dile tears over "poor Northumberland. It says,-"In Tory days she had the Hon. Ambrose Street as Attorney General and, next to Mr. Partelow, he was the most influential Tory in that House of Assembly which gave the Province the first Liberal Administration. Next she had such men as John M Johnson LAMPS, and Peter Mitchell, who sat in the House together, the former for a time as Solicitor General and later as Postmaster General. Then came Richard Sutton as Surveryor General; later William Kelly as Chief Commissioner of Public Works, who was succeeded by Michael Adams as Survoyor General At no date in the time of the present generation did Northumberland fail to receive a share of the public offices, and

> When was it discovered that John M. Johnson, Peter Mitchell, Richard Sutton and William Kelly were Tories? But aside from this characteristic bit of 'toryism" on the part of the Sun, we venture to assure it that Northumberland does not require its sympathy. We are not so grasping a people as to desire a monopoly of the good things of political life and believe in the "live and let live" policy. We have two members in the Legislative Council-one of whom, by the way, the Sun and its friends tried to deprive us of-and four in the Assembly, and do not forget that we have but 25,000 population, while Gloucester has but one member in the Legislative Council and two in the Assembly, with its population of nearly 22,000. Then, there is Westmorland, which has only the same number of members in each House that we have, while its population is nearly 38,000. That "noble County" is without a member in the new Government and it is hardly fair that the Sun should refrain from dropping a few tears over "poor Westmorland." What about "poor Kent." The New York Herald has been publishing some startling statistics in relation to the liquor traffic in that city. There are over ten thousand rum shops in New York, while the shops for the sale of bread meats and groceries do not number much over seven thousand. There were arrested in the city, last year, for intoxication and disorderly conduct, more than forty thousand persons. The localities where the liquor traffic is greatest, are those where crimes are most frequent, and poverty most abounds. The increase of these evils is alarming those citizens who have regard for the interests of the city, and some of the moro prominent of them are encouraging an Episcopal Church movement that is intended to lessen them. Many of those more active in it are total abstainers. but they do not demand that all who co-operate with them shall come up to their standard. It is sought to lessen the number of places where liquor may be sold by legal enactments, and to secure the enforcement of the laws against sales on Sundays, sales to minors and sales to intoxicated persons. The persons interested in this movement have not, many of them, been known heretofore as identitied with the cause of temperance, but they claim that instead of a bar room for every 150 inhabitants, the ratio should be one for every 500. have indulged in very absurd and silly protests, rumors and predictions. The Legislature and Government. These, however, stand out as exceptions The St. John Sun is shedding crocoamong the papers of the Province, which are mainly more careful of their reputation or, at least, seem to make a sufficiently high estimate of the intelligence of their readers to prevent them from filling their columns with misleading and untruthful matter, as news, and articles subversive of correct and honorable principles in the conduct of public affairs. The papers on the Liberal side are unanimous in approving the decision of the House against the late Government and it is, therefore, quite evident that the new administration starts upon its career with the best wishes and good will of the people and press for its future. The following exat no time did the holders of these tracts from our exchanges will, no offices shirk the responsibility of meetdoubt, be interesting to our readers,ing the electors after the acceptance of > "The three Charlotte County members who voted, ranged themselves in opposition to the Government and, in so doing, have without doubt carried out the wishes of the majority of their constituents and the pledges made on the hustings. * * "This County will uphold its representatives in the stand they have taken, for the reason that we have everything to gain by the formation of a new Government and nothing to lose by the defeat of the old administration. For some years we have received no consideration from the Government. Since 1878, we have right which we claim, while other counties have had more than their legitimate representation; the grants for great roads have not been such as our needs required; and, in common with the rest of the Province, we have suffered from the stagnation policy, in everything except expenditure, which has been adopted. It is true the charter of the Grand Southern Railway was extended in order to allow the contractor time to complete the work, but that was nothing more than a moral obligation and the Government cannot claim very much credit for their action in

From the St. Croix Courier (Conservative.)

"When the Opposition is called on to form a Government, the claim of Charlotte to a portfolio will be recognized Either Hon. John McAdam or Mr. Mitchell will be offered a seat in the Government, and whichever of them is preferred will in all probability be returned, in case there is no dissolution of the House, with out opposition. If the Government appeals to the country and subjects the Province to the excitement and expense of a general election, the people of Charlotte can do vet we hear no wail from the Sun over nothing but return the member to whom a department has been promised, with three others to strengthen the position he will hold in the new Government."

From the "Bay Pilot," (Conservative.) "Telegrams were received here Monday afternoon, announcing the defeat of the Local Government. The greatest anxiety was manifested to learn the particulars. The feeling created by the news, was of the most satisfactory character, every one seemed to be rejoiced. Some enthusiastic ones proposed to furnish empty oil barrels for a bon fire. We failed to find one individual, who regretted the defeat of this patched up Government that so long has misruled the country, and kept themselves in power by the most questionable methods. We deprecate exulting over the fallen, but in this case the sense of relief is so great that we cannot refrain

It may be a surprise to many why in a Province largely composed of agriculturists, out of 41 members only 9 are farmers. By religious profession so great a contrast does not appear. As near as can be ascertained we have 9 Catholics, 10 of the Free and Bap tist churches, 8 Methodists, 7 Episcopa lians, and 7 of the Presbyterian faith, each denomination being fairly represented in the Commons and also in the Legisla-

The Capital is, however, very much dissatisfied that, in a House composed of men of such superior talent, the Government it so blindly supported was so suddenly and signally defeated. It is because of the superior ability of the men composing the

We fully agree with the correspondent respecting the personal appearance of the northern members referred to, but wonder as to the cause of Mr. Wheten's voting with the late Government. He will have the sentiments of his supporters in Kent, otherwise there will be doubts as to his possessing mental qualities in keeping with his undoubtedly good personal appearance. In commenting on the above sentence, the Globe says that what Mr. Tupper intended is clear enough, namely: that the progress of the Dominion in its first years has been greater than was the progress of the neighboring Confederation during its first years. This is quite true both as respects population, wealth, and general development. It is signally true in the matter
