Uncle Andrew's Romance.

Uncle Andrew sat leaning his elbows his hand. Traces of fresh tears were on the ivory miniature which lay before him, depicting, as I saw by the ably. glimpse which I caught of it, a bright girlish face of surpassing beauty. I had no thought of intruding on Uncle Andrew's private griefs when I entered his room without warning. Indeed I never suspected that he had any griefs, he was so cheerful and pleasant, and so free from the crustiness commonly set down as the distinguishing trait of old bachelors.

I was about to beat a hasty retreat, when Uncle Andrew stopped me. "Don't go, Charlie," he said, "I feel as though it would do me good to talk a bit just now." "Is that the likeness of a relative? I asked, pointing to the miniature, which seemed to be the subject of his thought? "No," he answered, "but I will tell you the story, if you care to hear it. I think it would be a relief to tell some one this evening."

I drew up a chair in front of Uncle Andrew, who thus proceeded. "You may form some conception of how beautiful Alice Bond was from the picture you see there, though the reality to reproduce. "She was a delicate and tender flower. A hereditary tendency to heart disease-her mother had died suddenly from that cause-gave her friends much anxiety in her earlier years, but the doctors gave encouragement that she would outgrow it in time, and Mr. Bond went on making money as usual, with an eye to leaving his daughter some day the richest heiress in the

"I was a happy youth that day when I told Alice that I loved her, and had done so ever since I knew the meaning of the word, and she leaned her darling head on my shoulder and whispered back the precious answer that satisfied my heart's longings.

"We both knew Alice's father too well to hope for his present sanction to our union. This was our plan: I would go to the land of gold, then newly discovered, win a fortune, and return and claim the hand of the rich man's daughter when he would have no right to scorn my suit as that of a mercenary adventurer.

"For two long years I toiled in that wild, far off country, as a man only can toil when he has some cherished end in view. I was among the fortunate ones, and at the end of the period named had amassed a sum beyond my most sanguine hopes. The time had come when I need wait no longer. The days of servitude were over, and I might now claim the prize.

"With what impatience I made the weary journey homeward. Not a line had passed between Alice and myself. It was a condition of our compact that we should hold no communication till the time came that we might ask Alice's father for his approval. The self-imposed restriction had been faithfully observed. I did not even write to tell Alice of my good success. I wished to be bearer of the good news in person. "At last I set foot in my native town. My first greeting, I resolved, should come from Alice. I rather ran than walked to her house.

"Tell Miss Bond a gentleman wishes to see her, I said, excitedly, to a servant who answered my hasty ring. was the response."

"Why not?" I asked, impatiently. "Do you not know she is to be married this morning?" returned the ser-

"Ellis Wythe! the villian! He had pretended to be my friend, and was the only confident of my love for Alice.

staggered past the servant and was soon in the midst of the gay company to whom Mr. Bond, stiff and stately as usual, was doing the honors with an air of great satisfaction. "The bridegroom and his attendants stood in a little group by themselves. A clergyman was in readiness to do his for the bride Wythe Heavens knows what I would have said or done, for I was in no reasonable mood. But at that instant a piercing shriek from an upper chamber rang through the house. Alarm overspread the countenance of the guests. There was a general rush for the stairway, and I was borne along with the others. Through the open door of an apartment we saw the brides-maid who had gone to summon the bride, kneeling beside a prostrate form in white. It was that of Alice in her wedding robes. The strain upon the blown in the bottle, and Take no other. worn, troubled heart had been too Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 great. She was dead."

"It was not till afterwards that I learned the full perfidy of Ellis Wythe. He had pretended to receive intelligence, through a correspondent, of my marriage and permanent settlement in California. Stung by my apparent faithlessness, Alice had yielded to her father's command, and consented to marry a man she did not love. But the poor, crushed heart rebelled at last -and broke."

Poor Uncle Andrew ! - and that was the reason ke had always remained a bachelor.

Benefits of Advertising.

Bread is the staff of life, so is advertising the staff of business. Blessed are they who do not advertise, for they shall rarely be troubled with a

You can't eat enough in a week to last you a year, and you can't advertise on that plan either.

Business can go without advertising, so can a waggon go without greasing, but in both cases it is hard work. No bells ring so loud as a good advertisement. People are more apt to heed what they read than what they hear. Those who take the lead in pushing their business through the newspapers, generally take the lead in everything else. If you don't mean to attend to your business, and prefer a slender income while your neighbours grow rich, it won't pay to advertise. Judicious advertising is sure to bring was far beyond the power of any artist large returns, to increase your business reputation, to add to your acquaintance. If you haven't business, advertise. If you have business, advertise. It is a 'poor rule that won't work both ways."

A place well advertised is known to many, while one not advertised is known only to a few passers-by. Quitting advertising in dull times is like pulling down a dam when the water is low. When trade revives, it will rush by him who does not stay it with ready customers. The way to have such always on hand

REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION .- A correspondent writes to an exchange as follows about the flower of a well known plant: "I have discovered a remedy for consumption. It has cured a number of cases after they had commenced bleeding at the lungs and the hectic flush was already on the cheek. After trying this remedy to my own satisfaction, I have thought that philanthropy required that I should let it be known to the world. It is common mullen, steeped strongly and sweetened with sugar, and drunk freely. Young or old plants are good, dried in the shade and kept in clean bags. The medicine must be continued for three or six months, according to the nature of the disease. It is very good for blood vessels also. It strengthens and builds up the system in stead of taking away the strength. It makes good blood and takes inflammation away from the lungs."

JAMES NEILSON. Chatham, Miramichi TO THE FARMERS OF MIRAMICHI. We have been Manufacturing

IRON FRAME MOWERS For the last four years, and are now offering to the farming community this, the BEST MOWER. combining greater excellence of mechanical simplicity together with greater durability and entire reliability for all the requirements of the field, than any other Mower extant. - In construction they are similar to the celebrated Walter A. Wood's Iron Frame Mower, and the Richardson Buckeye, both

American Machines. Of the former there are over 200,000 in use, and the extraordinary number of 20,000 were manufactured and sold last season, by the Wood Company of United States. We have over 500 of our manufacture now in use, every one of which (no exceptions) stands as a monument . the grand and unprecedented success of home manufacture and our enterprise. A list of our Agents in this section of the Province will be found appended, and farmers are requested to ask information of them relative to our Mowers in use in their respective localities, which will establish beyond doubt their unquestionable superiority over any other mower to be had in our market. The facility of procuring all parts of pieces with in a nominal length of time must show beyond the shadow of a doubt the claims such an enterprise has upon the farmers of the Maritime Provinces. For the coming harvest of 1877 we will manufacture LARJLY in excess of our numbers of last season, and trust that our growing enterprise may find such inducements held out to it as will be commensurate with its merits. Let it be remembered we have no hesitation at all times, in entering into a friendly competition in

WE GUARANTEE OUR MOWERS TO BE INFE RIOR TO NONE. Farmers would do well to enquire prices and terms before purchasing else-AGENTS: Campbellton-MALCOM PATTERSON. Dalhovsie-DAVID RITCHIE.
