Mr. Mitchell hoped that when the Government was dealing with the subject of the franchise it would make a more equitable distribution in New Brunswick and printed out some of the inequalities of representation at present existing.

St. John's Church.—There will be morning and evening services in St. John's Church Chatham on Sunday next.

COUL. McNAUGHTON received $3.20 as mileage for attending the late session of council—not $5.50 as the types said in our issue of last issue.

MESSRS. CLARKE KERR and Thorne make a reasonable announcement this week. The firm is one of the most reliable in St. John and offers good advantages to its customers.

St. Paul's.—Weekly Lenten Services are to be held in St. Paul's Church on Thursday evening at half past 7 o'clock. The old church has been lighted with lamps for the purpose of evening service, which has never before been held in St. Paul's, although the church is now almost 60 years old.

APPOINTMENTS.—The last Gazette gives notice of the following appointments.—James Tweedie to be Alms House Commissioner for the Parish of Southack in this County.

In Gloucester the following are appointed Justices of the Peace.—Robert Rivers, David John Bruno, Joseph M. Hecker, Jeremiah Le Breton, Junior, Ladger, Legere, Robert J. Ellis, William Sank, John Crowley, Theophilus Landry, William Sweeney, Peter B. LeCompte, and Colin C. Turner, to be Justices of the Peace.

Curling.

The Chatham and Newcastle clubs are to play on Monday next for the Highland Society Cup—six rinks each. A Newcastle and a Chatham rink will play in the forenoon at Chatham and Newcastle, respectively, and two rinks a side will play in the same manner in the afternoon.

St. Andrew's Club of St. John having challenged the Chatham Club for a friendly match (not "the champion curling match," as a misinformed paper puts it) the four rinks selected by it reached here yesterday morning in time to enjoy a short nap. They were welcomed by their Chatham brethren about nine o'clock and play commenced in the Curling Rink about seven o'clock, the other two to play in the afternoon. Mr. Geo. Wilson acted as umpire in the forenoon. The results were as follows:—

- FORBOSON. Chatham. Alex. Robinson, M. H. Harrison, A. L. Law, John White, Skip—22. W. Wilson, Skip—14. W. H. Fowler, J. S. Cummings, W. E. Purdy, W. Sander, Skip—17. McAvity, John McDonald, A. Jardine, M. H. Harrison, S. D. Barker, Skip—23. P. H. Brown, Skip—13. H. B. Barker, Andrew Brown, A. Watson, C. E. Burgess, F. F. Gregory, Skip—21. D. G. Smith, Skip—25.

The whole contest was carried on in excellent spirit and the winners cheered for the losers, the latter—as well as their numerous friends who had been interested spectators of the play—returning the compliment. The visiting curlers and a number from Newcastle who were also present were entertained by the Chatham Club at the Canada House in the evening—most of the St. John men leaving for home by last night's express train.

Visit to Chatham of the Archbishop of Halifax.

On the occasion of his recent consecration, His Grace, Rev. Dr. O'Brien, Archbishop of Halifax, was invited by Rev. Dr. Rogers, Bishop of Chatham, to visit him here, and in response thereto, His Grace, accompanied by the Secretary, Rev. E. F. Murphy, arrived by Monday morning's express train. He was met at Chatham Junction by Bishop Rogers, whose guests he was until last night. His Grace celebrated Mass at ten o'clock on Tuesday morning at the pro-Cathedral, members of the congregation being present in large numbers. Mass being over he proceeded to the adjacent drawing-room, where a good many of the congregation were present, the school children from the side-chapel being the first to pay their respects to His Grace.

Invitations having been issued by His Lordship the Bishop to a luncheon at two o'clock, there was at that hour a large assembly of citizens, including the visiting clergy from distant parts of the Diocese and representative men in all walks of life on the North Shore—Roman Catholic and Protestant.

