The Local Legislature.

The opening of the Provincial Legislature at Fredericton last Thursday was what those who are fond of tinsel call brilliant. This is, there was a large attendance of ladies-some of them over-dressed for the occasion-a sprinkling of uniformed officers, a crowd of official, semi-official and other citizens, a guard of honor, a band, an artillery salute, etc., nothing being wanted to render the occasion complete, in all its parts, but the presence of one of Northumberland's representatives-Mr. Gillespie-who was unavoidably detained at home by business.

There had been a good deal of skirmishing in connection with the Speakership on Wednesday night, which was spent in anxious negotiations with the "loose fish" among the new members, the latter seeming to understand their importance quite thoroughly and to be carried on in that way. Last session | enjoy their advantage. It was interesting though, by no means, edifying to discover that certain members who were outspoken in their counties against the Government, were either openly favoring it at Fredericton or afraid to oppose it, the chief illustration of this political inconsistency being Mr. Morton, whose principles were pocketed when the Government he had been so fond of condemning tempted him with the salary of Solicitor-General. The members were sworn in by Chief Justice Allan at two p. m. Shortly after three o'clock the Lieutenant-Governor arrived and the members of the Lower House were summoned before him by message conveyed by Mr. Perks, Mr. Foster complained that pamphlets the successor of Mr. Jouett as gentleman usher of the Black Rod. This office is one of the most absurd and useless still existing as a remnant of the meaningless imported notions which were copied by our political greatgrandfathers at a time when it might have been necessary to impress the people with "pomp and circumstance" and puzzle them over things they could not understand. The members of the Lower House obeyed Black Rod's message-or a good many of them did soand trooped up to the chamber of "the Lords"where the Lieut. - Governor did not exactly cry out, "April fool," but Hon. Mr. Hamilton, acting as President of emigration to that Province by voting the Council, by reason of his being its senior member, told them, in the usual formal way, that they must go back again and elect a Speaker. They had experienced considerable difficulty in making their way through the crowd to get where Mr. Perks had told them they were to go, and it was with no less elbowing that they succeeded in. getting back. That the members of the Lower House have put up with this kind of performance so long is an indication that they are somewhat indifferent of their own dignity. They know they have to elect a Speaker and that they have the power to do so without the farce of running after an employee with a Black Rod in his hand only to be told to go back again to their own Chamber. It is to be hoped the procedure of the Legislature will be so changed as as to wipe out this exhibition of absurdity at the opening of every new House.

Mr. Speaker having announced the choice of himself, and claimed the usual privileges, His Honor, the Lieutenant Governor, read the speech prepared for him by the Government, as follows .----Mr. President and Honorable Gentlemen of the Legislative Council: Speaker and Gentlemen of the House of Assem

It is with pleasure that I main meet you, the Legislature of New Brunswith convened for the patch of business.

I am gratified with the favorable circumstances under which you now assemble and congratulate you on the increasing prosperity of the Province. Again the industry of our farming population has been blessed with reasonable reward, and the success of our people engaged in other pursuits appears to have been generally satisfactory. These blessings call for devout thanks to the Giver f all good.

You will be asked to make suitable provisions for the holding of a Provincial Exhibition, during the present year, in the city of St. John. Negotiations have taken place, and arrangements made, with a view of giving Exhibition the addi-tional character of a Doction Exposition, and of affording an opportunity to our people to suitably elebrate the Centennial anniversary of the land ng of the Loyalists in this Province

I am glad to inform you that the provisions of he act passed during the last session of the Legslature in aid of the construction of railways in the Province are being taken advantage of, and me of the lines thereby subsidized are now ing constructed, while others are undergoing urveys and explorations.

You will be pleased to learn that the Stock farm is meeting with reasonable success, and that the sales in October last were very satisfactory. The importance of having more thorough and
