

General Business. Vegetine. CONDUCTORS TAKE IT. Blotches, Pimples, Humors on the Face and Neck Disappear.

A Sovereign Remedy for Rheumatism!

Vegetine. Dr. Callier Surprised. VEGETINE CURED HIS DAUGHTER.

Vegetine. Worked Like a Charm—Cured Salt Rheum and Erysipelas.

Vegetine. Remarkable Cure of Scrofulous Face.

Vegetine. A Shameful Transaction.

Vegetine. Young Men Wanted.

Vegetine. A Disloyal Organ.

Vegetine. Grand and Imposing Ceremonies.

Vegetine. Draught Horses.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. WHISKEY WHISKEY.

Vegetine. Collar Making.

Vegetine. GARRAGE TRIMMING.

Vegetine. Grocery Department.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

Vegetine. Notice.

BUSINESS NOTICE. The "MIRAMICHI ADVANCE" is published at Chatham, N. B., every Thursday morning.

The Appraisership—A "Difficult" Settlement.

Some exciting scenes occurred in the court room during the Guitau trial.

Galos and Dinosaurs. The most severe weather ever known on the Atlantic has been recently experienced.

Draught Horses. In Canada as well as the United States, the attention of farmers is being turned to the raising of draught horses.

Notice. All persons having any claim against the estate of the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., will render the same daily attended to.

WHISKEY WHISKEY. Just received per Steamer Austria from Glasgow via Victoria.

Collar Making. Having a practical experience of this branch of the Trade for THIRTY-THREE YEARS.

GARRAGE TRIMMING. Executed in a tasteful and workman-like manner.

Grocery Department. JUST RECEIVED: 125 Bbls. Choice Superior Extra Flour.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the business formerly carried on by the late John Macdonald, of Miramichi, N. B., is now being carried on by the undersigned.

an objectionable familiarity that could only be surpassed by London Truth, as though it were a circular in his editor-in-chief were a person of either culture or consequence sufficient to attract the notice, much less the confidence of worthy or distinguished people.

The New York Herald reports the first of a course of lectures under the auspices of the Brooklyn Revenue Reform Club which was delivered by the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, on Thursday Evening, 8th inst.

The motive of the Sun for all this unnecessary display of jingoism lay in the fact that several copies of the paper were forwarded to the Marquis at Quebec, where he was to take steamer for England, and it was expected by its editor that, for want of something better to do, His Excellency would read it and discover how "utterly untrue" was the character of the great Tory organ's loyalty to everything British.

No sooner, however, is His Excellency out of Canada than the Sun opens its batteries on the mother country, taking for its text something which it alleges has been written by the American Consul at Leeds. It, all at once, abandons its allegiance to British policy and interests, and turning its embraces upon this new-found American friend, forgets that there is such a thing as consistency in existence.

There is a great pull for the little spots now going on between the two factions, while the main body of real Conservatives are amused over the situation. Two years ago the "Left Centre" were a party without leaders—now, they are leaders without a party.

Some time since, Mr. Jas. Harnett, who was agent at Carleton Station, incurred the displeasure of Honorable M. Adams, Surveyor-General, of New Brunswick. The cause of Mr. Adams' wrath was Mr. Harnett's failure to support Mr. A. at the last Assembly election.

Mr. Adams appears to have pursued Mr. Harnett vindictively ever since, and the other day the latter was ordered to leave Carleton and go to Carleton Station. As the latter post was an inferior one to that held by him, Mr. Harnett declined to go. Meaning "fixed" Harnett. The other day Mr. H. received a peremptory dismissal on the ground that he had "disobeyed orders."

Mr. H. bears an excellent character as an obliging official. No fault was found with him in the performance of his duties, and he is dismissed simply because, for the pittance of his independence, and do the miserable work required of him by a member of the provincial government. This job is a fitting commentary on the dignity and manliness of the Surveyor-General of this Province.

