton, although we could put forward strong arguments to support such a claim, but we will be satisfied if the farm is located at Sackville, where it could be run with great advantage in connexion with the Mount Allison College. We quite agree with our Truro contemporary, however, that if it is proposed to locate the farm in Kings, Mr. Foster must be "sat upon," and we know of no better material for the business than the gigantic physical development of the Sun editor. Kings has a stock farm already, and everybody knows that it is a failure a source of loss annually to New Brunswick, and a reproach to its name. The sooner the Government gets rid of the Otty farm, the better. It would be preferable to surrender the lease at once, pay all that we are responsible for, and move the stock to Spring Hill or some other locality where the institution can be made to pay its way at least.

It is said by those people that our present tariff is an ordinary declaration of our right to tax English goods in the same way in which we lic. tax foreign goods. There is nothing in our present tariff that provides that we can tax English goods at higher rates than foreign goods. There is no more attack upon English interests, as far as we are concerned, than in a tariff of 15 per cent. It is uniformity of the tariff that imports from all countries, that is the feature, and it is that they propose to make us abandon. It is, I think, without charging everybody who is in favor of commercial union with being an annexationist tending in favor of annexation. The question will arise. Why should we much to the importance and trade of and North Western Railway to Langenburgh, have all this trouble about dividing our receipts, why not unite in the regular way and take our position as one of the States of the union? that Florence's marriage should come about very much in the same way as she had described the engagement and wedding of one of her characters in her unfinished novel, the manuscript of which I had read. I did not see anything more of Florence until Saturday night week. I came into this room about eleven o'clock of that night, having been out nearly all day, and I found upon my desk a piece of paper on which was written a message that Florence desired to see me. I went to the house of the friend where she was staying. I found her in bed in a very nervous state, sleepless. I adminis-Miss Florence Stone, the heroine of the tered a soporific.