The table was laid in the large room above the main drawing room, and presented a rich and very inviting appearance. Grace was said by the Archbishop and about seventy five guests sat down. The repast was thoroughly enjoyable, as the evident happiness of the respected and popular host, together with the affable bearing towards all of the distinguished guest whom the company had come to honor seemed to have produced the most desirable effects in the way of good humor upon every sharer in His Lordship's hospitality. On such occasions much depends upon the bearing of the host, and there was nothing better to be desired in that respect. But good cooking, prompt and intelligent attendance at table and a sense that the catering and cuisine department are in competent hands are, also, effective elements in the success of such an occasion. It is, therefore, not out of place to say that Mr. T. F. Keary conducted ably, as his preparation and serving were placed entirely in his hands. He had for assistants a number of ladies and gentlemen of the congregation, who share with him the credit of his success. After an hour had been spent at table His Lordship Bishop Rogers rose and proceeded to propose the health of his eminent visitor.

His Lordship said that having obtained the consent of His Grace, the Archbishop thereof, he would propose one toast. He referred to the etiquette in such matters governing occasions of this kind, and proceeded to briefly sketch the career of Archbishop O'Brien, under the direction of God's good providence, had been recommended by the Bishops of the ecclesiastical Province of Halifax and appointed by His Holiness Pope Leo XIII, to his present exalted and responsible position.

He was yet but a young man, but by learning, piety, industry and, withal, modest and retiring character, he had won the love and confidence, not only of his inferiors and equals, but of those who were above him in spiritual things, and it was a matter of thankfulness and gratitude to God that one so well fitted in every way to preside over the affairs of the church in this ecclesiastical province had been called to the position. There were those present, among both clergy and laity, who had known His Grace a few years ago, as a fellow-student of St. Dunstan's College, in the Diocese of Charlottetown, and others who were his pupils when he was, subsequently, one of the professors of the same institution. It was no doubt a gratifying thing to them to meet and to honor to His Grace on the present occasion. One of the present had heard of him, through his literary works, or his faithful labor in his parishes, or Indian River and surrounding districts, or the Island of Prince Edward, and the presence to-day of all these—representing, as they did, the business interests and professions of this Diocese, in the towns of Richibucto and Bathurst, as well as Newcastle, Chatham, Douglastown, Nelson and settlements both up and down the Miramichi—was evidence of that mutual respect, esteem and good neighborhood which had always marked the intercourse between the people of the Diocese, who though they might differ in some matters of religious faith, were ready to join in promoting each others' welfare and in honoring those to whom honor was due. They recognized the importance of religion in the affairs of life, that the church was necessary to the well-being of the state. Religion was the foundation and greatest safeguard of the people, for it endeavored to lead us to God and to our neighbors, teaching us to do to others as we would have them do unto us, and showing us how mutually dependent we are upon each other for the well-being of the communities in which we live. Religion, in this way, diminishes the necessity for penal laws by preventing crime and promoting morality among the people, and it was these thoughts that had called into existence and maintained the good-fellowship and kindly feeling of which the present gathering was so gratifying an illustration. It was, moreover, evidence of their desire to honor one so well known to them, who by merit had reached an exalted position in his profession, and an expression of their pleasure in seeing a young man his faithfulness, zeal, piety and learning had, without any seeking on his part, been rewarded by the promotion he had received.

His Lordship concluded his remarks, of which the above is but an imperfect outline, by expressing the hope that His Grace would long continue to fill the high and important office to which he had been called, for the benefit of those over whose spiritual affairs he had been placed, to the honor and glory of God in the promotion of religion, morality and the well-being of His people.

After the applause which His Lordship's remarks had evoked, he said that he had known what to say, and feared he was a poor speaker when he had nothing to talk about; in fact a poor after-dinner speaker. His position reminded him of a priest who was directed by his bishop to preach on a certain Sunday from a text which the bishop was to furnish. The text passed without any text reaching the anxious priest, but he was not to be deterred by his bishop to deliver the sermon but still no text, but as he was about to ascend the pulpit, a paper was placed in his hands, which, when he opened it, was blank—his text was nothing. He remembered that God had made all things out of nothing and proceeding with that idea as a basis he delivered a good sermon. His Lordship had certainly given him a text, but as it was eulogistic of himself personally, like that of the expectant preacher it seemed to him that he would have to talk of one whom he felt to be nothing. He thanked His Lordship for his kind and too flattering words and felt honored by the presence of so many representative men of Miramichi who, he was assured by His Lordship, had come to do him honor. I that was so he would accept the honor as a manifestation of the respect to which he had been called, rather than as a personal compliment to himself as an individual. It was a pleasure to him to meet so many representatives of the trade, industries, professions and general interests of this Diocese and to have such evidence as he had seen and heard of the good feeling prevailing among all classes on the Miramichi. Men should hold firmly to and act upon their religious beliefs. They should be in earnest in reference to them, but they must remember, at the same time, that in all other affairs of their interests were identical. In business, trade, politics and social life whatever promoted the welfare of one did the same for the rest and the happiness and well-being of the community were promoted by good feeling and mutual friendship among citizens of all classes and religious beliefs.

