Dalhousie Railway

A second Railway meeting was held at Dalhousie on Saturday, last, R.J. Bennet.

Esq., was chairman and H. A. Johnson, Esq., secretary. The committee appointed at the last meeting submitted reports, oneand the engineer in charge of the survey submitted estimates of the cost. A stock list was opened and over one halt of the stock subscribed. The secretary was appointed to have the list filled up. The survey showed the length of the intended branch line from Dalhousie station, I. C. R., following the southern bank of the Restigouche river, to the public wharf, in the town of Dalhousie, to be 63 miles. The engineer estimated the cost of construction and equipment at $6,400 per miles, or a total of $43,200 not including per mile would amount to $33,500, leaving a balance of $9,450 to be raised in some other way. He also submitted an estimate of the receipts of the road, based on the amount of passenger and freight traffic to and from Dalhousie during the past year. This he contended, amounted up to $4,034, including, of course, the sum to be paid for the transmission of the mails. The probable cost of running the road he estimated at $4,700 per year. It is fully expected that the required sum of $10,000 will be made up in a few days. When this is done a Board of directors will probably be chosen, and committees ap-

The following was held over last week The Institute of King's held its annual session at Sussex, on Dec. 19 and 20th. The attendance was only fair and less enthusiasm was manifested than in the Institute of Northumberland.

The actual per cent made was only 53. The difference between these was the ground upon which we had to work Had all the Teachers of the Province an intelligent apprehension of the causes of this irregularity, and would address themselves earnestly to the work they would effect an educational reform. Were the attendance perfect, teachers could accomplish 30 or even 50 per cent more work. He then dwelt upon the importance of time, contrasted its shameful waste by us with the economic system across the Atlantic, and urged upon teachers the necessity of impressing the idea that time is that out of which loons" appear to produce more of evil than SLEEVE STUDS. life is made. He also referred to the present age, and to what has followed as a

A number of papers were read-Mr. Hayes, "Hints and suggestions to Teachintroduction of English Literature into schools" Mr. Raymond, "The importance of practical example and illustration.' These eliceted some discussion and brought out excellent points. An interesting part of the last session was Dr. Rand's answers question box. It was resolved that some person be engaged by the Committee of management to give instructions in industrial drawing at the next session of the Institute to be held in Sussex on the first Thursday of September.

THE TELEPHONE was used between Rideau Hall, Ottawa, and the office of the

to questions submitted to him through the Montreal Telegraph Company, last week. His Excellency, the Governor General and Princess Louise, conversed with Sir Hugh Allen-the distance being 150 miles. It is a very inconvenient thing to be poor. Now, if we were not so we might erect Telephones all over the country and converse with our subscribers. We would tell them to look at the address slip on the first page, and if they had not paid up to send us along the morey. We would also express our regret that we were obliged to discontinue the paper to those in arrears because they were too careless or too mean to pay up, while their neighbors, who looked at the slip and saw they did not pay commented on their conduct.

"We had lately a flying visit from the new Surveyer General accompanied by Wm. B. Beveriege, Esq., M. P. P., but a hasty gallop on a snowy day afforded but a poor chance for information; unfortunately too his note-book containing some memoranda of such things as were brought under his notice got thrown from the wagon in passing over a rough piece of road. Confident that if found the notes would prove highly beneficial to the settlment, we took care to send a trustworthy young man to search for it carefully about the spot indicated, snow had fallen, and he returned bearing an empty quart bottle, saying that that was all he could see. It was not empty, however, for on examination it was observed to contain a minute but fine botanical specimen of the Spir. Vini Gallci, one of the Cameronian family of the Ros Montanus, a plant now somewhat rare in civilized centres such as Fredericton, but as yet to be found in considerable abundance at Andover; this, how-

