A Christmas Anthem.

So sang the angels 'mid the stars on high,

"Glory to God, on earth good will to men."

Who gave His soul to die

We hail the hallowed morn.

The Lord of life was born-

For man defiled.

God's Holy child.

Let war its clamour still, and sheath the

And sceptered potentates their homage

That natal morn redeems all other days,

It shines on all munificient with grace,

To pining haunts of poverty repair;

The poor of earth are his peculiar care.

Grudge not a hand to succour and to save;

Our Gallant Ship.

With rippling sea and freshening breeze

The gallant ship sweeps proudly by,

Our fatherland, "sweet by and by."

A soft, clear voice sings out the strain

That oft has cheered the weary soul,

Till o'er the waves the accents roll.

The night is dark, the moon is young,

A heavy mist comes spreading out

And all aboard is trim and taut.

The bells ring out the midnight hour,

In murky sky and splashing tide,

Comes crashing on the larboard side

With staggering lurch she heels around,

Like vanquished hero seeks a grave,

She sinks beneath the dismal wave.

With riven beams and gurgling sound

Deep buried in the swirling tide;

On sea or land, whate'er betide,

The winds a mournful requiem sing

And in our hearts the voices ring

Old ocean let them sleep,

With wailing moan and tender sigh,

* * * * *

Give them a quiet resting-place

Safely hold

In thy waters still and deep;

Thy treasures, mighty sea!

"Give up thy dead to me."

Borrioboola Gha.

With a barbarous sounding name;

A stranger preached last Sunday,

And crowds of people came

To hear a two hours' sermon

Twas all about some heathen

Who lived in a land of darkness

So well their wants he pictured

And goodly sums were cast;

Each listener felt his pocket,

For all must lend a shoulder

That carried light and comfort

That night their wants and sorrows

To push the rolling car

Lay heary on my soul,

I took my morning stroll

Till something caught my mantle

And looking down with wonder.

What could she want, I questioned.

' We live just down the street,

Impatient to be gone.
With trembling lips she answered,

And we've nothing left to eat.

Down in a wretched basement,

God's sunshine never falls.

found a fellow creature

Gasping her life away.

A chair, a broken table,

Oh, never had I pictured

A scene so full of woe-

Around the dying bed.

All this distress and sorrow

Should be in lands afar;

Was I suddenly transplanted

Ah, no; the poor and wretched Were close beside my door,

And I had passed them heedless

A thousand times before.

Alas for the cold and hungry

While all my tears were given

In distant lands we know;

Not only to the heathen:

First at Jerusalem.

A cup of pure cold water

Go, find in yonder hovel

A Borrioboola Gha.

Our Lord commands his servants

Through all the world to go,

This was the charge to them-

"Go, preach the word, beginning

O, Christian, God has promised

Shall find reward in Heaven.

THE ASSEMBLY SPEAKERSHIP is being discussed by some of the papers. The opposing candidates are Messrs. Stevenson and Vail. Dr. Vail is an ex-Speaker,

Would you secure the blessing,

You need not seek it far;

Whoe'er to thee has given

There's work enough for Christians

To the suffering far away.

That met me every day

To Borrioboola Gha?

A bed of dirty straw,

A hearth all dark and fireless-

For the mournful sight before me,

The sad and sickening show-

The babes that pine for bread,

The squalid group that huddled

But these I scarcely saw.

With mould upon the walls,

Through whose half-buried windows

Where cold, and want, and hunger

Crouched near her as she lay

With eager grasp and wild,

And in deep meditation

I saw a little child :

A pale and puny creature

And mamma she's a dyin'.

In dirt and rags forlorn;

To Borrioboola Gha.

That when the plate was passed,

Thousands of miles afar.

Called Borrioboola Gha.

Until the Archangel calls-

ATHOL, GLENGARRY.

The signal lights aloft are hung

When lo! a bark of giant power

Our gallant ship sails on and on,

And hopeful hearts repose at ease,

No adverse winds disturb the sail,

A few more billows and we'll hail

Then all take up the rich refrain

ATHOL, GLENGARRY.

Re-echo far the anthem of the sky;

Ye rolling ages chant the glad refrain.

Chorus-Glory to God on high!

Christmas Echoes.

"How many families whose members have been dispersed and scattered, far and wide, in the restless struggles of life, are then re-united, and meet once again in that happy state of companionship and good-will, which is a source of such pure and unalloyed delight, and one so incompatible with the cares and sorrows of the world, that the religious belief of the most civilized nations and the rude traditions of the roughest savages alike number it among the first joys of a future condition of existence provided for the blest and happy! How blest who know that Christ can save, The Death Penalty in Quebec.

> special:-St. John's, P. Q. Dec, 13.—At an early hour, this morning, groups of men were to be seen at the street corners discussing the tragic event which was to take place to. day. At nine o'clock a large crowd had gathered around the Jail eager to get a glimpse at the prisoner. Your correspondent called on the Rev. Cure Aubrey, who has been with the prisoner ever since his confinement, and was informed by that gentleman that when the telegram was received from Ottawa, informing the Sheriff that the law must take its course, he called upon the prisoner, in company with the Sheriff, and upon informing him that his doom was sealed Castafrolez, who received the news very calmly, threw up his hands and exclaimed:" I am not guilty of the murder of Matheron." The prisoner devoted most of his time last night to reading his prayer book and slept in all about three hours. His wife visited him two days after the sentence was pronounced, when he bade her good bye, saying he did not wish her to visit him again, as he did not know how it would affect him. She is now in Fall River.

The execution was to have taken place at II o'clock, but owing to some slight delay it was not till a few minutes after 11 o'clock that the condemned man appeared. He was attended by Rev. Messrs. Aubrey and Daigneau, of this place. He mounted the scaffold with a firm step and his demeanor all through appeared cool and indifferent as to his fate. He then addressed those present without a quiver in his voice, saying, "Gentlemen, I suppose you expect a speech of me and a confession, but I have no confession to make. I am about to suffer the extreme penalty of the law for a crime of which I am entirely innocent." He then thanked the jailor and his family for their kindness and attention during his imprisonment, and also those people of St. John's County and friends across the line who had kindly signed a petition to the Government asking his sentence to be commuted to imprissonment for life. He then, in a solemn voice, declared once more his innocence, and called on the Almighty as his witness. He said he had been high in position in this world, but now was about to descend pointing with his finger to the foot of the scaffold. He then requested the sheriff to tighten the rope around his neck. His last words were, "Oh my God if it was not for my faith in thee what would sustain me now." He was let hang for about the usual time and then cut down, when an eager crowd who were outside the walls were admitted to see him inside of the jail yard. The square around the court house was crowded and some in their anxiety to see the man hung, climbed on top of the correspondent interviewed Mr. H. J. St. Pierre, who was first retained as counsel by the murderer. He is perfectly confi dent of the guilt of Castafrolez, and says that he confessed to him. The confession was made in St. John's, Que., during the progress of the inquest. Castafrolez had drawn a map which St. Pierre still has in his possession, designating the exact spot where he murdered the deceased, it being in American territory, about an acre and a half from Fort Montgomery. Then the prisoner introduced the matter by stating that he was alarmed lest they should find that the blows were made with the end of the handle of an oar, the jury being under the impression that they were made with the feathered portion. Mr. St. Pierre stopped Castafrolez in the midst of his confession, saying he would hear no more It was on account of this confession, as