There is a call in some Tory journals just now for "young men in politics." The young man is badly wanted to help keep the old ones in power. The young man has now a grand chance to make himself useful in this way. He is wanted to bolster up Sir John Macdonald who declares himself to be "a Tory of Tories." He is wanted to support at the coming election Sir Leonard Tilley who for the last twenty years has done nothing for the constituency which has kept him to the front, and who is one of the old fossils of a past age. The young man is wanted to make himself useful in sustaining syndicate contracts which tie up territories as large as some European countries just for the sake of monopolists. His support is badly needed for monopolies. His voice is required to shout down, until he is hoarse, all ideas of independence, and to repress all thoughts of national elevation. By all means young man come to the front and make yourself useful to the worn out party hacks, who, without you, would soon be consigned to oblivion. If you want to know what your reward will be ask Mr. James Donville, M. P. for Kings Co., who from 1873 to 1878 did considerable work while some of these ancient mariners were sneezing and snoring in Government houses. Oh, young man, step up to the Tory front, you're much needed.—St. John Globe.

The St. John Sun is changing its allegiance to British ideas and British institutions of late and, in doing so, gives its readers fresh proofs of its peculiar notions of what is consistent. If it has an editor or correspondent within a hundred miles of Ottawa or any other place where the Governor-General may happen to be, its columns are filled with most gushing references to everything His Excellency likes, from himself downwards, the fervency of the Sun's utterances being gauged by the probability of the paper falling into His Excellency's hands, or by its representative's chances of meeting and being recognized by His Excellency. It was only the other day that the Sun was parading the names of the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise before the public in a vulgarly ostentatious manner, calculated to excite the disgust of all persons having a genuine respect for either or both. It spoke of them with in the open air never to take his family into such a death trap again. Rev. Henry Ward Beecher on Protection.

The New York Herald reports the first of a course of lectures under the auspices of the Brooklyn Revenue Reform Club which was delivered by the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, on Thursday Evening, 8th inst.

The motive of the Sun for all this unnecessary display of jingoism lay in the fact that several copies of the paper were forwarded to the Marquis at Quebec, where he was to take steamer for England, and it was expected by its editor that, for want of something better to do, His Excellency would read it and discover how "utterly untrue" was the character of the great Tory organ's loyalty to everything British.

No sooner, however, is His Excellency out of Canada than the Sun opens its batteries on the mother country, taking for its text something which it alleges has been written by the American Consul at Leeds. It, all at once, abandons its allegiance to British policy and interests, and turning its embraces upon this new-found American friend, forgets that there is such a thing as consistency in existence.

There is a great pull for the little spots now going on between the two factions, while the main body of real Conservatives are amused over the situation. Two years ago the "Left Centre" were a party without leaders—now, they are leaders without a party.

Some time since, Mr. Jas. Harnett, who was agent at Carleton Station, incurred the displeasure of Honorable M. Adams, Surveyor-General, of New Brunswick. The cause of Mr. Adams' wrath was Mr. Harnett's failure to support Mr. A. at the last Assembly election.

Mr. Adams appears to have pursued Mr. Harnett vindictively ever since, and the other day the latter was ordered to leave Carleton and go to Carleton Station. As the latter post was an inferior one to that held by him, Mr. Harnett declined to go. Meaning "fixed" Harnett. The other day Mr. H. received a peremptory dismissal on the ground that he had "disobeyed orders."

Mr. H. bears an excellent character as an obliging official. No fault was found with him in the performance of his duties, and he is dismissed simply because, for the pittance of his independence, and do the miserable work required of him by a member of the provincial government. This job is a fitting commentary on the dignity and manliness of the Surveyor-General of this Province.

There is a call in some Tory journals just now for "young men in politics." The young man is badly wanted to help keep the old ones in power. The young man has now a grand chance to make himself useful in this way. He is wanted to bolster up Sir John Macdonald who declares himself to be "a Tory of Tories." He is wanted to support at the coming election Sir Leonard Tilley who for the last twenty years has done nothing for the constituency which has kept him to the front, and who is one of the old fossils of a past age. The young man is wanted to make himself useful in sustaining syndicate contracts which tie up territories as large as some European countries just for the sake of monopolists. His support is badly needed for monopolies. His voice is required to shout down, until he is hoarse, all ideas of independence, and to repress all thoughts of national elevation. By all means young man come to the front and make yourself useful to the worn out party hacks, who, without you, would soon be consigned to oblivion. If you want to know what your reward will be ask Mr. James Donville, M. P. for Kings Co., who from 1873 to 1878 did considerable work while some of these ancient mariners were sneezing and snoring in Government houses. Oh, young man, step up to the Tory front, you're much needed.—St. John Globe.

