Sworn Statement

Medical.

Dear Sir,-From exposure, I took sick about nine years ago with Rheumatic Fever, from which suffered about four months. When I recovered from the fever I found myself suffering with pain in my side and constipation, which brought on the piles. I consulted a physician, and paid him over $200 for attending me, and all the while I was gradually growing worse. Then one physician after another was employed, until seven of the best physicians of Boston had taken my case in On consultation between several of the leading physicians, they concluded my complaint was asthma and general debility. I had great difficulty in breathing and an inhaler was required to afford me breath. Through the treatment of one physician I took from 75 to 100 boxes of calomel pills, and faithfully tried all the medicine that each physician prescribed. From my long sickness, and he vast amount of medicine used to overcome the great pain, my kidney s became badly affected, and I suffered exeruciating pain in the small of my back, with great difficulty in passing my urme.

One physician said I was diseased all through my system, and he regretted that he could give me no hope for health. My suffering from indigestion was so great that it was impossible to keep any solid food on my stomach, and the whole nature of my food was broth from oatmeal.

I also took a prescription from a celebrated English physician, who said my trouble was Bronchitis and Dyspepsia. I took 18 bottles of medicine especially prepared for Dyspepsia, and 1 have used a great deal of medicine from apothecaries' prescription. I have taken Sarsaparilla until you could count the bottles by the dozen, and indeed I have given nearly all the popular advertised medicine a fair trial I had a dreadful cough, and did not average over two hours' sleep a night for 8 A brother policeman urged me to try VEGETINE, but for a long time I refused, having got completev discouraged from taking so much medicine with out any benefit; however, after urgent persuasion, I concluded to try it, and before I had used one bottle I could eat and hold on my stomach a beefsteak, a thing I had not been able to do before for years; indeed, I obtained more substantial benefit rom the first bottle of Vegetine than from all other medicines which I had taken. I kept on improving, and kept on using the Vegetine, until I was perfectly cured and able to de duty all day, eat and digest my food, sleep well at night, and I am now 40 pounds heavier than I ever was before in my life, and am, as I think, a living contradiction of the prophecies of the most learned medical talof the prophecies of the most learned medical tal-ent of New England, for with all of their combined wisdom, they could not accomplish so much as that simple vegetable medicine called Vegetine to which I am indebted for health, life and happiness.

367 Athens st., Police Station 4. SUFFOLK, SS., BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 22, 1875. Then personally appeared the above named Eugene E. Sullivan, and made oath that the foregoing statement is true, before me HOSEA B. BOWEN, Justice of the Peace.

EUGENE E. SULLIVAN,

VEGETINE Further Proof. FACTS WILL TELL.

GOFFSTOWN, N. H., Aug. 1, 1875.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq. :-Dear Sir. - Allow me to say a word in favor of VEGETINE. During the past year I have suffered the 3d of November until the middle of the following June, and on an average did not sit up two hours a week; I had eight of the best physicians in worse. They agreed that I had heart disease phthisis, pyaemia, and kidney complaint, and could never be any better. I was reduced in weight 50 pounds, which is much, for I am naturally thin. In June, finding I was failing under the treatment of the physicians, I commenced the use of VEGETINE through the earnest persuasion of friends, and, I am happy to state, with good results. have gained ten pounds in weight, and can sit up all day, walk half a mile and ride six. I am greatly encouraged, and shall continue using the VEGETINE if I can get it. I am a poor man, but for the truth of this statement I refer to any man in Goffstown or vicinity.

When Mr. Langley saw that he v rested, he said: "My friend, you called yourself, a while ago, 'an old tar,' and I see 1 your speech that you are but lately from England. I always loved when a boy to hear of the sea, and if you would like I should be pleased and interested to have you tell me of your life, and why at your advanced age you have left your native land."

The old man's face brightened, as he replied, gratefully "And that I will, sir. Yours is the first brotherly hand which has been held out to me in America. I only came a month ago; and perhaps the old man should not have left his home at all. But human love, sir, is very strong, and I came to try and find my one daughter-my lass, who when I last saw her was a blooming maiden, and who left England thinking her old father dead." Laying his wrinkled hand softly upon the golden head of the child, who, in anticipation of a story, had drawn her little stool near his chair, he thus

My given name, kind sir, is John Hilyard; but I have been called 'Mate Jack' ever since I was drawn by my love for the deep blue sea to enter upon a sailor's life. I was eighteen when I first went on ship-board, and for ten years I staid on the Echo, cheerfully fulfilling my duties and obeying my superior officers. I had little education or knowledge of religion, having never known a parent's care; but to be on the sea, to lie in my berth and hear the waves swish with their long, regular motion against the ship's side was worth more than books or learning to "After a time I left the Echo, and with the eagerness of youth for new scenes, engaged on a vessel bound for foreign parts. The Britannia was a trader, and had already been twice on a profitable voyage to the Upper Guinea coast, and was fitting out for a third trip when I joined her crew. They were glad to get me-I was strong and ablebodied then. The day came that we sailed; and a dark, stormy one it was. The wind blew a stiff gale before We were flying busily about obeying the captain's orders, when suddenly a small lad appeared in our midst. He it was who showed me that above the blue sea, whose every aspect I knew so well, was One whose power ruled the waves and stilled the highest storms. 'Stowaway Ned's' history was little enough to tell. Brought up by a poor but pious mother, who had lately died, he had been buffeted since then from corner to corner, until he hid away in our hold with the intention of becoming a sailor. He was a good little fellow; that pious mother's teachings had taken firm root and to him I owe that through all the changes and trials of my life I have had the comfort of knowing and loving that Friend 'unto whom every knee shall

"We soon grew to be great companions, 'Stowaway Ned' and I, notwithstanding the difference in our ages; and he became a prime favorite with the captain. "Years ago there was not the facility for trading in barbarous parts that there is now, and great danger attended the adventurous white men, who risked their lives by approaching too near the neighborhood of the coast inhabited by the treacherous blacks. But our trips, which we made year after year, were always successful, and the profits worth the risk we ran. "During one of our long stops for repairs in England I met and loved a sweet-faced lassie. She was an orphan, working for her living, and as she made no objections to marry a poor sailor, we were joined together. Then after a while the time came for me to go away again, and with tears and kisses we parted-though we little knew it-forever . "I never saw her dear face again, and never will in this world. The next summer, on my return from my voyage which had been longer than usual, I found she had been dead a month, and in her place had left a tiny, wee-limbed creature with her mother's blue eyes and smiling mouth. "Those were hard days! Had I not had my friend's companionship—he was forget my grief in its depth; but 'Stowaway Ned 'kept by me and comforted me until at last the weeks rolled around and we stood together again upon the Britannia's deck. "We ran down through the trades till we reached the Guinea coast, and this time, rendered fearlesss by our former freedom from difficulty ap-well supplied with ammunition and anticipated no danger. "For a time all went right, but one afternoon I heard a sudden cry of alarm and the captain's voice raised in tones large house in one of the fashionable streets of our metropolis.
