THE FOGGY NIGHT AT OFFORD.

CHAPTER XIV.—CONTINUED. In the most intense pain, both of mind and body-for the headache, only put forth as a plea in the morning, had come on with violence-Mrs. Yorke had retired to bed before the family got home from church. Not to her own bed: to a small curtainless bed in the room of Leopold, which had been placed there for a nurse's use temporarily, hood. Shameful so to upset a peaceful during the boy's illness. She cared not for the comments of the servants, but went up there. And yet her excuse to Finch proved that she did care; for when Finch, in surprise, volubly demanded why her mistress had not lain down in her own room, she answered that she was here more out of the way of hearing the noise of the house.

when he came up and questioned her. Miss Hardisty had said, "Suggest this course to your husband." How was she to do it? If ever woman Mr. Yorke. shrunk from a topic, Maria shrunk from that. The very breathing of it to her husband seemed as if it would cost her her life.

All day she lay dwelling upon it. How should she speak? how let him know that her suspicions were awakened? In the dusk of the evening Mr. Yorke again came up.

"Are you no better, Maria?" "I think I am worse," she answered.

"You would be more comfortable in your own bed." "It is quieter here. Do not stay.

It must be your dinner-time.' He bent to kiss her check. With a wail of pain, she turned her head away, and buried it in the pillow. Mr. Yorke as if he had divined their thoughts. bent over her, whispering softly-

We have been Manufacturing

IRON FRAME MOWERS

For the last four years, and are now offering to the BEST MOWER, combining greater excellence of mechanical simplicity together with greater durability and entire reliability for all the requirements of the field, than any other Mower extant, -In construction they are No. 17 ALEXANDRA BUILDINGS, NORTH WHARF, similar to the celebrated Walter A. Wood's Iron Fran e Mower, and the Richardson Buckeye, both American Machines. Of the former there are over .00,000 in use, and the extraordinary tumber of 20 000 were manufactured and sold last season, by the Wood Company of United States. We have ver 500 of our manufacture now in use, every one of which (no exceptions) stands as a monument of the grand and unprecedented success of home nanufacture and our enterprise. A list of our Agents in this section of the Province will be found appended, and farmers are requested to ask infor nation of them relative to our Mowers in use in any other mower to be had in our market, The facility of procuring all parts or pieces within a nominal length of time must show beyond the shadow of a doubt the claims such an enterpris has upon the farmers of the Maritime Provinces. For the coming harvest of 1877 we will manu acture LAR 317 in excess of our numbers of last season, and trust that our grow ing enterprise may find such inducements held out o it as will be commensurate with its merits. Let it be remembered we have no hesitation at all times, in entering into a friendly competation in the fi ld wich any other machine in our market. WEGUARANTEE OUR MOWERS TO BE INFE-
