WHAT THEY SAY IN ENGLAND.

TORONTO, Ont., May 19. - The Globe's cable from London, 18th, says: All the leading journals to-day congratulate Canada on what they deem the practical suppression of the rebellion in the North west. They compliment the troops on the skill and courage displayed by commanders and men. In most quarters the hope is expressed that the Government will not repeat the previous error of showing leniency to Riel.

The new building erected by J. The contracter, Mr. Jas. Mowatt. has done an excellent job, and the new structure, is one of the best frame stores in Chatham. It is situated on the corner of Water and Cunard Street, the ground plan being 34 ft. 6 on Water and 30 ft. on Cunard St. The building is two and a half stories high and is divided into two separate stores on the ground floor, these being 30x20 ft. and 30x14 ft. respectively. The second floor is similarly divided, the larger portion, as well as the whole of the third floor being connected with the corner store, in which Mr Goggin will continue his extensive hardware business. The other store is to be occuried as a stationery and fancy by Mr. Moss and is an excellent place for the purpose. The floor above this store is 30x14ft, and is divided into two rooms which will be reached by a separate stairway from Water Street. Mr. Warren C. Winslow's law offices will be located on this floor. The front of the building presents an attractive appearance, being composed almost entirely of glass in the lower storey while the upper floors are also well lighted. When the stores are stocked the well known corner will present a much more attractive appearance than it ever did before.

The Fight with Poundmaker

A Toronto despatch of 6th says,-The following account of the fight at Poundmaker's reserve has been received: Col. Otter, with three hundred men, consisting of the mounted police, a Gatling gun, two seven pounders, the Battleford Rifles, the Queen's Own and the Ottawa Guards left Battleford at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon for Poundmaker's, 34 miles up Battle River. The force reached its destination at daybreak on Saturday. Nineteen head of cattle were seen on the hills out at "Cut Knife Creek" and we started for them. The scouts were leading, followed by the guns. We at once came upon the tepees and the Indians opened fire. The Indians had laid a trap for us and were scattered all around with half-breeds among them. At the outset they charged and attempted to capture the guns. They came within from Cow Bay, C. Official Report of the Battle of Batouche.

OTTAWA, May 15. - In the Commons to day, before the order of the day was called, Hon. Mr. Caron said : I desire to read to the house a more lengthy report of the battle of Batoche, which I have received from Gen. Middleton, which will be of interest. It is as follows:

FROM BATOCHE. N. W. T. To Hon. A. P. Caron :-Since my last evening's despatch you, I have ascertained some particulars of our victory, which was most complete. I have myself counted twelve half-breeds on the field and we have four wounded breeds in the hospital and two Sioux. Among the wounded breeds is one Ambrose Joubin, a councillor, and Joseph Delorme. As far as I can ascertain, Riel and Gabriel Dumont left as soon as they saw us getting well in, but I cannot ascertain for certain which side of the river Riel is on, but think it must be on this side. The extraordinary skill displayed in making rifle pits at the exact proper points, and the number of them, i very remarkable: and had we advanced rashly or heedlessly I believe we might have been destroyed. The effect was remarkable. The enemy ront of our left was forced back from pit to pit, and those in the strongest pits facing east found them turned and our men behind them. Then commenced seuve qui pent, and they fled, leaving blankets, coats, hats, boots, trousers, and even guns in their pits. At any rate, the victory will, I trust, have dispelled the idea that the half-breeds and Indians can withstand the attack of resolute whites properly led, and will tend to remove the unaccountable scare that seems to have entered into the minds of so many in the North West as regards the prowess and powers of fighting of the Indians and breeds. There is not a sight of the enemy on either side of the river for miles.

(Signed) FRED. MIDDLETON.

