partner is a brother-in-law of the Hon. Michael Adams. Then something came across Mr. Sutherland, for after holding his purchase for a few months he deeded it, on Dec. 13, 1882, to a Mr. Adams. It is just possible that Mr. Adams may be in a hurry to get quit of it too, when he finds how little by d he has got. In fact, it is difficult to conceive of any single bit of property being so thoroughly demoralized by so much water within such narrow limits. Lucky Davidson! Sutherland! Unfortunate Adams!

But an end comes to all things. The Supreme Court of Canada had settled the question of riparian rights, and what was to be done had to be done quickly. Already applications were reaching the Local Government for the purchase of ungranted lands on well known trout and salmon rivers. One little tempting plum alone remained on that fruitful Northwest Branch. But how to get at it? It was no secret that certain members of the administration were determined to work to the utmost advantage these fishery rights so recently restored to New Brunswick ; business. Thenceforward and forever, information was to be gained, a policy was to be formed, and nothing was to be done hurriedly.

nevertheless came about that it was managed; and in spite of asseverations, and protestations, and promises that no such privilege would be sold, such a privilege was sold. On the 21st August, 1882 when the Government portfolio was stuffed with unanswered and ungranted requests for lands on all our rivers, a Mr. James Crawford, of New York, and a friend of the Adamses, applied for a survey of 100 acres on the Northwest Branch of the Miramichi, at the junction of the West and North Forks. On the same day Surveyor General Adams issued an order for its survey. On October 4th the survey was returned to the Crown Land Office, and the sale was at once advertised in the Royal Gazette by the Surveyor-General. In November the sale took place, and Mr. James Crawford for $1 an acre, became the purchaser of a first-class fishing privilege on the said Northwest

It will, however, scarcely be credited in connexion with the transaction that, while hitherto for some time the Government had held their ungranted lands at an upset price of $2 an acre, this valuable fishing privilege was put up at one dollar an acre. It is reported that, to successsfully accomplish this coup, the timber on other interests, and still remains unsold. And yet, the ex-Surveyor General, the Hon. Michael Adams, in his place last week in the House, had the effrontery to challenge a reference of these transactions to a committee! And what would a committee find? Why, that every step taken by the ex-Surveyor General, from the receipt of applications for survey of these N. W. Miramichi lands down to their final grant, was in every respect according to usuage and perfectly regular. Not the least doubt about that. There was no violation of law. But what would a committee of the public find? Why, that the ex-Surveyor General had, step by step, knowingly and willingly, permitted all the valuable salmon pools on the Northwest Miramichi Branch to pass out of the hands of the Province into the hands of his own brother and his own friends, for the same price as the ex-Surveyor General did this, well | mulcted in that way. He then suggested knowing that the Courts were about to that he would vote against the Governvest in the owners of the soil the right of | ment for the sum of $2,000 and resign his fishing on all our inland rivers: That the seat when required. of capper in a cheap and nasty confidence Measured by the standard of those who have of late been the more active political partizans of the person whose betrayal of misplaced public honor and trust is so thoroughly exposed in the mittee:above-quoted article, we presume the whole transaction will be condoned as only an overflowing of "zeal and lovalty for Newcastle." So long as any transaction in which "Newcastle" is interested can be carried through (and by Newcastle we mean the half dozen men who are so far above their fellows in that town that the latter are honored in being permitted to sit at their feet and support them in the most abject admiration) the means, however base; are only a secondary consideration and they are always approved. What is the true character of this Northwest business? We will, no doubt, be condemned in the usual choice language employed by the man who so scandalously prostituted his office, for judging his conduct by the proper moral standard. No one will grudge the posseshave, too long, had the advantage of us in such matters, but the desire to own the best salmon pools of the Northwest Miramichi was not confined to the Adamses and the Calls and their wonderful New York friends. There are as good sportsmen as they in Northumberland, alone, who would, no doubt, have given much more for the pools named in the above article than they brought, and no honest Surveyor-General, knowing the facts, would have been guilty of the quiet shuffle by which Mr. Adams and his private friends were saved from paying the value of the public property of which they desired to possess themselves. Such a transaction by a Crown Minister fifty years ago would have sent him from public life in disgrace. We all remember the Fisher-Inches land scandal of a few years ago, which was followed by the forfeit of his position in the Government by one and impunity. Whatever may be the judgment of the class who think everything right that certain men do, no man pect our public men can think of this Northwest steal without a sense of shame. We shall, no doubt, find the ex-Surveyor General putting the usual brazen front on and asking us all what we are going to do about it? We shall have the sharers in the privileges of which the Province has been fleeced working fully un to the duty whitewashing him, and hundreds or mis political dependents, perhaps, incapable of really knowing what to think. The constituency is not to be envied that has so lost its

