Mr. Snowball-It is necessary we should have a different season because we do not get the fish so early. There is a great deal of force in what was said by the hon. member for Yarmouth. Many fishermen | mitted during 1874 was a young girl aged maintain that part of July and August is nine years, and, although admitted on the the proper close season; but there is this | certificate of two physicians, when the into be considered, that in the Gulf they stitution was visited by Dr. Tache, Deputy cannot fish in September. Being shore, and the fishermen should be compelled to fish lobsters in deep water. Fishing in deep water no doubt costs much more than near the shore, owing to the expense of traps and great loss by storms and can only be prosecuted during the early months of the season. The hon. gentleman says that packers generally want to have the close season as it now exists.

Mr. Ogden. I did not say so. I said I had a letter from a firm who said that any alteration in the law would be detri-

Mr. Snowball. After the first of Sept. you cannot catch enough to keep the factories open, and because they have to close the factories they should not want the people on the coasts prevented from catching fish for their own use; they would sooger have them accumulated for the following season, but I maintain it would do no harm to allow the tish to be caught for the local markets at that season as the spawning season is over. The freezing of salmoa, and shipping them fresh, has almost done away with the canning of that fish in the Maritime Provinces, and so it will be with lobsters in after years; for even now the margin on canned lobsters has been reduced to the lowest possible point. I hope therefore, that the Acting Minister will do everything in his power to foster among the people of the Lower Provinces the trade which, by every appearance, will be the trade of the future. The fall which has taken place in the trade has been owing largely, if not exclusively, to the number of people who have gone into the business, and the fact that the fish caught on the muddy bottoms in parts of Prince Elward Island and New Brunswick are of a dark color, and that they are mixed with the brighter lobsters when sent to the markets of Europe, gives a character to our exports to Europe of that article which is not favorable, and which has its effect in de pressing the trade.

Mr. Haddow. I wish to direct the attention at the Minister to the fact that among the fishermen along the Restigouche, which is celebrated for its salmon fisheries, there is at present a deal of discontest with the regulations of the Government, who prohibit them from taking fish even for their own use. Of course. there is a question as to the right of these people to fish opposite their own land; but I think the regulations are pretty severe, and I would ask the hon. Minister to relax them if possible, as the case of those people, who live in isolated districts, far away from the privileges which belong to more settled localities, is a hard one. A commission of enquiry visited that locality last summer, and from the evidence they gathered it appears to me that there is a great deal in the whole question that is worthy of consideration. I have been informed that the Acting Minister was met at Metapedia by some of the inhabitants, who urged him to allow the Commission to investigate other questions than the simple charges made against the wardenquestions involving, to some extent, the action of some officers of the Department, and they complain now that the investigation has not been so full as it ought to have been. I think the whole question of granting fishing licenses, not only to set. tlers on the river above tide-water, but to those on the coast, is worthy of being considered by the Government. There is continual trouble at present, owing to some men being able, through political influence, to obtain rights which they should not enjoy, while others, who are poor and

Mr. McLelan. The question of regulating the rights of the fishermen along the Restigouche is surrounded by difficulties. but it shall have my consideration with a view of producing harmony. With regard to the investigation held last year, the opinion at one time prevailed that it should be limited to the charges originally sent into the Department, but owing to representations afterwards made to me by some of the inhabitants, I told the Commissioners that they might extend their ecquiries, and I think the investigation was very full and very exhaustive.

It is conceded that the Government cannot consistently grant aid to tramway schemes connecting Toronto with the main Pacific line, without also favorably consi dering the request of the New Brunswick people for aid to extend the New Brunswick Railway to the Intercolonial. It is said, however, that Sir L. Tilley prefers that no aid should be granted to the latter project at present, as he proposes using the promise of a subsidy as an election card in the next election campaign.

Mr. Weldon has given notice that he will make the following enquiries of the Government: Whether the fish hatcheries are to be continued on the St. John Restigouche, and Miramichi rivers, and what antity of salmon fry it is proposed to place in these rivers, and in what other rivers in New Brunswick during the coming season, and what quantity was placed during the past season in the rivers in that Province? Whether a hatchery or fishbreeding house is being erected at Indian house on the Restigouche River, from whom was the site purchased and the amount paid for the same, also the probable cost of building. Whether any action has been taken upon the report of the the publishers of the World cannot find commissioners appointed to investigate the charges against fishery warden Mowatt and whether any other person, and who, has been appointed fishery warden in his place ?

It is suggested that it would in some degree lessen the monotony of the vided for their use. They are shut out entirely from the outer world and have no amusements. The less advanced cases have been able to do light work, but the more advanced ones have no employment except watching the dying. The provision of physical or mental occupation, it is held, would enable them to more easily bear their bodily sufferings.

In concluding his report Dr. A. C Smith, of Newcastle, the "physician in charge," says that although bodily com fort is being provided the visitor can see despair written on the faces of those inmates of a living tomb: he can feel it in the gloom that seems to surround them.

THE "ADVOCATE" devotes a good dea of attention to the ADVANCE and its editor this week. The editorials from the Sun and World, so faithfully reproduced in its columns, are evidence of the giant in tellect which controls the party's paper in Newcastle. PORTWARDENS.—H. A. Muirhead, Esq. has been appointed portwarden of Chatham by the Dominion Government. He is well qualified by experience and business associations for the position.

Mr. John Fergenson has been appointed to a similar position in Newcastle. ### Crying Before They are Hurt.

The World is in a bad way again and it says of the last ADVANCE that it 'scratches up the sewer deposits of its imagination for offensive personalities, like an old hen in a barnyard scratching for worms." This classical metaphor is no doubt considered a sweet morsel by the gentlemen who own and try to "keep the World in order," and it is so congenial also to the taste of the Advocate that it is reproduced in that paper. We are charged with indulging in personalities because, in our article of last week, we intimated that the interests of the Miramichi Valley Railway had been sacrificed by certain gentlemen, to whom we referred as "selfappointed delegates." When gentlemen assume public responsibilities they ought to expect credit if they do well and blame if they do ill, and we shall rot be deterred from dealing with them in regard to their public acts as they deserve because any paper may wish to throw over them the impersonality of the press. The Skating Carnival at Newcastle on Thursday night of last week, which was the very last one of the season, was, like considering the advisability of laying the preceding three, a very successful their vessels up, in the expectation of an affair. There was not so large a number of spectators present as at the previous Carnivals, but the skaters turned out in goodly numbers. The ice was at first very good, but towards the close of the evening became sloppy. There were not many new characters present, but of negroes of all sizes, and old women. there was a superabundance.