ON THE ROAD, MAY 10TH, 1885. DEAR ADVANCE. - A few brief notes of trip from Maine to Doaktown in Miramicki in New Brunswick may be of interest to your readers after an absence of sometime, On reaching Fredericton we were gratified to notice the improvements at that place, the most noticeable of which is the new bridge in course of erection across the St. John river, the material being pitch pine and abutments of cedar faced with iron and birch plank of immense thickness, the work eliciting the warmest approval of my American travelling companion. We next visited the Miramichi Valley R. R. and Mr. Gibson's new Cotton Factory, and were highly pleased with the courtesy and attention shown us at Marysville, which made my American cousin think that the people of New Brunswick were second to none in the world in kindness and hospitality. On returning to St. Mary's we hailed and boarded the Miramichi Stage, which is owned by the noted Robert Swim of Doaktown, which was loaded down with young men returning from the States most of whom thought New Brunswick was as good a place as any other, and were coming home to stay. After jogging on a few miles our gait improved quite noticeably and, steam-engine-like, the more was admirable.

Travelling up the Nashwaak we had hours. Col. Otter intended advancing passing views of the Miramichi Valley on the tepees, but the gun carriages | R. R., which is a monument of the pluck. taking the wagons with him and also ball and Gibson. Those two gentlemen from the killed and wounded. The enemy numbered up- overcame, both financially and politically. wards of six hundred and their loss is not and by their sterling and gentlemanly conduct have won the people along the route over to their side. Arriving in Boiestown, we found the Scott Act was not observed very generally.

says Poundmaker has moved his camp selves or the stage, we did not know which, and the invitations to drink were judged the kindness of the people by the offers of whiskey and felt their hospitality was extremely great. After changing horses and making a fresh start, everything being common property and all being socially jolly, everybody got on and those who couldn't stay on fell off. Nobody stopped for those who were left and if those that fell off couldn't catch up, nobody on board thought anything of it-Passing on down the river we were fairly into Ludlow. We could not but remember its jug taverns. We could not forget that within its borders the salmon grows poor and thin in trying to escape the endless nets and snares laid to catch him. In Ludlow. however, there are many good and worthy people. We at length arrived in Doaktown-that noted centre of politics. where every man is a leading politician, where the sky comes down all around alike and makes it so very central, but destined some day to be a busy, thriving village, when the R. R. is built, with a station house at the place. Its thriving, energetic people and agricultural resources will not permit it to be left behind in the race for prosperity. We were met by our old friend, Harvey Doak, who runs the grist mill, carding and saw mill and is, withal, a prosperous agriculturist, very active in introducing farm machinery into Doaktown. We also met our old friend, John L. Murray, Hotel Keeper: also Sam'l Freeze, who cuts clapboards and shingles, also W. Swim, Esq , ex-M. P. P. who is a terror to evil doers in his capacity of J. P., and the largest land owner in Blissfield, the best expounder of law and equity on the Southwest, with a good legal mind and would have made a successful lawyer had he turned his attention in that direction. We missed our old friend, Mr. Freeze, senr., whose house was open to all and who first espoused the cause of Confederation in Doaktown and on the Southwest generally, and stuck to that extraordinary politician. Hon. P. Mitchell, through thick and thin. He was sadly neglected or pushed aside by Mr. Mitchell in his declining years, but was not the only one who received that treatment. He had hoped to live to see the steam cars pass through his vil lage and died on the eve of the accomplishment of his hopes. Other old friends were missing. Some pool, London & Globe for $2900. Mr. L. | ribly frightened, but I have reassured | ises of chances in the woods. The coun-Jarvis, the head agent at St. John, them and protected them. There is a re- try will not be controlled politically and Lumbering on the Chippewa.

An Eau Claire, Wis., correspondent of the ADVANCE writing under date of 4th

"Business is somewhat duller than heretofore; notwithstanding, however, the saw mills are all commencing work. Some of them have been in operation since the 15th ultimo. It is safe to predict a full season's sawing, in view the stock of logs on the streams, and the prospects of lumber advancing. There was out during the last winter on the Chippewa, and its tributaries-aside from the Menominie-six hundred and fifty million feet of pine. The estimate of old logs was three hundred million, or a total of 950,000,000. Seventy-five per cent of the above is controlled by the Chippewa Logging Company; whose headquarters are at Chippewa Falls. The Company own mills from Hannibal, Mo. to the above named place. The manufactured lumber is sent to market both by water and rail. The latter method, which has recently been adopted, has called planing and manufacturing mills both into existence at about every saw mill on the river, which means a large