But in whatever way it was managed, it Mr. Bunting, chief editor of the Mailthe leading Conservative organ - is mixed up with these transactions in a very suspicious way, but he publishes a statement respecting alleged negotiations with one member of the Legislature, which, if true, is much in his favor. He says .-I have read the report of an unsworn statement made by Mr. Dowling vesterday before the committee on privileges and elections, and as my name has been freely made use of by him, I hasten to declare the same to be in many important particulars entirely incorrect. Mr. Dowling called on me at the Mail office, a few days ago. He introduced himself, as he was an entire stranger to me. His visit was unsolicited and unexpected. stated that he desired to see me privately. I took him to another room and informed him that we would be undisturbed. He then told me that he was a member of the local legislature, a physician by profession, practising in the county of Renfrew, and a graduate of McGill College. Montreal. He said he had been, against his will, induced by his party to enter public life; that he had been elected and this lot was actually dissevered from the unseated and elected a second time. He declared that he did not care much politics or party and that he would be glad to resign, He complained bitterly that the grit party had not kept faith with him, inasmuch as they had not contributed 5 cents to enable him to pay the law costs in the trial of his election petitions which, he estimated, would reach down. over $500. He informed me that some of his constituents proposed collecting $1000 as a donation from them to assist in defraying the costs, but he objected to the movement, as they were his patients, and in the end he would gain nothing by it. He again complained of absence of material aid from his party, that he was a young man, and the costs were an embar rassment. I reflected how different was the treatment accorded by conservatives to the member for Algoma, who was somewhat similarly situated, and I made ordinary timber lands; thus sacrificing the remark to Dowling that if he were of $10,000 worth of property for $765: That | the conservative party he would not be

He intended to keep Calgary for himself, but if I would vote against the Governistrar at Edmonton, and he believed the Dominion Government would grant me $500 for travelling expenses west of Winnipeg. He said he had been to Ottawa where he had arranged for the disposal of the offices. We ultimately settled that I was to get $2,000 and the office to vote against the Government. I asked for security and he proposed that Mr. Bunting should give his own note for $5,000, which was to be placed in the hands of a party who should be agreeable to me. This party was also to hold the letter from the Hon. D. L. MacPherson, in which was endorsed Wilkinson's transfer of the office to me. Bunting made an appointment. and the same day I went to the Mail building, but instead of meeting Mr. Bunting, Wilkinson introduced me to Meek. I objected and insisted on having Bunting's name Wilkinson then sion of our fishing privileges to our own made an appointment to meet Bunting at building was uninsured and belonged to people, for we all admit that outsiders the Mail office that night. I went to the Miss McCulley. Mail office and met Bunting. He said he knew all about the arrangements Wilkinson and I had been making, but owing to his position on the Mail, and in the Conservative party, he could not put his name to the paper, but assured me that whatever arrangements I made with Wilkinson would be carried out: that Meek was the party's solicitor and controlled the party funds. Some time after I met Kirkland, who offered me $3,000 for my support. The next time I met Wilkinson he said he had been to a caucus, when it had been decided to make the Yankee (Kirkland, probably) the scapegoat. Subsequently he told me that the caucus had decided not to work with him, as he would want too much of the timber, which they wished to divide among themselves. A short time ago I met Bunting. He said he had been to Ottawa, and had now power to defeat the Mowat Government, and that I would get all that I had been promised. I told him about what Kirkland promised

The facts are apparent to all who have read the evidence as far as it has been published. The song, "Milkmaid and Dandy," by Miss Marion and Master Murray Johnston; a song by Miss Kendal, Physical exercises by the scholars, and recitation by Miss Alice Dickson "The Owl Critic" are entitled to honorable mention. These pieces were all well done, shewing that the performers all have good talents and have been carefully trained by their teacher, Miss Maggie Mowat, who also recited the "Soldier's Pardon" in a way that shewed she was well qualified to teaach elocution. "The Scotch Tea Party" represented two Scotch women, having a quiet tea and an old-fashioned gossip, and you may be sure some of their neighbours and their neighbours' bonnets were handled without gloves. At the close of the piece a man said, " How true to life:" of course he meant that it was well acted, and not that Scotch women have a habit of gossiping, for this is something they never do; it is only the "horrid men" who gossip. This dialogue was by two young ladies of Napan and to say it as follows :-Offices of Burnt Church and Church was well done would only give a faint idea of the perfect way it was acted. Mr. Johnston sang the "Barrin' o' the Door" in such a style as to convince every one that none but a Scotchman can sing a Scotch song. Ontario has two hatcheries, and for years we have heard of the millions of young salmon, whitefish and pickerel put into the great lakes and the other waters of the Province. What has been the result? Has one dollar's worth of good been done? We know that none of the salmon ever come to the fishermen's nets.

or to the markets of Ontario. Indeed, it is not pretended that any have been caught, but it has been pleaded as a reason for continuing this wasteful expenditure!that the salmon are in the Lakes, but that they prefer the deep water in which they cannot be caught. It was pretended for a time that the number of whitefish had really increased, but this pretence has, we believe, been abandoned. It is waste of so much money? Will not some
