few friends) sustained by the generous proprietor of the Earle Hotel and the Hotel Normandie, Mr. Ferdinand P. Earle, It is the scope of this great good work to provide for the sick and the destitute in the down-town section of the city of New York, and by aiding the needy deserving poor with fuel, food, medicines, clothing, rent, &c. The Earle Guild also provides ice during the hot weather for the sick, and on all Thanksgiving and Christmas Days gives out orders for substantial dinners to many a one that would otherwise not enjoy a good meal on those days. The Guild has no salaried officers and no expenses for rent, so that everything donated goes directly to the poor. Its "Relief Depots" are well-established grocers, butchers, bakers, coal-dealers and others specially selected who accept the tickets and orders for articles that the poor may select, and the Guild redeems them dollar for dollar when returned. Its work is simple and effective. A worthy case can at once get help, having only to prove its worthiness by some reliable party, or wait till an investigation can be made. Donors can have a list of cases furnished that partake of their gifts -every effort is made to reject frauds, mposters and unworthy applicantswhile no deserving one is turned away unaided, whatever may be the creed or the nationality.
