

Pat Ryan's Wife.

"But just let me stay until morning, ma'am. It is cold, dreary and dark along the road, and indeed I've no place to go but Widow Yarrow's, and that three miles away."

When she came to herself, she was by the road, and lights fell over her, and she heard people talking of the hairbreadth escapes they had had, and of her bravery.

How to obtain Choice Butter.

We present the following brief summary of the leading or more essential requisites for the production of good butter:

1. Securing rich, clean, healthy milk—milk obtained from good cows, well cared for, kindly treated, grazed upon sweet and nutritious pasturage free of weeds, and provided with an abundance of clean, fresh water.

2. Drawing the milk from the cow in a cleanly manner, and setting it in an untainted atmosphere, and keeping it at uniform temperature—about 60 deg. Fahr., while the cream is rising.

3. Skimming at the proper time and before the milk becomes old and bitter or decomposed.

4. Proper management in churning. 5. Washing out the buttermilk thoroughly, and working the butter so as not to injure its grain.

6. Thorough and even incorporation of pure salt, and putting down in tight, clean, well-made packages—packages that will exclude, as far as possible, the admission of air.

7. Placing the butter after it is packed, (if not sent to one market), in a clean, cold, well ventilated cellar—one that is moderately dry, and absolutely free from all impurities and offensive odors.

Wit and Humor.

Why has a clock a bashful appearance?—"Because it always keeps its hands before its face."

Didactic parent—"Do you know why I am going to whip you?" Impudent youth—"I suppose because you are bigger than I am."

An Irish cadet, on being asked what was meant by the word "fortification," instantly answered, with the utmost confidence, "Two twentysixes make a fortification."

This happened in the West, says an exchange. School teacher to a stupid and fat boy—"You are better fed than taught." Stupid boy—"Yes, because I feeds myself and you teaches me."

A young lady sent twenty-five cents and a postage stamp in reply to an advertisement of "How to make an impression," and received an answer, "Sit down on a pan of dough."

"Good morning, Patrick; you have got a new coat at last, but it seems to fit you too much?" "Oh, there's nothing surprising in that; sure I wasn't there when I was measured for it."

"Cesar," said a good-natured gentleman to his colored man, "I did not know till to-day that you had been whipped last week?" "Didn't you missa," replied Cesar, "I know'd it at do time."

"Henry," said his wife, with a chilling severity, "I saw you coming out of a saloon this afternoon." "Well, my darling," replied the heartless man, "you wouldn't have your husband staying in a saloon all day, would you?"

Tommy—"What does it mean, Sissy, 'laying up something for a rainy day?'" Sissy—"Don't know, Tommy; 's'peet it means borrowin' a friend's umbrella and never returnin' it."

Only once—"I never thought but once," said old Smith, "that it was a sin to steal an umbrella." "And when was that?" asked a friend. "It was when some three stole my new silk ones," answered the old man.

Professor: "Can you multiply together concrete numbers?" "What are un-certain, Professor?" "The class are un-certain of five apples multiplied by six potatoes?" Frenchman (triumphantly): "Hash."

A German editor remarks that in America thieves are so scarce that rewards are offered for them. He does not seem to know that it is not until the rewards are offered that they make themselves scarce.
