the following interesting story :-Atchison has several Masonic bodies, and a lively interest is manifested by the membership, as shown by a good attendance in the lodges, chapter and commandery. If the following episode be true they are conferring more degrees than the Masonic law allows, and a worthy woman is being duped and bereft of the society of her liege lord oftener than the occasion requires. To the Masons' wives we say. read this story and demand your "woman's ring of them on you. A middle-aged lady, with a black alpaca dress, worn shiny at the elbows, and a cheap bonnet, and her hands puckered up and blue, as though she had just got her washing out, went into the office of a prominent Mason a few mornings since and took a chair. She wiped her nose and the prespiration from her face with a speaking a piece in school, and asked: "Have you taken the whole 233 degre of Masonary?" The man langhed and told her there were only thirty-three degrees and he had taken only thirty-two. The other degree could only be taken by a very few who were recommended by the grand lodge,

The woman picked the fringe of her shawl, hung her head down and said : "Well, my husband began to join the Masons about two years ago, and he has been taking degrees or sitting up with people ever since. He has come home twice with the wrong pair of drawers on, and when I asked him how it was, he said it was a secret he could not reveal under penalty of being shot with a candegree. brother Mason comes home with him in the morning, and they talk about a 'full flush,' and about their 'pat hands,' and 'raising 'em out.' One night when he was asleep I heard him whisper, "I raise you ten dollars, and when I asked him what he meant, he said they had been raising a purse for a poor widow. Arother time he rose up in bed, after he had been asleep, and shouted, 'I stand pat,' and when I asked him what he meant he said he was ruined if I told it. He said he had spoken the password, and if they heard it they would put him out of the way, even as Morgan was put out of the way. Mister, is 'stand pat' your

The Mason told her it was not. That the words she had spoken were an expression used by men when playing drawpoker, and he added that he didn't believe her husband was a Mason at all, but that he had been lying all these years. She sighed and said: "That's what I thought when he came home with a lot of ivory chips in his pocket. He said they used them at the lodge to vote on candi dates, and that a white chip elects and a blue one rejects a candidate. If you will look the matter up and see if he has joined the Masons I will be obliged to you. He says he has taken all the 233 degrees, and now the boys want him to join the Knights of Pythias. I want to get out an injunction to prevent him from joining anything else until we get some underclothes for the winter. I'll tell you what I will do. The next time he says anything about Sky Fugle degrees, I will take the washboard and make him think there is one degree in Masonry that he has skipped, and good-bye. You have comforted me greatly, and I will lay awake to-night till my husband comes from lodge with his pat hand, and I will make him think he has forgot his ante." The lady went out to the grocery to buy some bar soap, and the prominent Mason resumed his business with a feeling that we are not all truly good and there is #### cheating going on all around.

For the Ladies.

A writer from London gives these points concerning fashion which may interest the ladies, and for obvious reasons, horrify their husbands and fathers : If a lady is the possessor of elegant jewelry, she may wear it all at once in full dress. In a recent portrait of the princess of Wales, she wears four necklaces, one above the other, the uppermost being a dog-collar of velvet wrought with pearls, and the lowermost a sparkling fringe of diamonds mingled with emeralds, rubies and sapphires. Some of our society leaders recently wore a moderate fortune in diamonds to the grand opera - brooches, earrings and hair ornaments-all of the purest white stones, and the parure for a ball adds necklace and buckles ad libitum Lace, this season, is the trimming preferred to all others. Real point lace of course leads always. Probably the most expensive lace for sale in America is the famous rose point, the secret of which was said to have been taught by the Virgin to a poor and pious maiden of Brussels, early in the 12th century. A sample of this is kept on hand by one of our leading houses and orders for it are occasionally filled. From three to four months is required for the purpose, and the price of lace in fourinch width is $100 per yard. Duchesse lace is too well known to need comment, and has for the past few years been the favorite with ladies who wish something handsome, but do not care to spend more than $100, $200 or $300 on the lace for a single dress. Thirty yards of duchesse lace at $10 a yard, makes a magnificent garniture for a ball dress, and is quite rights," and petition for the degrees. Put enough to satisfy most women !