He had long entertained a high opinion of the Miramichi. He had, when quite young, heard of the river and to that mind it was the embodiment of all that was great and beautiful; if he could only enjoy a visit to it and say that he had seen it he would be a great fellow. Well, he had visited the Miramichi and found out that he was a great fellow. [Great laughter and applause.] He next referred to the pleasure he experienced in meeting again with fellow-students and members of his college classes and to find that they were doing well in the world and that one of his old pupils, Dr. Macdonald, was a resident and successful professional man of Chatham. After thanking His Lordship for the good wishes he had expressed towards him on his own behalf and that of the other gentlemen present he asked permission of the latter to propose the health of His Lordship, the Bishop of Chatham. He referred to the creation of the Diocese of Chatham some twenty years ago when there were only five or six priests within its bounds and its progress since, up to the present time, the large increase of its clergy and churches, the introduction of institutions for the improved training of the young, and the various agencies for promoting the religious and moral well-being of the people—all brought about under the direction of His Lordship, Bishop Rogers.

His Grace's speech was enthusiastically received. His Lordship, Bishop Rogers in his reply, expressed his gratitude to God for the success that had followed the establishment of the Diocese, but said he was but one of the many workers by whose efforts the happy results referred to had been reached. For whatever success had attended his administration he was indebted, under God, to the same good and neighborly feeling and the same zeal in promoting his undertakings that had characterized his day's experiences.

He had not intended to refer to the matter to-day, but His Grace's remarks seemed to call for the statement that to-morrow, Wednesday, would be the anniversary of the destruction by fire of the buildings that had been replaced by those in which they were now assembled and as it was one of the foremost days of Lent when special prayer was to be offered in behalf of the clergy and other days of their intention also to ask God's blessing on all who had in any way—by money, labor, sympathy or otherwise contributed to the restoration of what was lost by the fire. After further remarks in response to the toast proposed by His Grace, His Lordship sat down amid applause.

His Honor Judge Wilkinson now rose and, in an eloquent and effective speech expressed, in behalf of himself and the laymen present, the pleasure they had experienced in being privileged to participate in welcoming the Archbishop to Chatham. He dwelt on the importance of unity and neighborly love and regard existing between those between whom there were differences of religious belief and claimed that the essential aims and purposes of religion were all of one mind and all seeking the same result—eternal happiness.

After a few closing remarks by His Lordship, the Bishop, the guests took their leave.

Up to half past six His Grace was engaged in receiving callers who desired to pay their respects to him, and about that hour a number of invited guests partook of a collation in the refectory.

At the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament in the evening about 7.30, an address was presented to His Grace. The members of the address committee occupied a position in the chancel in front of the Archbishop's throne which was on the right side, opposite the throne occupied by the Bishop of the Diocese. The address, which was read by Master John Knight, one of the students, was as follows:—

To His Grace the Most Reverend Cornelius O'Brien, D. D., Archbishop of Halifax.

MAY I PLEASE YOUR GRACE.

On behalf of the clergy and laity of the Diocese of Chatham we tender you a hearty welcome on your first visit in our midst.

We offer you our most cordial and respectful congratulations on your elevation to the high dignity of Archbishop of the Metropolitan See of Halifax.

Halifax many ties besides our ecclesiastical connection. Many of our relations are in the ranks of the Metropolitan See, of which you may name the selection from our worthy friends of our venerated Bishop who was ordained by your sainted predecessor the first Archbishop of Halifax and consecrated Bishop of the Cathedral of your own native Diocese, in company with his beloved Bishop, Mr. McIntyre, by your illustrious predecessor Archbishop Connolly. In common with our fellow Catholics of this Diocese, we felt surprised and glad when we learned that you had been selected by our Holy Father Pope Leo XIII to succeed the late lamented Archbishop Hannan as our Metropolitan. Though well known to some amongst us, yet personally unknown to others, all had heard of you as a zealous priest, a deep thinker and able author, and we hailed your appointment as a high compliment to the clergy and laity of our Ecclesiastical Province.

