The face we bend and softly kiss,

Bears no impress but that of bliss. We know that many pages Within the book of years She has perused with anguish, Amid her falling tears, That partings, change and doubting, Have caused her many fears; Forgotten now each pang of woe, No grief again her soul will know.

We gaze at her dear features, Within the casket bound, And think that she is dwelling Where changeless peace is found. That there no painful partings Her loving heart will wound And, weeping for her, "Loved and gone We gather strength to walk alone-

Along the way before us, Wither we do not know, It may be strewn with blessings, And pleasures we may know; Or thickly set with dangers, May bring us naught but woe. Yet, o'er life's pathway she has come,

At last, unto her heavenly home.
