NOT A BEAR .- About a fortnight ago the papers contained an account of the circumstances under which a child disappeared at Anagance, the conclusion being that it had been carried off by a bear, the tracks of one having been seen in the vicinity of the place where the child last was. The following despatch of 4th inst. from Anagance to the Telegraph shows that the bear part of the story was imaginary, to a great extent,---

"The body of Daniel Belding's child, who was reported to have been carried off by a bear, some time ago, was found today. The child had wandered about four miles from where he was last seen. He was found lying on a bridge."