The St. John Sun is changing its allegiance to British ideas and British institutions of late and, in doing so, gives its readers fresh proofs of its peculiar notions of what is consistent. If it has an editor or correspondent within a hundred miles of Ottawa or any other place where the Governor-General may happen to be, its columns are filled with most gushing references to everything His Excellency likes, from himself downwards, the fervency of the Sun's utterances being gauged by the probability of the paper falling into His Excellency's hands, or by its representative's chances of meeting and being recognized by His Excellency. It was only the other day that the Sun was parading the names of the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise before the public in a vulgarly ostentatious manner, calculated to excite the disgust of all persons having a genuine respect for either or both. It spoke of them with in the open air never to take his family into such a death trap again. Rev. Henry Ward Beecher on Protection.

The New York Herald reports the first of a course of lectures under the auspices of the Brooklyn Revenue Reform Club which was delivered by the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, on Thursday Evening, 8th inst.

The motive of the Sun for all this unnecessary display of jingoism lay in the fact that several copies of the paper were forwarded to the Marquis at Quebec, where he was to take steamer for England, and it was expected by its editor that, for want of something better to do, His Excellency would read it and discover how "utterly untrue" was the character of the great Tory organ's loyalty to everything British.

No sooner, however, is His Excellency out of Canada than the Sun opens its batteries on the mother country, taking for its text something which it alleges has been written by the American Consul at Leeds. It, all at once, abandons its allegiance to British policy and interests, and turning its embraces upon this new-found American friend, forgets that there is such a thing as consistency in existence.

There is a great pull for the little spots now going on between the two factions, while the main body of real Conservatives are amused over the situation. Two years ago the "Left Centre" were a party without leaders—now, they are leaders without a party.

Some time since, Mr. Jas. Harnett, who was agent at Carleton Station, incurred the displeasure of Honorable M. Adams, Surveyor-General, of New Brunswick. The cause of Mr. Adams' wrath was Mr. Harnett's failure to support Mr. A. at the last Assembly election.

Mr. Adams appears to have pursued Mr. Harnett vindictively ever since, and the other day the latter was ordered to leave Carleton and go to Carleton Station. As the latter post was an inferior one to that held by him, Mr. Harnett declined to go. Meaning "fixed" Harnett. The other day Mr. H. received a peremptory dismissal on the ground that he had "disobeyed orders."

Mr. H. bears an excellent character as an obliging official. No fault was found with him in the performance of his duties, and he is dismissed simply because, for the pittance of his independence, and do the miserable work required of him by a member of the provincial government. This job is a fitting commentary on the dignity and manliness of the Surveyor-General of this Province.

There is a call in some Tory journals just now for "young men in politics." The young man is badly wanted to help keep the old ones in power. The young man has now a grand chance to make himself useful in this way. He is wanted to bolster up Sir John Macdonald who declares himself to be "a Tory of Tories." He is wanted to support at the coming election Sir Leonard Tilley who for the last twenty years has done nothing for the constituency which has kept him to the front, and who is one of the old fossils of a past age. The young man is wanted to make himself useful in sustaining syndicate contracts which tie up territories as large as some European countries just for the sake of monopolists. His support is badly needed for monopolies. His voice is required to shout down, until he is hoarse, all ideas of independence, and to repress all thoughts of national elevation. By all means young man come to the front and make yourself useful to the worn out party hacks, who, without you, would soon be consigned to oblivion. If you want to know what your reward will be ask Mr. James Donville, M. P. for Kings Co., who from 1873 to 1878 did considerable work while some of these ancient mariners were sneezing and snoring in Government houses. Oh, young man, step up to the Tory front, you're much needed.—St. John Globe.

The St. John Sun is changing its allegiance to British ideas and British institutions of late and, in doing so, gives its readers fresh proofs of its peculiar notions of what is consistent. If it has an editor or correspondent within a hundred miles of Ottawa or any other place where the Governor-General may happen to be, its columns are filled with most gushing references to everything His Excellency likes, from himself downwards, the fervency of the Sun's utterances being gauged by the probability of the paper falling into His Excellency's hands, or by its representative's chances of meeting and being recognized by His Excellency. It was only the other day that the Sun was parading the names of the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise before the public in a vulgarly ostentatious manner, calculated to excite the disgust of all persons having a genuine respect for either or both. It spoke of them with in the open air never to take his family into such a death trap again. Rev. Henry Ward Beecher on Protection.

