The Company grew tired of his services and did not pay his salary and he was told that he could use the presses and other plant and make what he could out of the operation. It is a very peculiar arrangement and quite easy for the alleged proprietor, but not one calculated to appeal to the support of the community against the ADVANCE, which has been established and maintained by its proprietor at no small personal sacrifice. We have had some queer cranks running newspapers in Chatham at times, and the people ought brother, Master LeBarron, are visiting to learn that the credit of the place is better maintained by giving their patron-Patrick Parcell, Esq., was in town yes- age to those whose investments are gurrantee of permanency.

Boards and Shingles Not Good Enough.

The World pretends that a correspond

The object of the World is, however, quite apparent, -viz., to have a fling at the enterprise to which it refers as "the last board and shingle structure built on the coast." To those who know as much as we do about the World, that paper's contempt for "boards and shingles" and "board and shingle structures" is amus ing-a remainder of the "beggar on horseback" proverb. One would fancy that " boards and shingles" were beneath the World writer's notice and that a hotel built of anything less substantial than stone need not expect the favor of that paper. Mr. R. B. Adams, who is President of the Chatham Laborers' Association, appears to be very much out of temper over our reply to the long letter in which he vented from doing any damage by the attacked the ADVANCE a while ago. We made no reference to Mr. Adams in these columns, but dealt with the strike in a moderate manner and with every desirea to have the men act as their best interests and those of the port demanded they should. Mr. A. could have also written on the subject without being personal and unnecessarily offensive, but he did not do so and we, therefore, dealt with him as the circumstances seemed to demand. In his "card" in yesterday's World he is weak and silly enough to employ vile language and indulge in threats which are discreditable to the association of which he is the head and calculated to disgrace himself. He could, we presume, be no more vile in language than the person in whose interest he is really attacking Mr. Smith, but it is, perhaps, an evidence his prudence that he does not go as far as he would wish to do. If ever he should feel disposed to be properly hung up on exhibition he, no doubt, knows just how to secure the attention at our hands. The wonder is that even his callous impudence is sufficient to prompt him to run the risk he does, by appearing in print at all. The sooner the workingmen purge themselves of him the safer and better off they will be as a society. He seems a most indiscreet and dangerous guide.

The new Government Building.

Plans for the new building soon to erected here, and for the construction of which tenders have been invited, have been for some days past in the Customs Office for the benefit of contractors and others interested in the work. ### The Expenditure of Public Money.

[Published by request from the Globe." We publish the following letters, although with some doubt, after striking out from the principal one one or two exressions which seem to be unnecessarily offensive. It may be well to point out that Mr. Livingston says that certain things are "alleged," that he "has been nformed," etc. We dare say that all the facts can be got at by moving in the House of Assembly for the papers. The letters are as follows: To the Editor of the Globe :-

Sir,—I ask space in your paper for the publication of the enclosed letter to Hon. P. G. Ryan, hoping that you will open your columns that the ends of justice may be met.

4. That no returns have been published in the report of the Chief Commissioner of Public Works 5. That all efforts made by the subscriber to btain full particulars as to the disposal of the money by the Government, of which you are a member, have proved futile.

6. That in the interest of public and political morality such information should be given.

Therefore, I request that the subject of this be placed before your colleagues in the Government.

Yours respectfully,

Gordon Livingston.
