and afterwards the rope. Witness said she don't always state things as occuring in their proper order. Mr. Palmer then read her statement taken at Moncton.

The court then adjourned for dinner, but there was a numerous attendance in court during the afternoon. Mr. Palmer continued to read Annie Parker's deposition taken at Moncton before Mr. Justice Workman. Witness said some of it is not down right. Thought she said Harry stayed in the bar-room two and a half hours, and then went up-stairs. She always said the powder was put in the fourth drink; he poured out the third drink himself.

Mr. Palmer read in her statement where she said the powder was put in the fifth drink (these statements are fyled as evidence). The top of the wagon was not even with the third step. She stepped from fourth step to the waggon. She went round by the forward wheel when she got in. She never said she stepped from fourth step. They planned the drugging before her without her knowledge, but did not use the word mortifiser. She never heard them use it. Mr. Palmer then read where she swore she heard them use it, she denies saying it. She knows the magistrate put down that she said Mrs. Osborne gave the money to al Steadman, also her visit to the river Harry, but she never said it. Annie Parker continued: I saw waggon quest in May. She stated that at that track about 15 feet in the water: saw time the tide was low. She showed them horse track also. I saw none down the where a wagon turned in the water. I don't know who pawned a hatchet at Osborne's I was for the piano and sent it away. A heard that some man did so. to mention the Scadouc river in my first declaration. I did not mention it before the 7th of December to any one. The Friday before the arrest I told Mrs. Mc-Carthy the body was in the Scadouc. I told Mrs. Flukes and others, that if I were a man I would find it soon in the Scadouc. Witness said: I told Mrs. McMinn at last court that a Mr. Pomeroy was at the Waverly, and was talking about low wages. He said I could not do much shopping at $4 per month and he gave me a dollar. That is all I told her. Eliza said I had more money when I went out than my wages. Eliza did not say anything at all. I thanked Mr. Pomerov for his money. The gentlemen often gave me money when I was hired in the house. I never saw Agnes at Cook's Brook. I did not know Miledge Lockart. I knew he was hired at his brother's in Moncton. (Witness seemed to have caught a severe cold and coughed incessantly. Dr. Tuck remarked that she must be provided with rubbers immediately as she has nothing but thin boots on.) I never was out late with Frazer nor any. one else at Osborne's only I was out with Harry once until 10.30 o'clock. (Here the witness evinced a disposition for measuring swords with Mr. Palmer, but His Honor cautioned her, and Hon. Mr. Hanington thought witness had as good a right to answer Mr. Palmer as she did, as he had to interrogate her thus, and he would object.) I never told Duncan Barclay that I swore the child, nor that it was his. (The witness was not the only representative of the fair sex present out of some fifty or sixty who had suddenly disappeared. Here constable McFee made his timely appearance with a pair of rubbers which witness promptly put on.) Witness continued. - I told Dr. Tuck and Edward McCarthy that I had a child but was not going to tell it. That was here in the barristers' room. I did not say on this trial that I had no child. I had a child and it ilved about two days.

What is not on this case I FULL ASSORTMENT OF will answer as I please. Sometimes I tell the truth, some times I don't. Here, His Honor took occasion to check the witness, as she was making very light of this serious case and apparently trying to keep the audience convulsed with laugh-STOVES, Saw Charlie Welling last court; don't know whether he is the one that went to the Scadouc with me. The potatoe field in Atkinson's field was about 10 or 11 feet from the fence. After the potatoe patch was a piece of grass, then a calf pasture, Wire Goods, Russian, Galand then a piece of ploughed ground. The waggon that the body was put in had a board seat. I never said it had "rounds' in the seat. It was backed even with three steps of the platform. The body of the waggon was against the third step and the wheel was not on the step. Harry and I were between the hall door and JAS. W. FRASER.

McCarthy when he was struck. (She here showed the position to the Court and jury on the plan.) McCarthy had his hat on, which fell off on the counter and stayed there. When struck his feet slipped towards the hall door. His head went towards the west bar-room door. His knees were about where his feet were when standing. He was standing against the bend of the counter when struck. His head was about the same distance from the counter that his feet were. His face was right fair towards the counter. Harry swung the hatchet. Don't know whether he had it in his right or left hand, I know he had it in his right hand. Harry was standing up and his body went forward as he struck. He then turned the body over. Mrs. Osborne then fixed me a powder; next Harry swore me. He next got the stone and then the rope, and made knots