The New York Herald reports the first of a course of lectures under the auspices of the Brooklyn Revenue Reform Club which was delivered by the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, on Thursday Evening, 8th inst.

The motive of the Sun for all this unnecessary display of jingoism lay in the fact that several copies of the paper were forwarded to the Marquis at Quebec, where he was to take steamer for England, and it was expected by its editor that, for want of something better to do, His Excellency would read it and discover how "utterly untrue" was the character of the great Tory organ's loyalty to everything British.

No sooner, however, is His Excellency out of Canada than the Sun opens its batteries on the mother country, taking for its text something which it alleges has been written by the American Consul at Leeds. It, all at once, abandons its allegiance to British policy and interests, and turning its embraces upon this new-found American friend, forgets that there is such a thing as consistency in existence.

There is a great pull for the little spots now going on between the two factions, while the main body of real Conservatives are amused over the situation. Two years ago the "Left Centre" were a party without leaders—now, they are leaders without a party.

Some time since, Mr. Jas. Harnett, who was agent at Carleton Station, incurred the displeasure of Honorable M. Adams, Surveyor-General, of New Brunswick. The cause of Mr. Adams' wrath was Mr. Harnett's failure to support Mr. A. at the last Assembly election.

Mr. Adams appears to have pursued Mr. Harnett vindictively ever since, and the other day the latter was ordered to leave Carleton and go to Carleton Station. As the latter post was an inferior one to that held by him, Mr. Harnett declined to go. Meaning "fixed" Harnett. The other day Mr. H. received a peremptory dismissal on the ground that he had "disobeyed orders."

Mr. H. bears an excellent character as an obliging official. No fault was found with him in the performance of his duties, and he is dismissed simply because, for the pittance of his independence, and do the miserable work required of him by a member of the provincial government. This job is a fitting commentary on the dignity and manliness of the Surveyor-General of this Province.

There is a call in some Tory journals just now for "young men in politics." The young man is badly wanted to help keep the old ones in power. The young man has now a grand chance to make himself useful in this way. He is wanted to bolster up Sir John Macdonald who declares himself to be "a Tory of Tories." He is wanted to support at the coming election Sir Leonard Tilley who for the last twenty years has done nothing for the constituency which has kept him to the front, and who is one of the old fossils of a past age. The young man is wanted to make himself useful in sustaining syndicate contracts which tie up territories as large as some European countries just for the sake of monopolists. His support is badly needed for monopolies. His voice is required to shout down, until he is hoarse, all ideas of independence, and to repress all thoughts of national elevation. By all means young man come to the front and make yourself useful to the worn out party hacks, who, without you, would soon be consigned to oblivion. If you want to know what your reward will be ask Mr. James Donville, M. P. for Kings Co., who from 1873 to 1878 did considerable work while some of these ancient mariners were sneezing and snoring in Government houses. Oh, young man, step up to the Tory front, you're much needed.—St. John Globe.

The St. John Sun is changing its allegiance to British ideas and British institutions of late and, in doing so, gives its readers fresh proofs of its peculiar notions of what is consistent. If it has an editor or correspondent within a hundred miles of Ottawa or any other place where the Governor-General may happen to be, its columns are filled with most gushing references to everything His Excellency likes, from himself downwards, the fervency of the Sun's utterances being gauged by the probability of the paper falling into His Excellency's hands, or by its representative's chances of meeting and being recognized by His Excellency. It was only the other day that the Sun was parading the names of the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise before the public in a vulgarly ostentatious manner, calculated to excite the disgust of all persons having a genuine respect for either or both. It spoke of them with in the open air never to take his family into such a death trap again. Rev. Henry Ward Beecher on Protection.

The New York Herald reports the first of a course of lectures under the auspices of the Brooklyn Revenue Reform Club which was delivered by the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, on Thursday Evening, 8th inst.

The motive of the Sun for all this unnecessary display of jingoism lay in the fact that several copies of the paper were forwarded to the Marquis at Quebec, where he was to take steamer for England, and it was expected by its editor that, for want of something better to do, His Excellency would read it and discover how "utterly untrue" was the character of the great Tory organ's loyalty to everything British.