The committee should have known that the default list of 1882—if there was any—was not sent to me. All that was before the committee at the last Session was my report on the Constable's return of two executions on behalf of the default list of 1881. He says, on behalf of the committee, that my return was not according to law. The committee should have known that I had no return according to law to make; that he offers me advice as to how I may make a better return etc.—if not satisfactory the next would be issue warrants, etc. Very likely, he has heard some person say that a Collector in certain cases may be brought before the committee on an order.

By allowing space for the above, You will oblige, JOHN JOHNSTONE, Tabusintac, 10th Feb, 1883.

[It is quite evident that the Council's committee made a mistake in reference to Mr. Johnston's return.]

Musical and Literary Entertainment in Campbellton.

The first public concert given by the "Musical and Literary Association of Campbellton" was held in the Masonic Hall, on Tuesday, 6th inst., and was a very successful affair. The society has been holding weekly meetings since the first of January, but only decided last week to give a public entertainment, consequently the time for practice was short, but must have been well improved, judging from the very creditable manner in which all performed their parts. The audience was large, the hall being completely filled, and the arrangements were of the most perfect description. The stage decorations were very artistically arranged and reflected much credit on the committee in charge. Mrs. H. Bray presided at the organ with much acceptance and some very fine instrumental music was also rendered by Mr. T. Harrington. The cornet solo by Mr. Anderson (the leader of the band) was especially good and on being repeatedly encored, Mr. A. again favored the audience with some beautiful selections, with organ accompaniments by Mr. Harrington. Mr. E. Price with his "Poor Married Man" brought down the house and in response to an encore sang another humorous piece "Peek-a-boo." In the absence of the president, J. McAllister, Esq., the chair was well filled by the secretary F. M. McLeod, Esq., who, in a few closing remarks, said he was the intention of the Society to continue these concerts during the winter. The following is the programme of the evening:—

- Opening chorus, The Tunes and the Whistle Solo and Chorus, Let the Dead be Buried Rest in Peace. Miss Annie Kerr. Duet, Mrs. Wells and Miss Davison. Solo, Mrs. Wells and Miss Davison. Recitation, "Carver must not rest to-night." Mrs. E. L. Dorey. Quartette, "The Tunes and the Whistle." Mrs. Wells and Miss Davison. Solo, Mrs. Wells and Miss Davison. Cornet solo, "The Tunes and the Whistle." Mr. Anderson. Singing, "The Tunes and the Whistle." Mr. Anderson. Chorus, "The Tunes and the Whistle." Mr. Anderson. Solo, "The Tunes and the Whistle." Mr. Anderson. Duet, "The Tunes and the Whistle." Mrs. Wells and Miss Davison. Solo, "The Tunes and the Whistle." Mrs. Wells and Miss Davison. Instrumental music, "The Tunes and the Whistle." Mr. Anderson. Solo, "The Tunes and the Whistle." Mr. Anderson. Humorous reading, "The Tunes and the Whistle." Mr. G. A. Vye. National Anthem, "The Tunes and the Whistle." Mr. G. A. Vye.

Bathurst Notes.

LECTURE.—The Rev. E. Wallace Watts of Chatham delivered his lecture on "George Stephenson" in the Masonic Hall here on Monday evening the 5th inst., to a very limited audience. John Sivewright, Esq., occupied the chair. It is much to be regretted and is not very complimentary to our citizens that no manifestation of a desire on the part of one or two gentlemen to afford a higher class of entertainment and enter to the intellectual wants of our people has not met with greater encouragement. All through the lecturer would be on hand, tended by a previous disappointment, course throughout had met with little encouragement. As long as entertainingments of the Cool Breeze stamp are puffing up and people advised to attend them by such correspondents as "Duplex," as an intellectual treat as Mr. Watts afforded his hearers will meet with limited patronage. By the way, it is not passing strange "Duplex" has as yet failed to notice the lecture?

