Christmas. The happiest day of the Christian year comes to us again with its hallowed memories and joyous associations. To the earnest, believing christian, it is a day that calls up the most grateful reflections, for it emphasizes the wondrous love of God in sending the Redeemer to a world which, but for Him, could not have been saved. Aside, however, from the idea of Christ's Deity and the fact that he founded a religion which has produced the highest civilization, the day we celebrate in commemoration of His birth has an interest for and an influence over us, which makes it the grea est of all the year's holidays. We associa with it all that is pleasant,
