The Police of Dublin now believe that the murderers of Lord Cavendish and Under Secretary Burke numbered ten. and that they are still in Ireland, but that unless the aid of an informer can secured the crime cannot be brought home to the guilty persons. The weapons used in the commission of the murders were found some weeks ago.

Last April Mrs. Mary F. Henderson, of St. Louis, offered a prize to the pupils o Kirkwood Seminary for the best essay on 'Common Sense About Women." The essays were sent in without names and Mrs. Henderson was the judge. The girl who won the prize proved to be a Cherokee Indian, who has since graduated and gone home to the territory to live.
