ELEPHANTS PLAYING POSSUM. - "There are some very cunning fellows among our twenty elephants," said Mr. Durand, agent for the combined Barnum and London shows, yesterday. "The other day Chieftain and Maudrie, the top mounters in the pyramids, and the more cunning of the flock, suddenly took a shivering chill at rehearsal. The keeper sent out and bought four gallons of whisky, which the monsters devoured rapidly and with great relish. The bill came to Mr. Barnum, whose strong temperance predilections you know. After paying the bill Mr. Barnum insisted that nobody in his employ, not even his elephants, should drink whiskey under any circumstances. In a little while the elephants, when the effects of the liquor had died away, commenced shivering again, and apparently had another chill. They looked longingly at the keeper and attempted to caress him with their trunks, as much as to say, 'Give us another drink.' The keeper shook his head and told them positively, No.' In five minutes every appearance of ague had vanished, and the animals were quietly munching hay, as usual. They had been

ADVANCE."]

Mr. President and Honorable Gentleman of Real Property. the Legislative Council: Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Hous of Assembly :

I have convened you at this time for the consideration of the affairs of the Province with full confidence that your labors will be resumed with a spirit devoted to the public welfare.

You will join me in the expression of gratitude to Almighty God for the many blessings bestowed on the people of this Province during the past year. The harvest of the season has been abundant, and, although our trade and manufactures have exhibited to some degree the effects of the epression to which the commerce of the world has been more or less subjected during the same period, I have to believe that they have received no permanent check and the progress of the Province in general prosperity has again commenced and will now relieved from those retarding in duences which have been for some time so

The exhibition of 1880 will be long re membered as one of the most successfu hitherto held in the Province. The fir agricultural, horticultural and stock exhibits evidenced the great and increasing care, industry and intelligence of our farmers and stock raisers, while the remarkable display of mechanical and manufacturing products were the subjects of unanimous and unqualified admiration. and were eminently fitted to inspire our people with the fullest confidence in the future of our mechanics and manufacturers. All other departments of the Exhibition were also charactized by great excellence.

I view with great pleasure the increasing interest manifested in the export trade of cattle and sheep to Great Britain, and I am sure you will be pleased if a cheaper and more expeditious mode of transportation than exists at present shall be established by a line of steamers from this Province to a port in Great Britain, which seems indispensable to the permanency and success of the trade. It will be a matter of congratulation if the Federal Government shall determine to assist so important a work by the granting of a reasonable subsidy to its aid. Bills relating to the administration justice in the trial of causes in the Supreme Court, to County valuation for the purpose of assessment and in further amendment of the law relating to the issue of Provincial debentures, and other measures of importance will be submitted for your consideration.
