Intemperance at Carleton Station.

Mr. Editor, -Yesterday, Sunday, being detained in the Settlement of Rogerville I followed the faithful to the Catholic Church of that place to listen to a Temperance lecture expected from Father Richard on the occasion of his visit. It appears that several parties have been selling liquor on the sly for a certain time past, but on a very small scale; latterly, however, two single men, Gallant and Legere, have opened a new tavern, and on the day of its opening a general gathering took place, and perhaps one of the greatest disorders ever witnessed on these shores was the result, and continued since. The tavern has been a source of great annoyance to the Priest and people, generally, and the parties interested seemed deter mined to resist any and every attempt made against them. Father Richard, who is rather formida. ble as to size and appearence, is much more so with the tongue. The first glance he cast on the congregation when about to address the people, was enough to prepare his hearers for such a thunderbolt as I have never heard before. He spoke in French at first and although I did not understand the language he spoke, I could feel, and I did feel, as if I understood his words. The impression produced on the congregation was so great that all, generally, shed tears abundantly. As he ad promised to speak also in English, I was anxiously expecting the translation, Deal 4th Apl) fearing however, that a strange language would lessen the effect of his address, but I was soon delivered of my fear, for if possible every movement and gesture, and expression were more impressive than be-He alluded to the memorable occasion on which His Lordship, the beloved Bishop, together with his clergy and a large concourse of people were assembled here to dedicate a Bell to the Worship of God, and six mouths later Lucifer with his colleagues and army assembled to dedicate a tavern to the Worship of the Demon of drunkenness! As he continued he grew warmer and every word he spoke was like a spear going to the very soul. I felt as if I should not like to be the guilty ones, and still I must confess I earned much by the lecture. The Temperance people would do well to exercise their zeal in the direction Carleton Station where they will find hundreds of people willing to assist, to put a stop to the present scandalous and at Hotel Woodside, returned home perfectshameful state of things in that new settlement. I advise no rum-seller to settle in Rogerville to carry on his trade as long as Father Richard is the pastor. AGENT, St. John, N. B.