No sooner, however, is His Excellency out of Canada than the Sun opens its batteries on the mother country, taking for its text something which it alleges has been written by the American Consul at Leeds. It, all at once, abandons its allegiance to British policy and interests, and turning its embraces upon this new-found American friend, forgets that there is such a thing as consistency in existence.

There is a great pull for the little spots now going on between the two factions, while the main body of real Conservatives are amused over the situation. Two years ago the "Left Centre" were a party without leaders—now, they are leaders without a party.

Some time since, Mr. Jas. Harnett, who was agent at Carleton Station, incurred the displeasure of Honorable M. Adams, Surveyor-General, of New Brunswick. The cause of Mr. Adams' wrath was Mr. Harnett's failure to support Mr. A. at the last Assembly election.

Mr. Adams appears to have pursued Mr. Harnett vindictively ever since, and the other day the latter was ordered to leave Carleton and go to Carleton Station. As the latter post was an inferior one to that held by him, Mr. Harnett declined to go. Meaning "fixed" Harnett. The other day Mr. H. received a peremptory dismissal on the ground that he had "disobeyed orders."

while the Pope ascended his throne. The Cardinal Procurator, Monsignor the Master of Ceremonies and the Consistorial Advocate, advanced to the throne. The latter read the first formal document of canonization. The Pope, through his Secretary of Briefs, ordered the prayers and litanies to be sung. The advocate made the second demand, and the Pope intoned the "Veni Creator."

The third demand he read the ritual of sanctification. The church bells were rung and the cannon firing. After the ringing and the cannon firing, the Pope said the "Confiteor" and gave the Papal benediction, with plenary indulgence. Then he assumed the pontifical vestments to celebrate mass. After the epistle and gospel had been read in Latin and in Greek, His Holiness delivered an elegant Latin homily, alluding first to the festival of the Immaculate Conception and eulogizing the Blessed Virgin, and passing afterward to the heroic virtues of the newly canonized saints. The expected allusions to the political situation by the Pope were restricted to a mere expression that whereas formerly these sacred functions were always celebrated in St. Peter's, such was now prohibited, "ad hoc problemum." After this modest complaint, he exhorted the bishop to discharge their duty with zeal. Then the choir chanted the "Credo," the cardinals of rita went to the Chapel of the Sacrament for the oblations, presenting them to the Pope, according to the custom. The Pope then ascended the altar, consecrated the host and completed the ceremony on his throne. He then received the purse with five gold crowns from St. Peter's chapter pro missa bene cantata.

At about three o'clock, during the ceremony Cardinal Mezzanone, in a fainting fit, was carried out. During the whole ceremony an orderly crowd filled St. Peter's Church and the piazza, and splendid equipages occupied the courtyard of the Vatican Palace. The weather was magnificent. At the Papal chapter next Sunday the bishops now in Rome will be present.

Among the witnesses to-day was the Rev. Dr. R. S. MacArthur, pastor of the Calvinist Church, Twenty-third Street, New York. The historical style of the pastor's testimony was quite a contrast to the usual proceedings. After stating how Guitau and his wife, ten years ago, applied to him with a letter for membership in his church, Dr. MacArthur began to tell about the hospitality of his congregation and to eulogize one of the committee to whom the application was referred as once an Indian Commissioner. At the suggestion of Mr. Scoville the pastor's praise was limited, and he was confined as far as possible to the material facts. When the pastor took the stand Guitau said: "I have owed him $95 for ten years. He was induced to let Guitau have $95 on credit, because, as the witness stated, 'When my heart goes out to a man believed to be worthy of my hand, I go out in helplessness.' Guitau here stated that as he expected to recover $5,000 from the proprietor of the Herald for the damage done his business in 1874, he would immediately send the parson $125, Dr. MacArthur, without smiling at this, continued his statement, and Guitau remarked, 'He is an orator. You can tell that from the way he talks.' The witness next stated that Guitau had been tried and dismissed from his church on three indictments—first, for taking his wife's money; second, for adultery, and third, for desertion. He said he was chairman of the committee that tried Guitau for these offences and that the prisoner admitted his guilt.

