Scared out of a Wife.

A LAUGHABLE STORY.

The narrative which I am about rite was told me one bleak cold night in a country parlor. It was one of those nights in midwinter, when the wind sweeps over the land, making everything tingle with its frosty breath, that I was settled before a blazing fire, surrounded by a jolly half dozen boys and an old bachelor-Joseph Green-about forty and eight years old. It was just the very night without, to make those within enjoy a good story, so each of us had told his favorite story, Fave Mr. Green, and as he was a jolly old fellow, we all looked for a jolly story. We were somewhat surprised to hear him say, "I have no story that would interest you," so we had to find other entertainments for a while, when one of the boys told me to ask him how So I did.

don't seem right for me to tell how it happened, but as it is about myself I clon't care much. You see, when I was young, we had to walk as high as five rules to church and singing school, which was our chief amusement. But this don't have anything to do with my 1 of getting a wife, but I just wanted to show you that we had some trouble them days in getting our sport.

John Smith and I were like brothers, or like "Mary and her little lamb, there one went the other was sure to 10. So we went to see two sisters, and t 3 we were not the best boys imaginable, the old man took umbrage and wouldn't sllow us to come near the house, so we would see the girls to the end of the lane, and there we would have to take the final kiss.

and I told John, on our way to singing school one night, that I was going into the house too. He said the old man would run me out if I did. I told him I was going to risk it any-

They looked at each other in a way I didn't like too well, but said theythe old folks-would be in bed, so they didn't care if we did.

They were more surprised yet, when I told them we thought of going in a Little while, but all was quite quiet when we got to the house, we had no trouble in getting into the kitchen.

Then and there we made our first court, and I made up my mind to ask Sadie to be my wife the next time I

It was now past the turn of the night, and as we had four miles to walk, I told John we would have to be going. So we stepped out on the porch, but just as we did so, the sky was lit up by Its echo had not died out in the far-off vales until the rain began to pour from the garnered fulness of the clouds. So after bidding the shingles or slate and gravel. girls a sweet good-night and wishing them pleasant dreams, and promising to come the next Saturday night we started for bed.

We did not have far to go as the bed stood near the head of the stairs. John was soon in bed, but I always was a graded to within 4 ft. of the sill or front little slow, and full of curiosity I was looking around the little room. At last I thought I would sit down on a chest which was spread over with

THE SUPPLY DEPOT of the entire bodily economy is the stomach. There it is that the manufacture of blood goes on, and upon activity of the great digestive organs depends in a great measure the well being of the system. If its functions are interrupted by dyspepsia, billiousness and constipation supervene, the blood becomes meagre in quantity and poor in quality, the appetite impaired, nervous symptoms manifest themselves and there is a loss of flesh and vigor. As a means of stimulating and invigorating the stomach and remedying the above deplorable state of things, Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine may be confidently relied upon by debilitated, dyspeptic, and nervous sufferers. Not only is it a tonic of great and certain merit, but a most agreeable one.
