CHATHAM. - - . OCTOPER 23, 1879. The Hanlan-Courtney Race.

Admirers of boat racing are again disgusted by the developements in the race that was to have taken place at Mayville, N. Y. on Thursday last between Hanlan and Courtney. On the morning of that day it was announced that Courtnev's boats had been sawn in two during the night. Hanlan offered Courtney the choice of three of his boats, but Courtney's representative asked for a postponement, which was not granted, so Hanlan rowed over the course in one minute and thirteen seconds less time than the best on record and the referee decided the race to have been won by Hanlan although the "Hop Bitters" man who offered the prize, declines to pay it over. Despatches on the subject contain the following :-After the race, a committee of news paper representatives, who claim they were shabbily treated with respect to accommodation, called on Courtney, to enquire into his share of responsibility there Mr. E. B. Chandler moved the following for. He denied any responsibility whatever, amendment, seconded by the Rev. G. M. and during a conversation in regard to personal matters, made some startling statements which resulted in a general press meeting being called, with representatives of Hanlan and Courtney present. Here Referee Blaikie presented a written statement from Courtney, substantially as follows :-On September 12, Hanlan, Eli Ward and Dave Ward visited him at the Brackett House, Rochester, and Ward then proposed to divide the purse equally if he (Courtney) would row, intimating that Hanlan was afraid of the result. Ward did all the talking. Courtney, who was sick at the time, replied that he had suffered enough last fall when innocent, without again going through the same thing, knowing himself to be guilty, or words to that effect. Courtney says Hanlan and the Wards then left the room. Weeks afterwards Hanlan tried to approach him, but he would not give him a chance. On Sept. 10th Ward proposed to sell the race to Hanlan and divide the purse, but he (Courtney) only listened to movers of the original resolution and the it to learn what Hanlan and his friends were after. Brister heard the talk. amendment withdraw them.

Courtney states that Frenchy Johnson told him afterwards he was listening close outside and heard some of the conversation. "I then took my boat and went out rowing. We had been in that boathouse from 2 till 5. Ward talked many times about cutting the purse. He said Hanlan wouldn't go into the race at all unless I would let him win. They were willing to divide the purse, and give Hanlan and I $3,000 provided I'd let him win. Only last evening Dave Ward sent nothing equal to it for such complaints. Can me word by Brister 'if Charlie wants to do any business, to have nothing to do with Quimby, because we can do better with him than Quimby.' * * When I left home, I told my wife I was going to beat him if it lay in my power, and that I mean now to do and believe I

The press investigation closed last night without any whitewash resolutions, and each press man was left uncommitted to any opinion. Frenchy Johnson, Courtand Brister, his other confidante and backer, halted, hesitated, retracted and reconstructed his replies, confessing by his deeds, if not by his words, that he had been negotiating in sincerity and had been caught in the trap. The evidence of his lawyer, Marrin, was significant. It confirmed what the Toronto party said, and left the impression that Courtney was too much of a coward to stand to his charges made to Mr. Blaikie. Mr. Blaikie himself was judicial in his impartiality, but it was easy to see that his sympathy was with Hanlan. The Hanlan party's story was straightforward and convincing. They were not altogether blameless in the means which they took to "get" Courtney. But that they did not mean to do anything more than get Courtney out is apparent by the fact of Hanlan making such tremendous in the Hawdon race. Altogether the Hanlan party had the best of the investigation Morris says "Johnson cut his own boat Courtney has been the victim of alleged malpractice in seven races, and people say that his greatest enemy is himself, The pools will be declared off, at which there is much grumbling by Canadians. Of the circumstances connected with the damaging of Courtney's boats, a correspondent writes as follows :-"I have just come from Courtney's occasion regarding the appointment of a boathouse. Admittance is refused all by Coadjutor Bishop.

Johnson and Brister. I have, however, learned beyond a doubt that the boats are cut, and am convinced that it was done this morning after 9 o'clock, though Courtney's friends assert it was done last night after 8 o'clock. The mysterious thing is that both of Courtney's boats are cut and Johnson's is not. The feeling among his fellow oarsmen is terribly bitter against Courtney. It is now said Courtney knows how the boats were cut and that his own men cut them. Some gamblers from New York are said to be the cause but this is entitled to no credence.
Were Courtney to show himself at Mayville, he would be thrown into the lake, Temperance Society. Mr. G. A. Schofield, in accordance with notice given yesterday, moved that the constitution be amended so as to allow a Bishop coadjutor to sit in the Synod. Rev, G. M. Armstrong thought it was too late an hour to bring up this matter. Mr. E. B. Chandler thought it was not legal to change the constitution at a special meeting like the present. The Chief Justice thought it was inexpedient to proceed with this matter at present. The intention of the Constitution was no doubt that a year's notice should be given of such changes. There was some doubt as to whether anything but the canon could be legally considered at this meeting. Mr. Wm. Wilkinson thought there was not sufficient reason for delaying this matter. He did not see why it had to bebrought up at an annual meeting, nor was it clear that a year's notice had to be given. Mr. T. B. Robinson said that if it was illegal to make changes in the constitution all business done yesterday was illegal. Judge Fisher thought that the question of a Coadjutor Bishop was the only one that could be legally discussed at this meeting.

Resolved,—It is not expedient to take any steps tending to an alteration in the Constitution at any special meeting of the Synod. Rev. F. H. Almon, Mr. Wm. Jarvis and Judge Botsford spoke on the question, the latter advocating the withdrawal of the notices of motion. His Lordship the Metropolitan said he would like to know what the words 'such other business" meant in the notices. If it was illegal to make changes the constitution, all the business done yesterday must be illegal. After short speeches by Judge Fisher, Hurd Peters, T. B. Robinson, Rev. G. M. Armstrong, the Chief Justice, and others, Mr. Wm. Jarvis objected to the proceedings going on, as he claimed there was no quorum present. Rev. Mr. Campbell suggested that the

The question as to whether or not it was the wish of the Synod that the resolution and amendment should be withdrawn was then taken and decided in the affirmative. All notices of motion were then withdrawn. The question of a quorum of laymen not being present was again brought up and it was found that only twenty-one were present and that twenty-nine were necessary to form a quorum. Chief Justice Allen suggested that the sermons preached annually at the meeting of the Synod should be published.

The Rev. L. G. Stevens wished to express his joy at the fact that the proceedings had been so harmonious. He was pleased that though in a small majority, no motives were attributed to any clergyman ney's fides Achates, was too eager and by his brother clergy and laymen. He flowery to be regarded as telling the truth, moved the following resolution, seconded by the Rev. Mr. Edwards :-Resolved, That this Synod, before which matters > brought, bear witness of our high appreciation of the dignity, the candor, the patience and im-partiality which have characterized His Lordship's bearing and utterance in presiding; our renewed love and respect for His Lordship; our wish and prayer that he may long be spared to us; and our earnest thanks to Almighty God that the deliberations of this Synod have been so eminently free from the spirit of bitterness and party strife, happily issuing in that harmony which comes from acting in the unity of the spirit and the

This was carried unanimously by a standing vote amid great applause. The Bishop replied in touching terms. He congratulated the Synod on the harmony which prevailed, and the manly forbearance which existed throughout the which he could feel more proud. The canon had been met in a proper spirit, and discussion concerning it. He prayed that God would bless their future proceedings and that they might be free from that