'That's false. I was not present, and did not admit the truth of these charges,' was the exclamation of Guitau. The prisoner was deeply chagrined at this, and, after saying, 'I committed the offence in order to get a divorce,' seemed to justify his tergiversation on the ground that he had 'married the woman on ten hours' notice' and that was certainly enough cause for all this.

The audience laughed and Guitau seemed pleased with the mirth he had provoked. The minister next gave a graphic account of his visit to the jail where Guitau was confined, and alluded to the fact that his intervention in behalf of the prisoner would have secured his release. Dr. MacArthur said, 'I set aside the promptings of my heart and told him he was a bad man.'

Soon after this there was another exciting scene, in which Guitau, Mr. Corkill and Mr. Scoville were the dramatic personae of the situation. Probably no writer of plays could have devised a scene more thrilling or more confusing than was this one. Guitau launched forth such vehement words as one would scarcely expect from a person of all his years, and the impressive abjection of Dr. MacArthur, calm and dignified on the witness box as if in his own pulpit, the droll buffoonery of the prisoner, the professional eagerness of the attorneys, the hilarity of the audience, the wonderment of the jury, the puzzled look of the bailiffs and the unrelenting dignity of the Judge, were the features in this dramatic scene. At no time of the trial has Guitau been more passionate or more highly incensed. His eyes flashed and his face quivered with anger. This was when the witness (Dr. MacArthur) with an earnest frankness spoke of the obligations of Guitau. "Keep silent!" said Judge Cox in a stern voice to Guitau. "Pay no attention to him," remarked District Attorney Corkhill to Dr. MacArthur. The latter, continuing his testimony, repeated Guitau's statement when arraigned by the church for his misconduct. This again infuriated Guitau, whose anger was somewhat appeased by the titling among the audience at his derisive remark about members of the church committee. Dr. MacArthur proceeded to give the details of Guitau's trial, conviction and expulsion from the church. Mr. Scoville objected to his testimony, and Dr. MacArthur has been a willing witness, and has answered much more than was asked. Judge Cox sustained the objection, which was based on the admission of the proceedings of a committee which was not acting under oath nor subjected to the rules of law and evidence.

Thereupon Mr. Corkhill said:—"What we wish to show is that the alleged insanity is devilish depravity." This elicited applause from a certain portion of the audience. The proceedings were suspended and a deputy marshal ordered to ascertain whether the disturbance was a healthy looking kind of disturbance. A healthy looking individual was identified as the instigator of this contempt of the Court. An officer sent to the youth and hastily led him from the court room. The woman who sat behind the lady, and was as much if not more concerned in the clapping, were not disturbed. After this Dr. MacArthur resumed his statement, saying that when Guitau was arraigned in the church he gave no evidence of repentance. "This is no prayer meeting, Doctor," ejaculated Guitau, and Mr. Scoville again objected to this kind of testimony. His objection was sustained and the Court ruled that as the subject of Guitau's dismissal from church had been introduced, it would be admissible to prove this fact from the books, which Dr. MacArthur said he had with him. "It's three o'clock now," when is this Court going to adjourn?" asked Guitau. In a minute more he amused the audience by saying, "Look to the clock, how many more witnesses like this do you expect to bring here? You will break the government. If you had to spend your own money you wouldn't have such witnesses here."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9th. Some exciting scenes occurred in the court room during the Guitau trial to-day. Dr. MacArthur said that Guitau had frequently conversed with the prisoner, who once told him that he was bound to have a notoriety in some way before he died; if he had to kill some big man and imitate Wilkes Booth. At this testimony Guitau became enraged, and used most abusive language toward the witness, calling him a liar, sneak and puppy. Several other witnesses testified to the prisoner's vanity, egotism and desire for notoriety, but they saw no evidence of insanity. The court adjourned until Monday.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12th. To-day, Dr. Spitzka, of New York, was present and the prosecution suspended the rebuttal testimony to allow him to be examined for the defence. He gave his opinion positively that Guitau was insane. It is stated that a consultation has been held by sixteen of the experts now on either side in the case, and it is found that they unanimously agree in the opinion that the assassin is sane and legally responsible for the death of the President. They think there is nothing in the family thus far shown, out of the usual run, and that his actions in the court room, which have been narrowly watched by them, have been but a clumsy attempt on his part to feign insanity.