THE GROWTH OF FANATICISM.

(To the Editor of the Farmer.) SIR.-Judging by what of late has been said from pulpit and platform and through the local press by certain persons, bearing upon the Scott Act prosecutions (so called), one is almost irresistibly driven to the conclusion, that the selection of a single idea, or a single range of ideas from the great world of ideas to which the mind is related, and adopting it as the supreme object of thought and work tends to a species of insanity. Does it not shew the dwarfing effect upon the mind of minister and layman alike, and that men may become starved, mean, bigoted, and essentialivinsane by feeding exclusively upon a single idea, be it religion, temperance, vegetable diet, or other subject. A writer of no mean position, as shewn by his writings, has said: "Scattered through-out the country, we shall find men who have devoted themselves to the cause of temperance, or abstinence, from intoxicating liquors.