"Two Little Girls" on "Saloons." Снатнам, Dec. 27th, 1878. To the Editor of the Miramichi Advance. MR. EDITOR .- We are two little girls, and, of course, don't understand all about everything. Now, there is something going on that puzzles us. It's something pointed to confer with the Local and Dovery bad, and we write to ask you if there minion Governments in the matter. It is is no way in which this bad thing can be intended that application shall be made to stopped. Just round the corner, close by where we live, there is a drinking saloon Now, we've talked it over and over again but we can't see any good in a drinking saloon. If you know of any, we wish you would tell us in your paper. The baker and butcher, the shoemaker and tailor, the storekeeper and lawyer, the doctor and the minister, are all useful to us, but we can't think of any use the saloon-keeper is to The fee was fixed at fifty cents and the anybody. But, oh dear! The harm he following officers appointed. S. F. Wilson does-that is dreadful. We don't like to President; Mr. Mace, Vice-President; think of it. Now, Mr. Editor, as near as we can come to it, there are about fifteen saloons and grog-shops in our little town; and fifteen men at work, day and night, doing all they can to hurt and destroy. Oh! sir, if our minister would only go to work and stir up the people, all the saloons At the afternoon session the question of and grog-shops might be stopped in less regular attendance was taken up by Mr. than a week. Won't you publish our let-Raymond. As means to this end he reter, Mr. Editor? We are only two little girls, and can't do anything ourselves; but maybe what we say will stir up others.

It doesn't look modest in us to seem to know more than men and women about this matter, but we can't help that. It is so dreadful a thing to have nice little boys learning to drink and in danger of becoming drunkards that we can't help crying out against the saloon-keepers, who do no good to anybody, but very much harm.

[We are not an authority on "Saloons" and, therefore, cannot give our little correspondents much information in reply to their appeal in reference to what we know about the good done by such places. Our observations lead us to the conclusion that they are both good and bad. Owing to the inclination of a large number of persons to indulge to the extent of intemperance in what is a very good thing, if used at proper times, for proper purposes, "Sagood, but they are far from being an unmixed evil. They are business places, which are respectable in some cases, and the fact that they are not so in others is owing as much to the depraved taste of those who patronise them as those who keep them As a matter of fact we are aware of two or three "Saloons" in Chatham where a man who shows signs of intoxication cannot obtain a glass of liquor. That such "saloons" do not belong to the larger class tendance. It summed up the character that it would be better if there were no of the pupil for each day and reported the places for retailing alcoholic liquors. But same to the parents. It would secure the the difficulty is that until men become good enough and have sufficient self-respect to abstain from indulging to excess Miss Clark gave an effective lesson on they will find means to procure liquor, and as their self-respect is lessened by their over-indulgence they will seek to gratify The public Lecture by Dr. Rand was their appetite irrespective of the character fairly attended and well received. Our synopsis of his discourse would take up little friends are too sanguine when they say that "if the ministers would only go to work and stir up the people all the saloons and grog-shops would be closed up in a week." Unfortunately the ministers cannot work so promptly on the great evil. ers" Mr. Mullins, "The importance of the They can point out the evils of intemperance as many of them do, although some of them, too often, whip the intemperate among their congregations over the backs of those who are engaged in selling liquor. Men should be made to understand that when they shall be called to account for drunkenness, which is so much condemned in the Scriptures, it will avail them nothing to plead that Mr. So and So kept a Saloon on earth near where they lived. . Nor will the Parson, who hurled maledictions at the saloon-keeper be able to excuse either himself or his drunken follower, after having neglected to duly impress upon the latter the fact that the sin of his course lay at his own door. While it seems that nothing short of Divine Mercy can pardon a man who sells liquor to another whom he knows as a drunkard, it seems unfair and a violation of the principles of fair play to indulge in wholesale denunciation of all "saloon" keepers when it is that pet of many people, the "poor drunkard" who ought to be whipped.—EDITOR.]

Spelling Match Proposed.

Снатнам, 26th Dec., 1878.

To the Editor of the Miramichi Advance. DEAR ADVANCE. - Would it not be interesting if some of the young folks of Chatham would get up a Spelling Match sometime during the Christmas Holidays. I think it would be pleasing and profitable. If you think it worth while to start the idea you would much oblige A CONSTANT READER.