POLITICAL.—Mr. Justice Weldon has granted an order that on Denis Comeau the petitioner against Mr. Burns' return, repositing $1000 with the Clerk of the Court, all parties are to be restored to their former status. The Attorney for the petitioner has been changed from Burton S. Read to Andrew G. Blair. Mr. Turgeon is on a collecting tour through the County endeavoring to raise the $1000 and takes contributions on as low as 25 cts. Those of his supporters who found the needful for the deposit are as follows:—

PERSONAL.—K. F. Burns, Esq., M. P., sailed from Liverpool on Saturday last and is expected home on Sunday next. After spending a couple of days here he will leave for Ottawa.

Senator Ferguson has not yet left for Ottawa, owing to his having met with rather a severe accident. In going to the door in his slippers on Tuesday morning last he slipped on some ice and fell injuring his left knee. Although improving he is yet confined to his room. He hopes to be able to leave in company with Mr. Burns.

Hon. John McMillan was in town on Saturday last.

LUCKY TICKETS.—Our popular post-mistress Miss Watt has received many congratulations on her drawing a $500 prize in the London Masonic Lottery. Mr. Allan McDonald comes next with $25, followed by a few tens and fives. There were seventy-two tickets held in Bathurst.

DUPLEX.—This correspondent is the recipient of "more kicks than ha'pence" for his pains. Not long since it fell to the lot of our Methodist clergyman to administer a sharp rebuke through the press with the good results of converting him from a listener to criticisms of ladies' bonnets at his services to a speaker at his weekly meetings. On Sunday morning last it fell to the lot of the Rev. Mr. McLean, who has been occupying the Presbyterian pulpit lately, to administer a rebuke in even a more public manner and with the additional advantage of having the offender personally present. In giving notice before the close of the morning service of a meeting of the congregation for the purpose of extending a call to a gentleman who had been invited to put before the committee a previous matter which in connection to which he felt it his duty to refer. He offered to an item which appeared under the heading of "Bathurst Notes" in a late issue of the "Union Advocate," published he believed in Miramichi which made very light of holy matters. Matters of religion were not to be scoffed at, more particularly the very important question of the choice of a light of improper manner in the item referred to. He hopes if the writer would present which he was that would not be a repetition. Let "Duplex" take this to heart in the meantime—next?

"Will readers consistency?" This correspondent condemns the drinking habits of our town as in the same article eulogizes the fact as so insulted his audience as to have a glass of liquor carried through them to the stage. And with candor, equalled only by his consistency, he puffs up an entertainment at which he was not present. This should be a sufficient exposure of any mortal who has been kindly endowed with the ordinary amount of shame or propriety your correspondent will herald him farewell for a while with the hope that when he has occasion to refer to him again he will be enabled to do so in no complimentary terms.

C. R. Offices Burned.

The Great Railway offices at Moncton were burned down on Saturday evening, from, it is supposed, a defect in the hot air apparatus. The fire was under heavy work half hour before water could be procured when it did come was in small quantities. It seems that a large quantity of papers and documents have been destroyed. Mr. Archibald, the engineer, reported to have saved some of the most valuable instruments, but the loss of the books, plans, etc., on engineering, is a serious one. The loss of the books and what was stored in the vault will be, it is believed, quite safe. Of course there was no insurance, and the money loss, about $30,000, is not a severe one, but the papers cannot be replaced. Temporary arrangements will be made for the staff in the Station house, mechanical building, etc.

Badly Managed Paper.

The Halifax Chronicle thus refers to the trouble an editor named Stewart who once imagined he could successfully manage a Job Stock Turkey paper.—

For several months there has been much political and journalistic circles in the management of the Halifax Chronicle. The troubles have been complicated through the courts. That paper, may be well to mention, is established in the city of Halifax, and is managed by a board of directors elected annually. The directors, or a majority of them, were dissatisfied with the management of the paper, and they called a meeting of the board of directors to be held on Friday evening last. The meeting was attended by a majority of the stock with a view to ousting the directors at the annual meeting. It is said that in this meeting the directors, who subsequently resigned, were not present. The meeting was held at the residence of Mr. Stewart, who was the editor of the paper at the time. The meeting was held at the residence of Mr. Stewart, who was the editor of the paper at the time. The meeting was held at the residence of Mr. Stewart, who was the editor of the paper at the time.
