The Grits at Moncton,

one half the counties in the Province and Connecticut, to say nothing of apparently were represented at the New York. Convention, and there were very few men of influence among the delegates. Mr. Emmerson, Mr. Rogers, Mr. Mc-Cready, Mr. Gregory and Mr. Macinerney, the rejected of Westmorland, Albert, Kings, York and Kent, were present, and of course registered their unqualified disapproval of Sir John and all things Tory, Mr. Skinner, M. P. Mr. Hale M. P., and many former influential members of the party were not present, nor do they seem to have sent any messages to the convention, The whole affair fell very flat indeed, showing in what a wretchedly weak condition Gritism is at present in New Brunswick.

The public meeting so extensively advertised, was addressed by annexationist Longley of Halifax, and young Mr. Macinerney of Richibucto. Both are fluent talkers and they harangued on unrestricted reciprocity to a beggarly array of empty benches, but we doubt if the people of New Brunswick care to take their instruction on polipoliticians as Messrs. Longley and Macinerney.

A noticeable feature of the Convenunanmity. This will surprise the country after having read the Telegraph's vicious attacks on Mr. Ellis and the latter's vigorous and sullen silence under the fire. The question of loyalty seems not to have been discussed, else Mr. McCready and Mr. Ellis would doubtless have disturbed the pleasure of the occasion. The convention would have been a grand place for Mr. McCready to have had it out with the Globe's annexation ideas, and Mr. Ellis' want of regard for the sanctity of an oath, but Mr. McCready's courage apparently oozed out when brought face to face "in meeting" with the object of his past onslaughts.

The meekest man in the whole convention was Mr. Hawke. He pocketed the complimentrry address and the thousand dollars, however, and doubtless feels that financially he has lost nothing by his imprisonment. A resolution brought before the convention to condemn the mode of trial in contempt cases, was unceremoniously withdrawn, the "delegates" evidently not caring to risk a term of imprison-

It was rather a sad commentary on the usefulness of the convention, that while sitting in Westmorland, the very next county of Cumberland was preparing, with every prospect of success to send a Tory representative to Parliament without scarcely a protest and no practical opposition from Grit source, and that in the county of Pictou next adjoining, a Tory representative was elected by a show of hands. These are hard facts with which the convention neglected to

The total number of votes in the Electoral College is 401, making 201 necessary to a choice. To win, the Democrats must hold the solid South with its 153 votes, New York with 36, New Jersey with 9, and Connecticut with 6, or, failing to carry the two latter states, must gain Indians. The Republicans, on the other hand, can count on the 182 votes cast for Blaine of the solid submarine buildings; the Canadian Government and the garrison is yet undetermined.
