Entertainment in Ludlow

On Christmas evening a very successful holiday entertainment came off in Methodist Church at Campbell Settlement, Ludlow. A lecture on Methodism was delivered by the pistor, the proceeds the admission to which amounted to about $33, which goes for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid Society. There were two trees erected, one on each corner plattorm, and heavily loaded with sacks of contectionery. Chri tmas cards, numerous presents of different kinds and values. At the close of the lecture the presents were distributed. The entertainment passed off very pleasantly though at times during the evening good order was interfered with by a few intoxicited persons, Kenneth Cameron, E-q. of Boiestown, occupied the chair and ably DOUGLASTOWN ENTERTAINMENT. - OI Tuesday evening next, the Douglastown public are to have an opportunity of en joying an operetta, recitations, etc., i the Temperance Hall at that place. The proceeds are to aid St. Mark's Sunday School fund, and there should be a good attendance both on account of the merits of the entertainment and the olject fo which it is to be given.

A NELSON MATTER. - There is a lad going about Nelson who, evidently, should be sent to the Lunatic Asylum. He has already visited the houses of residents of the vill ge demanding money, and other wise conducting himself in an unseemly and illegal manner, threatening to set fire to houses, etc. Are there any Magitrates in Nelson who are not afraid to discharge their du ies? If so, have they been applied to in this case ?

A SUCCESS .- A very successful Carnival was held at the Newcastle Rink on Tuesday . ven ng. Miss Wil iston, as "Fretwork," and Blanchard Thompson a "Hindu Prince" we e the prize winners. Messrs. Jas. INTERVIEW WITH R. P. WHITNEY, ESQ.

A prominent scenic feature of the Royal Hotel esplanade the last few days has been the tall, commanding form of R. P. Whitnev. Esq., the well-known lumber oderator of the Miramichi, and equally renowned as the champion pork raiser of North E-k. which place, like the Frenchman's wife is "small but oh ! mighty," in addition having strong claims to the title, Porko. polis of the North Shore. The craving to know more of North Esk, to have its true inwardness laid bare, to have these pig sticking legends verified, these mammoth porkers transferred bodily from the vista of fancy to the realms of fact, heads and feet thrown in, was too much for the meandering menial of THE SUN, and he made haste in approaching the said scenic feature to have his doubts and fears removed "Yes. I do raise some pork," remarked Mr. Whitney, as the reporter's first conundrum plunged him into a reverie of reflection," and I consider it one of the tine arts. It is easy enough to build a pen, quite feasible to secure your pig, not at all difficult to reconcile him to his lot nor to win his confidence and affection, but to turn that pig into pork with ut arousing his suspicions is a science, a glorious reve
